THE LATEST.

The funeral of Mrs. William McKinley took place yesterday at Canton, O. The simple services held at the McKinley residence were witnessed by a distinguished company, including President Roosevelt, Vice President Fairbanks, Gov. Harris and many high officials. During the funeral and the progress of the cortege to the cemetery all business in Canton not absolutely necessary ceased. Banks, stores, factories, amusement houses and parks all closed in honor of the distinguished dead, and school children were dismissed from the day's tasks.

Attorneys representing the defense and the Commonwealth in the cases against Hargis and others, charged with the murder of Dr. B. D. Cox, will hold a conference in Sandy Hook with a view to agreeing on some suitable lawyer to act as Special Judge in the trial of the cases. The suggestion of a conference came from Gov. Beckham, who will appoint the man chosen. The Commonwealth's Attorney will prosecute the cases, but will ask a continuance until the next term of court.

In an extended opinion, the Court of Appeals holds that the change of venue granted by Special Judge Carnes, at Jackson, includes all the cases and not simply that against Judge James Hargis. It was maintained by the Commonwealth that only the Hargis case went to Sandy Hook, while the venue in the others remained in Breathitt.

Wheat was weak on the Chicago market yesterday. Weather conditions over the afflicted wheat fields were again favorable and the effect of this was shown in a rather sharp decline at the opening. There was an immediate recovery, but the underlying tone of the market was weak.

W. Rogers Clay, of Lexington, has been suggested as Court of Appeals Commissioner to succeed John D. Carroll, it being suggested by attorneys that the court needs the commissioner in spite of the recent addition to the personnel of the court.

The Internal Revenue Bureau is without a chief at Washington, and the question of the appointment of a commissioner would seem to be in abeyance pending the decision of Pearl Wight, of Louisiana, as to his acceptance of the position.

The name of Dr. J. W. Fowler has been suggested to Gov. Beckham as a suitable man for the position of Mayor of Louisville. A committee from Louisville presented Dr. Fowler's name to the Governor yesterday.

Thomas D. Jordan, former Controller of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, yesterday pleaded not guilty to nineteen indictments. Bail was fixed at $10,000 on one count and Mr. Jordan was released.

A rumor that Michael Czolgosz, a brother of the assassin of President McKinley, would be in Canton, O., yesterday caused some alarm in that city until it was proved to be without foundation.

The Japanese Association has given out a statement at San Francisco declaring that the recent attacks of Japanese residents were due to race prejudice and were without provocation.

A petition for a receiver for the Chicago-New York Air Line railroad was filed before Judge Windes, of the Circuit Court, in Chicago yesterday by ten stockholders of the company.

HARGIS EAGER FOR TRIAL NOW

Lawyers Will Try To Agree On Special Judge.

Conference With Commonwealth's Attorney.

Governor Suggests This Plan of Action.

BIG CHIEF PLAYS MARBLES.

Sandy Hook, Ky., May 29.—[Special.]—With no appointment of a special judge to try the Hargises for alleged complicity in the murder of Dr. B. D. Cox, efforts will be made to-morrow morning by the defendants and Attorney Young to agree with Commonwealth's Attorney John Waugh on some man to preside. A conference between the attorneys was arranged to-night over the telephone and will be held upon the arrival of Mr. Waugh to-morrow. Attorney Young said to the representative of the Commonwealth that any Judge selected by him would be acceptable to the defense and at the same time suggested Judge John A. Dougherty, of Owingsville, and unless Gov. Beckham names someone in the meantime Judge Dougherty will likely be the man.

Deputy Circuit Clerk James W. Sparks, who went to Frankfort to notify the Governor of Judge Redwine's refusal to preside and to secure the commission for a special Judge, returned home this afternoon without the necessary papers. He said the Governor assured him he would consider the matter and make the appointment as soon as he could find a proper man who would accept the appointment. Mr. Sparks informed Gov. Beckham of the presence of Judge Dougherty and Judge Lykens in Sandy Hook and that either of them would accept the appointment, but no assurance was given him, he said, that either of these men would be asked by the Governor to preside.

* * *

Governor Busy With Louisville.

The Governor is quoted as having said that his time was so occupied in considering the appointment of suitable men to conduct the municipal affairs in the city of Louisville that he hardly had time at present to consider any other matters of importance.

The fact that it is a hard matter to find a Judge to try the Breathitt fued cases was demonstrated before Judge John L. Dorsey accepted the commission to preside in the trials of the Hargises, Callahan and French for the Marcum murder. At that time Gov. Beckham is said to have asked fully twenty men, among them several prominent lawyers of Louisville, to act as special Judge, but none of them would agree to spend two or three weeks in the mountains, and for that reason it is believed this appointment will fall to some one who resides in the mountain section of the State.

* * *

Waugh Will Prosecute.

The many rumors which have filled the air for the past few days regarding the attitude of Commonwealth's Attorney John Waugh were set at rest this morning by receipt of a telegram and later a telephone message from Mr. Waugh, in which his views were made plain. In response to a telegram sent by the Courier-Journal correspondent asking him if he would prosecute the Hargises, Mr. Waugh wired that he would be here at the proper time to do his duty. In discussing the case later over the telephone Mr. Waugh said that the regular term of the Carter Circuit Court begins at Grayson next Monday morning and for that reason it would be impossible to try any of the feud cases at this term of court.

He said, however, that he would be here at or about the time of the arrival of the special Judge to look after the interest of the Commonwealth, all rumors to the contrary notwithstanding, and that if the cases were to be tried in Elliott county, he would be present to do his full duty, Hargises or no Hargises.

* * *

Will Ask Continuance.

He said no efforts had been made by the Commonwealth to prepare for a trial at this term of court because the question of the change of venue hung fire in the Court of Appeals until the term had almost expired. He said he would be on hand to ask for a continuance until the next term of court or until a special term some weeks later at a time when his time would not be occupied in another court in the district. When the fact that a continuance would be asked for by the Commonwealth was communicated to Judge Hargis and Will Young, Hargis said it would be opposed if the absence of witnesses was the excuse to be offered by the prosecution. He said the same motion was made at Beattyville when he was called to trial for the murder of James B. Marcum and with permission of the presiding Judge, John L. Dorsey, he secured the attendance of the witnesses to testify against him. He said the same could be done here and if the court would furnish him three or four special bailiffs he would have every witness on both sides in three days.

* * *

Hargis Eager For Trial.

Hargis is simply spoiling for a trial and every effort on the part of the Commonwealth to secure a continuance will be bitterly opposed by the defense, but it is the consensus of opinion that a continuance will have to be granted in view of the fact that the time of the prosecuting attorney will be occupied in his duties in Carter county next week.

Even with the official representative of the Commonwealth present and ready to act when the Breathitt feudists are called in a trial at this or any other term of court very little progress can be made by him without the assistance of Byrd and Jouett or some other person familiar with the witnesses and the testimony, and from a reliable source it has been learned that neither of the Winchester attorneys will take any part in the proceedings in Elliott county. Judge Hargis said today it was reported in Jackson that Judge T. P. Cardwell, Jr., brother-in-

LEE'S VETERANS POURING INTO CITY

RICHMOND ENTERTAINING ONCE RAGGED BATTALIONS.

OLD CITY WELCOMING HER GRAY-COATED GUESTS.

J. E. B. STUART STATUE.

Richmond, Va., May 29.—[Special.]—Robert E. Lee's once ragged battalions are now pouring into the city by the hundreds. By to-morrow thousands of them will be mobilized in the capital of the Confederacy. All along it has been predicted that the crowd of veterans who proposed coming here would be an immense one, but this morning's arrivals indicated that the throng will be greater than even the more optimistic had hoped for. The old city is fully prepared to entertain all her gray-coated guests.

Dr. Thomas F. Owen, of Montgomery, Ala., commander-in-chief of the United Sons of Confederate Veterans, arrived with his staff this morning from Asheville, N. C. Among those in Dr. Owen's party are A. C. Saxton, Adjutant General, of Montgomery, Ala.; R. G. Banks, Quartermaster General; Dr. C. Hamilton, Surgeon General; John Collinsworth, of Humboldt, Tex., Judge Advocate General; the Rev. John Caldwell, Chaplain General; Miss Eva Conner, sponsor; Miss Julia F. Williams and Miss Amy McRae Werth, maids of honor; Mrs. J. C. Lee, matron of honor, and Mrs. L. B. Perry, chaperon.

The first feature of the reunion was a reception to-night at Lee Camp Hall in honor of the visiting women of the Confederacy and the veterans. Among those in the receiving line were Mrs. Stonewall Jackson, Mrs. J. E. B. Stuart, Miss Mary Curtis Lee, Mrs. Mary Hayes, daughter of President Davis, and others.

The reunion proper will not be convened until to-morrow morning. In the afternoon the equestrian statue of Gen. J. E. B. Stuart will be unveiled.

Young Stewart Ill.

Newport News, Va., May 29.—J. E. B. Stuart, Jr., a son of Capt. J. E. B. Stuart, of this city and grandson of the famous Confederate cavalry leader, who was to have unveiled the monument to Gen. Stuart in Richmond to-morrow, was stricken with appendicitis last night and an operation will be performed.

COURT COMMISSIONER MAY BE RETAINED

W. ROGERS CLAY SUGGESTED TO SUCCEED J. D. CARROLL.

Frankfort, Ky., May 29.—[Special.]—William Rogers Clay, of Lexington, is being urged by his friends for election by the Court of Appeals as Commissioner of the court to succeed Judge John D. Carroll, of Henry county, who yesterday was elevated by the Governor to a seat on the bench. It was not thought that the court would fill this place, it having been created by the General Assembly solely because of the physical condition of Judge Cantrill and with the understanding that it would be abolished when he became either an active member or retired from service, but quite a number of lawyers are of the opinion that the court needs a Commissioner to assist it in its work, and think that the place should be continued, at least for the next few years.

ULTIMATUM AS TO LOCKED-OUT MOTORMEN.

Birmingham, Ala., May 29.—The Birmingham Trades Council at a meeting to-night issued an ultimatum to the Birmingham Railway Light and Power Company to reinstate the locked-out motormen and conductors by 10 o'clock Monday morning or every union man in the district will be called out at that time.

MRS. M'KINLEY LAID TO REST

Beside Her Distinguished Husband In West Lawn.

Simple Funeral Services At Old-Fashioned Home.

Thousands of People Along Route To Cemetery.

PRESIDENT PAYS TRIBUTE.

Canton, O., May 29.—The body of Ida Saxton McKinley to-night rests beside that of her distinguished husband in West Lawn cemetery. Her last words, "O God, why should I linger? Let me lie beside him," have been answered.

The funeral services held at the old-fashioned McKinley home were extremely simple. Four songs were sung, the same that were sung at the funeral of President McKinley and the service was the simple ritual of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

The house on its Market and Louis street sides was roped off to restrain the crowds which thronged the neighboring thoroughfare. A broad lavender ribbon fluttered from the door to indicate a house of mourning and only a few intimate friends visited the house during the forenoon. Aside from the ropes strung along the streets there was nothing to indicate that a ceremony of unusual import was about to take place. It was not until the funeral services were actually being performed that the streets became crowded and the crowds were held under excellent check by the local police.

* * *

The President's Arrival.

President Roosevelt arrived at 12:45 p. m., and was driven immediately to the residence of Associate Justice of the Supreme Court Day, for luncheon. Among others at the table were Secretaries Root, Cortelyou and Wilson; Gov. Harris and former Gov. Herrick, of Ohio.

Immediately after the luncheon the President and party were driven to the McKinley home on North Market street. The body in its black casket rested in its flower-embowered place in the so-called "campaign office" in the identical spot where President McKinley's body lay after the Buffalo tragedy. Flowers in set pieces and merely fastened together by ribbon with the roses which Mrs. McKinley favored, predominating, filled the room, while many more for which there was not room in the house were sent to West Lawn cemetery ahead of the cortege.

President Roosevelt, Vice President Fairbanks and Cabinet members Root, Wilson and Cortelyou occupied seats in the parlor across the hall. In this room also were Gov. Harris and former Gov. Herrick. Relatives and immediate friends of the family were seated in the hall and adjoining rooms.

While the services were being conducted by the Rev. Dr. Buxton of the First Methodist Episcopal church and the Rev. Dr. Holmes, formerly pastor of the same church, all business and amusement in Canton stopped. Retail stores, schools and places of amusement, both in the city and surrounding country, were closed and the street cars in the vicinity of the McKinley home did not run.

* * *

The Services.

Thousands of people lined the sidewalks and were pressed behind the ropes along North Market and Louis streets and all along the route to West Lawn cemetery flags were at half mast and men and women in somber garb lined the way. The services at the McKinley home were as follows:

"Nearer, My God, to Thee."

"I am the Resurrection," by the Rev. Dr. Buxton.

Ninetieth Psalm, "Lord, Thou Hast Been Our Dwelling Place"—Dr. Holmes.

Duet, "The Angel," by Rubenstein—Mrs. Green and Mrs. Clark.

"Lead, Kindly Light"—quartette.

Prayer—Dr. Holmes.

Quartette, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere"—Mrs. George Clark, Mrs. Rachael Frease Green, Emerson Krause, Ralph Brown.

At the grave the services were as follows:

"Man That Is Born of a Woman"—by Dr. Holmes.

Committal, "For as Much as It Hath Pleased"—Dr. Buxton.

"I Heard a Voice"—Dr. Holmes.

Prayer, "Almighty God"—Dr. Buxton.

The Collect—Revs. Buxton and Holmes.

"Our Father Who Art in Heaven"—Dr. Buxton.

Benediction—Dr. Holmes.

The pallbearers were: Judge Henry W. Harter, John C. Dueber, Joseph Blechele, Robert W. Cassidy and George B. Frease, who were honorary pallbearers at the funeral of President McKinley, and Austin Lynch, R. S. Shields and Judge C. C. Bow.

When the services in the cemetery were over the presidential party returned immediately to the Baltimore and Ohio depot, where the 4:35 train for Indianapolis was taken.

NO INCIDENT OF SINISTER IMPORT.

Rumor That Michael Czolgosz Was In Canton Proves To Be Without Foundation.

Canton, O., May 29.—Despite a rumor of doubtful origin that Michael Czolgosz, brother of the assassin of President McKinley, would be in Canton today, the funeral of Mrs. McKinley and the contingent visit of President Roosevelt passed off without incident of sinister note.

Taking precaution against the one chance in a thousand that the rumor of Czolgosz's presence here was true, the local police assisted by secret service men from Washington and Cleveland exercised the most alert vigilance during the President's stay in the city. No trace whatsoever was found of Czolgosz nor any anarchist, although three strangers to the city were held in the jail during the President's stay. There was nothing against them, however, and they were released this evening. That the police were taking no chances was made evident by the quick shift in arrangements made at the McKinley home. All friends and relatives

BLOWS OUT BRAINS ON WIFE'S GRAVE

KENTUCKIAN'S SORROW TOO GREAT TO BE BORNE ANY LONGER.

Lexington, Ky., May 29.—[Special.]—A telegram was received at Paris today from Waukesha, Wis., stating that Dr. James K. Jamison had committed suicide about 11 o'clock to-day on his wife's grave in the cemetery at Waukesha by shooting himself through the head.

Dr. Jamison was for several years a prominent young veterinary surgeon of Paris, where his parents still live, and was widely known all over the Bluegrass region. Three years ago he married Miss Ethel Gibson, of Waukesha, and moved to Chicago to practice his profession. Last February his wife died at Chicago after an operation for appendicitis and was buried at Waukesha.

The husband seemed prostrated with grief and had made frequent journeys to Waukesha to strew flowers on his dead wife's grave. Early in this month he was in Paris on a visit to his parents, leaving there on May 10. Since that time his parents have heard nothing from him until to-day, while they were eating their midday dinner they received the telegram stating that their son had killed himself.

MR. CANNON VISITS HIS BIRTHPLACE

MAKES AN ADDRESS AT GUILFORD COLLEGE IN NORTH CAROLINA.

Greensboro, N. C., May 29.—Speaker Joseph G. Cannon, of the House of Representatives, to-day addressed the students and faculty of Guilford College, within two miles of the place of his birth, the occasion being the annual commencement exercises. His speech dealt mainly with the wonderful progress of the country and especially of North Carolina and the South. He declared that no part of the country had made greater strides in recent years than North Carolina. This afternoon Speaker Cannon spoke at the laying of the cornerstone of the new dormitory of the college.

A dinner was given the Speaker this evening and this was followed by a reception in the rooms of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Club, which was largely attended. To-night he left for Washington. This was the Speaker's first visit to the State since he left here many years ago when but a child.

BLIND BROOMMAKER DIES IN OLD AGE

SUPPORTED HIMSELF IN SPITE OF HANDICAP IN LIFE'S RACE.

Hopkinsville, Ky., May 29.—[Special.]—James Milton West, of Carl, died today aged sixty years. Mr. West had been blind since birth, but notwithstanding this handicap had earned a good livelihood by making brooms, bottoming chairs and weaving baskets. His brooms were so popular in the country that he never had any trouble in disposing of his entire output. He was also a talented violinist. He was a consecrated member of the Baptist church. His wife and one son, Dave West, survive him.

"LADY FLO" ACCEPTS THE TEN THOUSAND.

El Paso, Tex., May 29.—Flora Wolf, commonly called "Lady Flo," the negress who set up a claim against the estate of the late Lord Delaval Beresford for his common-law wife, to-day accepted the ten thousand dollars devised to her by the will of Lord Beresford, and an additional five thousand dollars, waiving all claims to the estate and certifying that she was never, either in law or in fact, the wife of Lord Beresford.

MAY HAVE TO RUN ITSELF

Internal Revenue Bureau Lacks a Chief.

Appointment Held Up For Word From Wight.

Dover's Cold Water For the Taft Managers.

COMPLAINT OF MRS. DUKE.

Washington, May 29.—[Special.]—Unless a Commissioner of Internal Revenue is appointed before midnight tomorrow, officials of the Internal Revenue Bureau have serious doubts of the validity of any decision made by the acting commissioner after that date. The revised statute seem to make it clear that an acting commissioner can hold the office but thirty days.

Like all big offices the Internal Revenue Bureau can run itself, so far as the routine work is concerned, but in the formulating of rules and regulations which may have to stand the test of the courts there is more than a doubt. As the President is out of town and no appointment to the commissionership can, therefore, be made to-morrow, the policy of the Internal Revenue officials will be to hold for the consideration of the new commissioner all matters of importance which may come up after Thursday.

Secretary Cortelyou returns to-morrow, and it is expected that he will at once get into communication with Pearl Wight, of Louisiana, who has been offered the place. Both the President and Mr. Cortelyou still think Mr. Wight will accept.

* * *

Dover's Cold Water.

Elmer Dover, the secretary of the Republican National Committee, has thrown cold water on the scheme of the Taft managers to hold a convention this year for the purpose of naming delegates to the National Convention. Dover thinks that delegates can't be selected for a convention until after the meeting of the National Committee in December, when the time and place for the National Convention are agreed upon. Ohio politicians, therefore, do not believe a convention will be insisted upon by the Taft forces this summer.

"But there is another and an important consideration," said an Ohio man to-day, "and that is, a convention this summer would immediately disclose to the country the extent of the friction in Ohio politics and the fact that there is dangerous factional feeling which might militate against Secretary Taft's prospects in other States where support is sought. Politicians would immediately point to the Kilkenny Fair conditions prevailing in Ohio, as shown by the wrangling in convention."

Ohio politics will drag along for a while without further incident, it is thought. Secretary Taft's friends say there is no doubt of his receiving the indorsement of the State for the presidency, and Senator Foraker's and Senator Dick's friends will busy themselves with looking out for the senatorial prospects of the two Senators, while efforts at harmony will be continued.

First Accident Policy.

"The first accident insurance policy ever issued in this country," said Senator Bulkeley, of Connecticut, himself at the head of a big insurance company, to-night, "was for $5,000 and the cost of it to the man insured was one cent.

"J. G. Batterson, late president of a big accident company, decided to introduce such insurance in this country, it having been tried in England.

"He organized the scheme, and when all was ready he called in his brother. The brother was insured only for the trip from the office to the railroad station, a distance of two blocks. If he was hurt or killed in that short walk a policy of $5,000 would be paid.

"He paid a premium of one cent.

"He returned from the short walk unharmed and the policy was null and void. The big copper cent was carefully treasured and it hangs to-day in the office of the company as the first amount of money paid for accident insurance on this continent. Millions of dollars have been paid in since the modest beginning of that one coin."

Mrs. Duke's Complaint.

According to statements made by officials of the Post-office Department to-day nothing has yet reached the department here in reference to the report that Mrs. Lillian N. Duke, the divorced wife of the wealthy tobacco king, James B. Duke, has appealed to the department to end what she is said to have termed a most extraordinary system of persecution by means of surveillance and anonymous letters.

Chief Inspector Vickery said that his division was aware of no complaint being filed. The objectionable letters are said to have been mailed at Philadelphia, New York and other points, and according to the statement made by Mrs. Duke, have become more virulent than ever since the announcement has been made at Atlanta, Ga., that her former husband is to be married to Mrs. Margaret Van Dyke Inman.

Patents were issued to Kentuckians as follows: George F. Ahlers, Covington, cattle food and apparatus for making same; Joseph A. Higdon, Henderson, grain drier; George W. Mims, Paducah, nut lock; Jacob Schneider, Newport, curtain fastener; Benjamin A. Thomas, Paducah, land roller.

MUTUAL LIFE TRUSTEES NAMED TO FILL VACANCIES.

New York, May 29.—A meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Mutual Life Insurance Company was held to-day and William F. Harrity, of Philadelphia; William B. Dean, of St. Paul; Robert B. Woodward, of Brooklyn; Emory W. Clark, of Detroit; James H. Wilson, of Wilmington, Del., and Ralph Peters, of New York, were nominated to fill the existing vacancies in the board. Under the by-laws of the company the election of these nominees cannot take place until the next regular meeting of the board. Mr. Harrity was chairman of the Executive Committee of the Policyholders' Protective Association. He is a policyholder in the Mutual Life to the amount of $500,000.

STATE GUARD MAY GO TO JAMESTOWN

SOLDIER BOYS WILL HAVE TO LOSE PART OF PAY ON TRIP.

Frankfort, Ky., May 29.—[Special.]—Adjutant General Henry R. Lawrence to-day called a meeting of Gen. Roger Williams, of Lexington; Col. W. B. Haldeman, of the First Regiment; Col. J. Embry Allen, of the Second Regiment, and Col. Jouett Henry, of the Third Regiment, Kentucky State Guard, to be held here on Friday next. The purpose of the meeting is to consider propositions and determine whether the State troops can be taken on annual encampment this year to the Jamestown Exposition. The meeting will be held in the Executive Department with Governor Beckham, who is Commander-in-Chief of the State Guard.

Propositions have been received from the railroads as to the transportation of the troops, upon which hinges whether the soldiers will get the outing this year at Jamestown or have to camp somewhere in Kentucky. The commanding officers will bring information from their troops as to how much of their pay during encampment they are willing to sacrifice in order to get the trip to Virginia.

ASK GOVERNOR TO APPOINT J. W. FOWLER

NAME SUGGESTED AS SUITABLE MAN FOR MAYOR OF LOUISVILLE.

Frankfort, Ky., May 29.—[Special.]—The name of Dr. J. W. Fowler, of Louisville, was presented to the Governor to-day as a suitable man for the office of Mayor of that city to succeed Mayor Barth by appointment of the Executive.

That Dr. Fowler would like to have the office was made known to Governor Beckham by a delegation of Louisville citizens who called upon him at the State Department. In the party were Drs. Dudley Reynolds, J. B. Steedman, C. A. Edelen, and Hugh Rodman, and Joseph Nevin, T. J. Tierney, J. M. Borntraeger, Thomas Keenan, John Lancaster, Boone Rapier and M. J. Bannon. They were pleasantly received by the Governor and spent some thirty minutes closeted with him. They returned to Louisville on an afternoon train. Dr. Fowler came with the party, but was not of it on the occasion of the visit to the Governor.

THEY'LL PROVIDE SUITS FOR THE BLUE JACKETS

BUT UNCLE SAM'S SAILORS CANNOT DANCE IN THE REGULAR UNIFORM.

Norfolk, Va., May 29.—Replying to official cognizance by the Navy Department of the exclusion of enlisted men in uniform from the dancing pavilion at the Pine Beach resort, adjoining the Jamestown Exposition grounds, the management to-day said that in excluding from the dancing floor enlisted men of the navy in uniform it had no idea of willfully discriminating against the service uniform, but that owing to the public prejudice of society at close association with the uniform of enlisted men in the navy the patrons of the dance pavilion had declared they would withdraw their patronage if sailors in uniform were permitted on the floor. Only for the preservation of the profit and life of the dancing concession, they added, had action been taken by which United States seamen in uniform are excluded.

It was also stated that money had been spent in preparing white duck suits for any sailor who will change his uniform and appear on the floor in the clothes provided, free of charge.

DREW REVOLVER AND SHOT FATHER-IN-LAW.

Popular Bluff, Mo., May 29.—Former County Judge John A. Hayes was shot and mortally wounded to-day by his son-in-law, James Williamson, and the latter is under arrest. Bad feeling had existed between the two for four years and Williamson had forbidden his father-in-law to come to his home.

Hearing that his daughter was ill, Judge Hayes to-day visited Williamson's home. A quarrel ensued and Williamson claims he was struck by his father-in-law, who followed him into the house. Williamson drew a revolver and shot the Judge in the abdomen.

HUSBAND UNDER ARREST

Pending Investigation Into Death of Mrs. Levering.

Was Found Dead In Bed Nearly Two Years Ago.

Mrs. Anna Gray, a Neighbor, Makes Affidavit.

LEVERING CALLS IT SPITE.

Investigation of a charge that Charles J. Levering had plotted and conspired to cause the death of Mary Levering, his wife, by administering arsenic poisoning to her so that he might become heir to her real estate, worth about $20,000, was undertaken yesterday by the grand jury and will probably be completed to-morrow. To-day being a legal holiday, court will not sit, and the matter will not be considered. Levering was arrested yesterday at noon and charged with murder. Levering charges spitework and says he can prove his innocence.

Mrs. Levering was found dead by her husband on the morning of August 16, 1905, at their home at 174 Pope street, and there was some suspicion aroused at the time, but the Coroner's jury, after hearing all the proof obtainable, declared that death was the result of suicide and Levering was exonerated.

The suicide theory was strongly supported by the discovery of a note in Mrs. Levering's handwriting addressed to her husband, in which she had planned the deed and that she had willed her property to him.

However, the Commonwealth now has the affidavit of Mrs. Annie Gray, who lives at 1019 Charlton street, who had been on friendly terms with both Levering and his wife, and who swears that the note was written by the dead woman at her husband's dictation for the ostensible purpose of showing it to Lewis Gray, the affiant's husband, and thereby perpetrating an alleged joke upon him.

The affidavit recites further that Levering had come to the affiant's house and made up some pills consisting of flour, soot and arsenic with the avowed intention of administering them to his wife in order to get rid of her and secure her property. The arsenic, it is averred, Levering schemed to get his wife to purchase and sign her name at the drugstore where she bought the stuff.

The substance of Mrs. Gray's testimony before the grand jury yesterday is not known because the proceedings of that body are secret, but it is believed that she told the grand jurors substantially what she related to Loraine Mix, Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney, when she made her affidavit.

* * *

Why Mrs. Gray Told Story.

Mrs. Gray also informed Loraine Mix that she told what she did about the case because she was unable to conceal it further; that thoughts of the dead woman worried her continuously and that she was determined to make a full statement of what she says she knows about Levering.

Since shortly after the Coroner's jury declared that Mrs. Levering had died from suicide, Patrolmen Thomas Merrifield and David Broderick have been at work on the case in the effort to bring out testimony enough to warrant a grand jury investigation. Loraine Mix has also been giving it his attention and stated yesterday that he now believes the Commonwealth has secured evidence enough upon which to proceed against Levering. Wallace McKay has been aiding in the investigations.

Before her second marriage Mrs. Levering was the widow of W. P. Conn, who conducted a general store at Needmore, Shelby county, and at the time of his death he had secured several pieces of realty, including a valuable farm. It was in connection with duties on this farm which is supposed to have taken Levering to Shelby county on frequent trips.

Mrs. Levering was in ill health at the time and was known occasionally to quarrel violently with her husband. All these facts, taken together, led to the conclusion that she had undoubtedly killed herself. Col. Bennett H. Young represented Levering at the Coroner's jury. Norton L. Goldsmith, then Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney, stated at the conclusion of the hearing that there was nothing brought out which justified the Criminal Court authorities in taking steps. Besides Mrs. Gray, Coroner Harris Kelly, several of the Levering neighbors and Detectives Harding and Armstrong testified before the grand jury yesterday.

* * *

Wife's Will and Note.

Shortly after Mrs. Levering's death her will was offered for probate in the Shelby County Court, but its admission to the record was refused. Under its terms Levering had been left everything. The appeal he took to the higher courts was also lost. However, he holds a life interest in some of the property, while the farm is one-half absolutely in his name.

The note in which his wife is alleged to have announced her suicidal intent is as follows:

"My Dear Husband: You will be somewhat surprised when you receive this letter. My soul will be in heaven, this being my second attempt to end my life. Tell my brother and sister good-bye for me. I have given you everything I possess to be yours forever. Do not hold any serv-

Mrs. Gray's Affidavit.

Mrs. Gray's affidavit first goes into detail as to the extent of her intimacy with the Leverings. The affidavit proceeds:

"On the morning of July 4, 1905, Mary Levering came to affiant's house and seemed nervous and excited and said to affiant: 'Mr. Levering wants me to do something which is wrong. I know it is wrong and do not want to do it, but guess I will have to.' Affiant asked Mrs. Levering what it was that Mr. Levering wanted done, and Mrs. Levering replied: 'He wants me to buy a bottle of strychnine, and he told me I would have to register my name at the drug store in order to get it, and to take you, Anna Gray, with me. I replied that I would not go with her; that if she wanted anybody to go with her she had better take Mary Gillen, a little girl who lived with me. She was very much wrought up, and said: 'Oh, Anna Gray, how I hate to do this,' and Mary Levering told me that she wanted me to go to the post-office with her, as she wanted to mail the package to her husband in Shelby county, having previously promised him to do so. Affiant asked Mrs. Levering what Mr. Levering wanted with the strychnine, and she replied: 'He wants to poison Addler's cows.' And Mary Levering and Mary Gillen went to the drug store and got strychnine, and it was mailed to Charles Levering on the same day or the day before."

"Tired of His First Wife."

A week later the affiant alleges that Levering came to her house in a very much excited condition and said to her:

"I have it now [referring presumably to the poison which had been mailed to him a few days before]. I am going to fix her [referring to his wife, Mary Levering]. She will never say I had improper relations with my sister again.'

"Charles Levering several times before this had told me confidentially that he was tired of his wife; that he wanted to get her Shelby county property; that when he had everything arranged he was going to get rid of her. I remonstrated with him and told him that he had better not attempt anything of this kind, as he might get caught."

Saw Him Mix Poison.

"Levering had on Tuesday with him at my house a bottle containing strychniae which he showed to me, and he emptied in my presence an envelope containing some capsules. He said, 'Have you got any flour? I am going to give her a dose this time that will do the work. When I get this fixed right what I will do to her will be a plenty.' He went to the bin and got some flour and put it on the table. He then went to the grate and got some soot and mixed the flour and soot together so as to give it a dark appearance, almost black. He then took the strychnine, put it on the table, got some soot and filled three capsules with the flour and soot and three with strychnine and soot. He put the three containing flour and soot in one package and the three containing strychnine and soot in another and then he said:

Wife a Mean Woman.

"'I will get Mary to come back to the city from Shelby county and fix it so that she will take these capsules; I have it fixed all right and it will work, too. She is a mean woman and has given me lots of trouble; she's high-tempered and has abused my sister and slandered her character and I am going to make away with her and I will get all her property in Shelby county to boot. I have it all fixed.'"

The affidavit continues: "Shortly after he went to the country Mrs. Levering did come back and she seemed very much improved in health and in good spirits."

Note About Suicide.

Regarding the happenings of August 12 the affiant says:

"Mrs. Levering wanted me to go down to a store at Shelby and Market streets with her on a shopping trip, and I went with her, and when we came back to my home the affiant's brother, Joe Cain, was there and my husband, Lewis Gray, and Charles Levering came in also and by previous arrangement with Charles Levering Lewis Gray started a fuss with my brother, Joe Cain, and was violent and abusive with him and told him that he must stay in my house and must go away. Mary Levering also came to Joe's defense and said, 'Joe, don't be worried, you can come up to my house and stay.' My brother, Joe Cain, said, 'No, I don't care to go down there. I will find a place.' Affiant says that she gave her brother, Joe Cain, a quarter and told him to go and get a bed down town.

Affiant says that she was so mad and indignant that her husband had made up that fuss without cause or provocation, cursing and insulting him and in driving him away from their home that she cried after her brother Joe had left the house. Then at Levering's suggestion he and his wife, Mary Levering, and I left my home and went up to Levering's house on Pope street. When we got there Levering said to his wife in my presence: "Mary, let us fix up a good joke on Lewis Gray and make him sorry he treated his wife's brother as he did. Let us make Lewis Gray believe that Anna Gray, in a fit of anger and despondency over the treatment her brother Joe received at his (Lewis Gray's) hands, is going to commit suicide. It will be a good joke on Lewis Gray and scare him up. I tell you, Mary, how we can work it. You just write a note threatening to commit suicide, and I will take it to Lewis Gray and tell him that his wife (Anna Gray) is going to commit suicide and see how scared he will be." Mary Levering agreed to write the note and sat down at the table with pen and ink and Charles Levering dictated it to her.

"The first note did not seem to suit Levering, and he tore it up and told his wife to write another. He dictated and his wife wrote another note, and it was the identical note which was found in Levering's home after the death of Mary Levering. This was on Saturday. On the following Sunday morning I came home from Levering's house, and on the morning of the same day Levering came down to my house and he told his wife in my presence that he had some medicine for her which would be very beneficial to her to take according to directions. He said: 'These will be a good tonic for your stomach, and will make you feel better.' She still complained occasionally of stomach trouble, and was always willing to try any remedy to make her feel better.

Tonic For Her Stomach.

"Levering said to his wife: 'Mary, here are some capsules, three in one package and three in another. You take these three capsules to-day and see if they don't make you feel better, and Anna will get you another three Monday night to take. If they improve you, take the other three day after to-morrow, and if they don't improve you, still take these three and they will make you feel good.' Levering took the first three capsules and handed them to her at affiant's house on Saturday. Affiant says that Levering left the city for Shelbyville the same day.

Affiant charges that Mrs. Levering told her that she had expected some company on Monday, but that she believed her husband had schemed to keep them away from the house, and that she was very much provoked at him. It is averred that Mrs. Levering told Mrs. Gray that she wrote a letter to her husband on Tuesday morning giving him a piece of her mind. It is further alleged that Mrs. Levering and her husband frequently quarreled, and that Mrs. Levering told affiant that she was tired of him and wished to make him leave her property alone.

Apparent Premonition.

Mrs. Gray gives the following description of her visit to Mrs. Levering's on the night she is said to have taken the poison:

"She said that she had taken her medicine, but that she did not have much faith in it. After supper we sat on the porch talking, when Mrs. Levering jumped up in a startled way, as if she had been frightened. She whirled about on the porch and started upstairs, calling to me to come after her. I followed, being also startled at her strange manner, and when she got upstairs she began to pull off her shoes and stockings, crying and cursing Charles Levering and his sister. I asked her what was the matter, and she turned on me and began abusing and cursing me in a strange way.

"I was going to leave and go home, and she said: 'Go on.' She came down stairs after me and let me out the door. She closed the door, and affiant went home.

"I will never forget the picture she presented at the door. Her hair was down, her eyes swollen, the pupils dilated and she was shrieking like a demon and shaking like a person with a violent chill. Shortly after she took her medicine I went back in the house with her, and she took up a box which contained her medicine, and she said she had taken it to kill or cure. This was Tuesday evening late. I went home and remained home until the following Wednesday morning until about 10 o'clock, when a man came to my house and called me out.

"When I came to the door he said: 'Charles Levering wants you over to his house right away. His wife is dead.' I hurried and got ready and went over to the house and found the dead body of Mary Levering. My brother came about the time I did, and when looking through the house he found the note which Charles Levering had dictated to his wife several days ago, and near the note was a package containing some poison. At the house, when Levering was asked about his wife's clothes and was told to get her nicest clothes to dress her in, he said: 'She didn't care anything about these clothes. Damn her, anything is good enough for her.'"

His Fourth Wife.

Mrs. Mary Levering was Levering's fourth wife. He is said to have been divorced from two of them some time prior to 1901. In 1901 he was divorced from his third wife, Lottie Levering, who seven months after their separation bore him a child. Two years ago she sued him for maintenance of the child in a supplemental proceeding. Levering first filed an answer in which he denied that Lottie Levering was the proper person to have custody of the child and stated that he was the proper person. Later, after a change of attorneys, he filed another answer in which he denied the paternity of the child and when the case came to trial attempted to prove it. The court denied his contention and held him liable to the extent of $1.00 for maintenance. Several days ago Al Marrel, attorney for Lottie Levering, sued Levering to enforce collection of the judgment.

Officers Work Two Years.

Immediately after the Coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide Mr. Mix, Mr. McKay and Patrolmen Merrifield and Broderick began to work on the case. Firmly believing that Mrs. Gray knew more about the affair than she told at the Coroner's inquest, they directed their efforts toward getting a confession from her, if she had any confession to make. Patrolmen Merrifield and Broderick worked quietly on the case during the past two years in spite of the fact that when a suicide verdict was returned by the Coroner's jury all the papers that had been filled with Levering were returned to him and the public had practically forgotten the circumstances of the inquiry.

Mrs. Gray, it is said, heard that the patrolmen were working diligently on the case and during the last year was subjected to much suspense and anxiety. On the twelfth day of this month, according to Patrolman Merrifield, she telephoned him and Broderick to see her at her home. "I can't stand it any longer," she is reported to have said when the patrolmen appeared at her home. "I know that you have been unearthing facts and I am getting afraid. I am going to get the Commonwealth to protect me by making a clean breast of the whole thing."

Patrolman Merrifield said last night that then the woman broke down completely and made a statement to the same effect as the one she made in her affidavit. She is said to have told the grand jury that as a reward Levering had given her the use of a house on Chariton street after the death of his wife.

* * *

Levering Says He's Not Worried.

After Mrs. Gray's statement had been made before the grand jury yesterday morning, Patrolmen Merrifield and Broderick, dressed in civilian's clothing, took Levering into custody at Campbell and Fulton streets, where Ben Humpich is in the sand and gravel business. Levering manifested some surprise when he was placed under arrest, but offered no resistance when the patrol wagon was called and he was taken to the First district police station. A charge of suspected felony and "bench warrant from the Circuit Court" was registered again him, but when he was later taken to jail the charge was amended to murder and "bench warrant from the Circuit Court."

Levering stoutly asserts his innocence. He seemed to be not at all worried over the charge against him. When he was seen in the cell at the jail he put on his spectacles and observed:

"I am forty-eight years of age. I have no children. I don't work and I am not in business. Regarding that charge against me, I might say that I am not worried one bit. That woman has made this statement just in order to persecute me. More than that I will not say, only when the time comes I'll prove to the satisfaction of the Judge, the jury and all my acquaintances that I am an innocent man."

* * *

Corroborative Testimony.

What is considered important testimony is that said to have been given before the grand jury by Joseph Cain, a brother of Mrs. Gray, and C. H. Dralle, a drug clerk in Rectaans' drug store, Preston and Market streets. Cain, it is said, testified that several days before Mrs. Levering died he was lying on a couch adjoining the one occupied by Mrs. Levering, who at the time was thought to be suffering from stomach trouble. While lying there he is said to have testified he heard Levering speak to his wife and advise her to take some capsules that he had brought her and that Levering then gave his wife minute directions as to how to take the medicine. These capsules are the ones that are alleged to have contained the poison.

Dralle, the drug clerk, is represented as having testified that Mrs. Levering came to Rectanus' drug store and bought the poison, saying that she was going to send it to her husband, who wanted to kill some troublesome animals.

* * *

How Will Was Drawn.

In her statement, which is in the possession of Loraine Mix, Mrs. Gray also told of the manner in which the will, leaving the estate of Mrs. Levering to her husband, was drawn. Mrs. Gray said that several weeks before Mrs. Levering's death Levering came to her with a blank piece of paper and asked her to sign her name to it, as some real estate transfer was to be made. The transfer, Mrs. Gray stated, was never made, but after Mrs. Levering's death she alleges that Levering wrote a will over the same name, leaving his wife's estate to him. Mrs. Gray further stated that she and her husband, Louis Gray, signed their names as witnesses to the last will of Mrs. Mary Levering.

When Levering attempted to take possession of his wife's estate her heirs contested the will in the Shelby County Court at Shelbyville. Levering lost out in the contest and the will was placed on record. Mr. Mix yesterday sent to Shelbyville for this paper.

SHEEPSKINS

Awarded To Forty-Three Graduates In Law.

SECOND ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT OF JEFFERSON SCHOOL.

LARGE AUDIENCE AT CEREMONIES IN MACAULEY'S.

ADDRESS OF CHARLES JEWETT

Forty-three law students were graduated from the Jefferson School of Law at the second annual commencement exercises held last night at Macauley's Theater. The principal address of the evening was made by the Hon. Charles L. Jewett, of Indiana. Following the opening address by Judge Shackleford Miller, dean of the law school, an address was made by Charles L. Graves, representative of the Jefferson Debating Society. He was followed by Edward J. Mackey, a representative of the junior class. Benjamin F. Washer made an address on behalf of the faculty. The invocation and benediction were pronounced by Bishop Charles E. Woodcock. The addresses were interspersed with music. The front of the stage, directly in front of the graduates and members of the faculty who occupied it, was banked in flowers.

Every available seat on the lower floor of Macauley's Theater was occupied last night, as was a good portion of the balcony. The Hon. Charles E. Jewett commented upon the large number of women present, and said they were evidently interested in the law, or, more properly speaking, in the lawyers.

Honor Men of Class.

Following the addresses and the presentation of diplomas, Judge Miller, who acted as master of ceremonies, announced the honor men of the law school. A. G. Stith, of the junior class, was awarded a handsome gold watch from the faculty as a reward for general proficiency in his studies and for meritorious conduct. William A. Colston, of the graduating class, was awarded the regent's gold medal for general proficiency in his studies. He was also awarded a set of law books from a publishing house for having prepared the best essay on a given subject. Edward Everett Gann, of the junior class, was also awarded a set of law books for having prepared a meritorious essay.

Judge Miller, in his opening address, gave a brief history of the Jefferson School of Law, in which he stated that this was its second annual commencement. He laid especial stress upon the fact that its sessions are held at night, enabling those who are ambitious and who are compelled to work during the day for a livelihood to acquire training in law.

"Every lawyer in any community is one of two things," he said. "He is either the best man or the worst man in that community."

Charles L. Graves, who made the second address of the evening, spoke of the success and what is necessary to attain it. He said that success means work and plenty of it, and that a man's life is what he makes it. He spoke of the trials that confront the young attorney just entering the practice of his profession, and said that many fall by the wayside while waiting for clients.

* * *

"Conservatism and Radicalism."

Edward J. Mackey, who followed Mr. Graves, spoke on "Conservatism and Radicalism," and recommended a happy medium between the two extremes.

"Radicals include Socialists, the great political Bowlees, and last the yellow journalists, the most contemptible being of all," he said.

Samuel G. Tate, who represented the senior class, spoke of the lawyer and his profession, and said that as a rule the average laborer has a contempt for the lawyer. He spoke of the way in which many persons associate the lawyer with the finished prevaricator, and sought, by argument, to refute this idea. His address was humorous and witty, and he was listened to with interest throughout.

The final address of the evening was made by Benjamin F. Washer. He paid a glowing compliment to all the members of the graduating class, and said they were more deserving than is the student who is reared in the lap of luxury and attends law school because his parents desire him to do so.

"These are not ordinary men," he said. "These men work during the day in order to earn a livelihood, and yet they have secured an education in the law. He advised them to be broad-minded, liberal in giving counsel, dignified, honest and loyal.

* * *

Personnel of Class.

Following are the names of those who were graduated:

William Frederick Baumeister, Charles Leonidas Graves, Edward Augustine Guilfoyle, Louis P. Hall, Thomas Everett Hall, Louis C. Heck, Joseph Egerton Hagan, Maurice Horvitz, L. Edmund Kuber, John Hunt Jackson, Benjamin Basil Kort, Lawrence Joseph Mackey, Humphrey Marshall, Jr., Percy Falls Marshall, William P. McDonough, Marion Homer McKown, William Thomas McNally, James Glass McPherson, John S. Pernett, Reuben Ruthenberg, Mark J. Ryan, Patrick Henry Savage, Henry J. Schelrich, John Lawrence Sullivan, Samuel Grundy Tate, Patrick J. Welsh, John C. Wickliffe, Jr., Halpin O. Williams, Clifford Eugene Zeigler, Mark Beauchamp, John Goe Brigham, James C. Cloyd, William Ainslie Colston, Eugene Joseph Cooney, Henry Montgomery Coons, Harry Vincent Davis, Alfred Warfield Dorsey, Edwin Stanhope Dorsey, Gustav August Ellerkamp, John A. S. Farrell, Clarence Clisbly Fowler, Dallas E. Furlong, William M. Graham.

"What It Is To Practice Law."

The Hon. Charles L. Jewett, in his address to the members of the graduating class, spoke on "What It is To Practice Law.' After painting the dark side of the profession, he spoke as follows:

I trust this brief reference to the unflattering side of our professional work may more sharply outline the noble purpose and glorious opportunities of a lawyer's life. Taken collectively the courts of the land are its mightiest power for the people's welfare. By that power every wrong must be redressed, every right asserted, every liberty preserved. More than this. To the courts is committed the preservation of our democratic institutions. To the courts these must ultimately owe their permanence and normal health.

While it could not be foreseen by the fathers, increase in population, changed conditions and impulsive and unreasonable demands for legislation have steadily forced the legislative branch of the government away from that sane and deliverative position which it was intended to occupy. Each year it becomes more evident that State and nation are to be finally controlled by executive order or judicial construction. And since executive order is but despotism I believe the time is not far distant when we are to be practically governed by the courts.

The peculiar form of our government gives opportunity for this and makes appeal to the law the only redress of public maladministration. The courts may not only control the taxing power which in theory was placed solely in legislative discretion, but may direct and restrain the conduct of public and private corporations, the control of which was in theory remitted to other hands. No matter what statutes Congress or the Legislature may enact there is always a veto power in the courts to modify, restrain or in effect repeal. Startling indeed are the lengths to which the courts have gone in the assertion, or, if you please, the arrogation of power. No need to go back to when John Marshall did as much to cement the Union as did the war between the sections. Recent instances will suffice.

Examples of Law's Power.

A Southern city weltered in hopeless debt and recurring disease. Municipal and legislative aid were alike impotent. The court intervened, and in effect wrested Government from nerveless hands. Taxes were levied, property sequestered and sold and the machinery of the city practically usurped under the fiction of a taxing district. The result was little less than a miracle. Behold how proud a city is Memphis now.

An American army planted the flag upon the other side of the earth. A thousand islands and millions of alien people were in an unknown relation to this republic. The Executive doubted and Congress faltered. But the court did not, and its decree made of Filipino land and people colonial dependencies—ours, but not of us.

Greed and ambition for power seized the railways of the great Northwest. State and nation seemed helpless, but the court heard the cry of throttled commerce and at its command the Northern Securities Company vanished.

In a city I much love, one worthy the love of any man, partisans fought out a bitter political campaign and election. Upon the declared result the victors entered into all places of power. A simple mandate of the court changes everything, not only displacing incumbents but directing how their places shall be filled.

This list might be indefinitely lengthened, but these instances will suffice. They are enough to show the almost limitless power of an agency to which the people have set no bounds, and whose assertion can never be overthrown but by revolution. Yet, mighty as it is, without the lawyer's aid it stands silent and inert. The lawyer's hand alone can set it in motion, guide its operations and make secure its results.

Henceforth you are to stand with those thus favored by opportunity. May each of you, then, unceasingly strive to achieve the highest measure of good his ability allows. May you be honest and kind, patriotic and wholesome, generous in victory and cheerful in defeat, faithful in every undertaking no matter how small; neither a kicker nor a quitter. May you work hard, live as well as your purse permits and die comparatively poor, and then you will have really practiced law.

COURTHOUSE RUINED AT METROPOLIS, ILL.

Tinner's Furnace Explodes and Sets Fire To the Roof—Records Saved.

Paducah, Ky., May 29.—[Special.]—While tinners working on the roof of the Massac county courthouse at Metropolis, Ill., were at dinner their furnace on top of the building exploded and set fire to the dry shingles which underlaid the tin. For a time it appeared that the while structure was doomed, but fire fighters saved the building after half the roof had been consumed. County officers locked all the records in the vault in the Clerk's office, so the damage is limited to the building itself. This will be between $4,000 and $8,000, covered by insurance. Besides replacing the roof, the walls will have to be practically replaced, as water soaked everything. Every room was flooded except the vault.

TWO BOYS BLOWN TO PIECES AT MINE.

Playing With Matches Causes Explosion of Large Quantity of Powder.

Terre Haute, Ind., May 29.—By the explosion of several hundred pounds of powder at the storage house of the Farnsworth mine, near Sullivan, this afternoon two boys were blown to pieces and three others more or less seriously injured.

The dead:
CLAUDE DAVIS, aged six.
PAUL KEEN, aged nine.
Fatally injured:
Arthur McClure, aged ten.
Cecil Smith.
— Davis.

The cause of the explosion is not known. It is supposed that the boys accidentally set the building on fire while playing with matches.

ALLEGED EMBEZZLER PLACED ON TRIAL.

Jasper, Ind., May 29.—[Special.]—A special venire of thirty men for jurymen to serve in the case of the State vs. Charles Behrens, was ordered today and are to report here Monday morning, that being the day set for the trial of the cause.

Mr. Behrens is charged with having embezzled over $30,000 of the funds of the people's State bank of Huntingburg. Mr. Behrens protests his innocence and declares that he never misappropriated or received one cent of the bank's money, but that the shortage was produced by overdrafts made by the directors themselves or to others with their knowledge and consent and by their directions.

SUSPECTED YEGGMAN FATALLY SHOT BY POSSE.

Evansville, Ind., May 29.—[Special.]—An unknown desperado, supposed to be from Memphis, Tenn., was fatally shot in a battle with officers and citizens at Mt. Carmel, Ill., to-day. The man appeared at a mussel camp and tried to dispose of some revolvers and pocket knives and was reported to the officers. The Sheriff, two deputies and several citizens, heavily armed, overtook the man in a strip of woods where a battle was fought that lasted for about an hour. The man had two pistols, which he reloaded twice, and emptied at his pursuers. He was wounded in several places, but no one in the posse was hit. The man was taken to jail, but there is no hope for his recovery.

CHARGED WITH STEALING $60,000 WORTH OF BONDS.

Indianapolis, May 29.—The police are searching for Frederick William Hoen, who is charged with the larceny of $60,000 worth of bonds and stocks from a safety deposit box in Fletcher's National Bank, belonging to his sister, Mrs. Christina Nold. A warrant was issued for Hoen's arrest on the charge of grand larceny.

OWNER OF MANY GROCERIES APPLIES FOR RECEIVER.

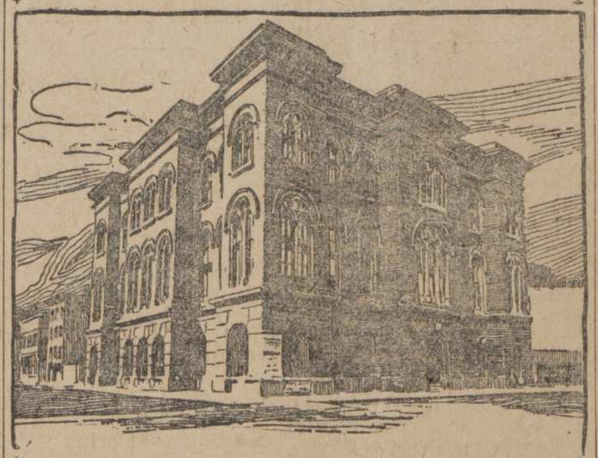

Cincinnati, O., May 29.—George J. Brill, owner of one wholesale and fourteen retail groceries in Cincinnati and Hamilton county, went into voluntary bankruptcy to-day. The schedules show assets of $196,936, of which $46,570 is life and fire insurance policies and the liabilities $82,254. His attorney asked United States Judge Thompson to appoint a receiver to close out the business.

YOUTHFUL LOUISVILLE

FINDS EXTREME BLISS AT GENTRY BROTHERS' SHOW.

Trained Animals So Thoroughly Educated That They Can Almost Talk.

With a horde of animal Thespians, including ponies, dogs and monkeys trained to do almost everything but talk, a troupe of Imperial Japanese acrobats and the famous juggling Normans, it is no wonder that the famous Gentry Bros.' shows, at Twenty-sixth street and Broadway, was the paradise at two performances yesterday of youthful Louisville. No circus seen here in a long time has as much to offer for the entertainment of the little people as the Gentry Bros.' combination.

Fifty pretty Shetland ponies, all of them trained to a high order of efficiency, which give an exhibition drill with its intricate maneuvers and evolutions for all the world like a company of soldiers, provide the feature of the show. Almost human intelligence is displayed by a half hundred or more dogs, who dance, turn somersaults and jump high over obstacles. The troupe of canines includes several very fine greyhounds whose high leaping won much applause. A troupe of trained elephants which perform a wide variety of difficult "stunts" and the famous elephant band, are other pleasing features of the circus.

Waco, the three-weeks-old baby camel, and, according to the press agent, the only camel ever born in America, attracted a large share of the attention of the visitors to the circus yesterday. "Why, it's all legs," remarked a young woman who stopped to view the youngster last night. "Yes, and there's no pleasure in store for it," her escort replied, "for it's said that a camel can go seven days without a drink."

There will be two more performances given to-day—one this afternoon and another to-night. A parade through the principal business streets will be given this morning. The street exposition is a good one and well worth having a look at.

Scout Cruiser Launched.

Quincy, Mass., May 29.—The scout cruiser Birmingham, one of the latest types of fast warships for the United States navy, was successfully launched to-day at the yard of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company at Quincy. Miss Mary Campbell, of Birmingham, Ala., broke a bottle of champagne on the steel prow as the big vessel started down the ways and slid into the Fore river.

PRESENT GENERATION WILL LIVE LONGER.

Chief Chemist Wiley Belongs To the Hundred-Year Club.

Cleveland, O., May 29.—Chief Chemist Wiley, of the United States Department of Agriculture, in the course of an address delivered before the graduating class of Case School of Applied Science to-day said:

"I belong to a hundred-year club, any member of which who shall die before he's a hundred years old will be immediately expelled in disgrace.

"The present generation is going to live much longer than the one which came before this because it knows more about the laws of diet, hygiene and surgery.

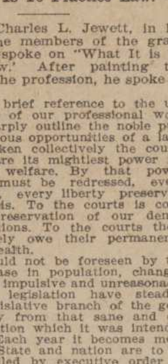

"It's a rank disgrace for any man to die except from old age.

"In view of longevity, if nothing more, a man should not think that he is taking too much time in preparation for his life work if he should spend a score or more years in just schooling."

BRITISH JOURNALISTS AT BANQUET IN BERLIN.

Berlin, May 29.—The visiting British journalists arrived here to-day from Bremen and were received at the railroad station by Prince Hatzelft von Trachenberg and some other members of the Reception Committee. The Prince, in the name of the Emperor, invited the visitors to review the garrison of Potsdam June 2 and take lunch at his majesty's new palace. They were entertained at a public banquet here this evening, Herr Muehlberg, Under Secretary of State, representing the Government.

LABOR TROUBLES

Interfere With Operation of Coal Mines.

SEVERAL STRIKES AT PLANTS IN EASTERN KENTUCKY.

MEN EVICTED FROM COMPANY HOUSES AT WARREN.

BUILDERS AGREE ON TERMS.

Barbourville, Ky., May 29.—[Special.]—Striking miners at the plant of the Matthews Coal Company, at Warren, will be evicted from the company's houses. Several days ago the company ordered the strikers to vacate the houses, and upon their refusal to do so a large number were indicted. The order to vacate followed the trials here this week. There is no prospect of a settlement of the strike, which has been on for nearly eight weeks. The company will endeavor to operate independently.

Reports from Pineville state that a strike is on at a large plant there. The miners are also reported to be out at the Hughes-Jellico plant, nine miles south of here. Unions have been formed at several large plants in this vicinity lately.

About thirty laborers on various buildings here struck for higher wages last week, and tied up building operations. A settlement was effected today and they returned to work.

ASK FOR RECEIVER.

Creditors Want Affairs of Timber Company Adjusted.

Jackson, Ky., May 29.—[Special.]—On account of frauds alleged to have been committed by Samuel E. Patton on his individual creditors, a motion was made this afternoon before Circuit Judge Robert Riddle for the appointment of a receiver to take charge of the affairs and assets of the Cleveland Lumber and Timber Company, a corporation of which Mr. Patton was chief promoter and president. The company has recently taken over a large part of Patton's property. The motion was passed by Judge Riddle until Saturday. Mr. Patton's liabilities are estimated at $15,000. He recently made an assignment to Kelly Kash, a local attorney.

Mrs. Sallie Culley Dead.

Elizabethtown, Ky., May 29.—[Special.]—Mrs. Sallie Culley, a well-known woman of this city, died yesterday of cancer, aged about sixty-five years. She was married the second time. Her first husband was Hilary Bryan, once a well-known business man of this city. She afterwards married Freeland Culley, a newspaper man of Mississippi, and a Confederate soldier. She is survived by three children by her first husband, Misses Mary and Hilary Bryan, of this city, and Mrs. Charles Bell, of Louisville.

Kentucky Incorporations.

Frankfort, Ky., May 29.—[Special.]—Incorporation articles were filed in the department of Secretary of State today as follows:

Alexander Co-operative Sanitarium Company, of Fulton county. It has $50,000 capital stock. The incorporators are A. J. Alexander, Thomas Mercer, W. H. Porter and Hilary D. Alexander, all of Fulton.

Union Light, Heat and Power Company, of Kenton county; proposing a decrease of its capital stock from $1,500,000 to $500,000.

New Mail Carrier At Paris.

Paris, Ky., May 29.—[Special.]—Postmaster J. L. Earlywine to-day received official notice from the Post-office Department at Washington of the appointment of William H. Clark as additional carrier in the free delivery service for Paris. The appointment was made necessary by the extension of the city's boundaries. The extension of the service will embrace 477 new families, four carriers now making three deliveries daily.

Killed Over Fence.

Ashland, Ky., May 29.—[Special.]—Irvin Smith was fatally shot this afternoon by James Schrader during a quarrel over the location of a line-fence. Schrader had the fence dividing his farm from Smith and later tore it down, claiming it was several feet on his land. Schrader went home, secured his shotgun, and, returning to where Smith was standing, fired both barrels at close range into his body. Smith is dying and Schrader is under arrest.

Burglars At Uniontown.

Uniontown, Ky., May 29.—[Special.]—Local authorities are on the lookout for unknown thieves who have been at work in this vicinity. The home of James Waggener has been broken into and plundered twice in the daytime, while other houses have been boldly entered and ransacked. Charles Sellars, of Morganfield, and his bloodhounds were sent for.

$350 For Broken Leg.

Richmond, Ky., May 29.—[Special.]—The damage suit of Mrs. Lena Dickerson against the city of Richmond, which has been on trial for two days, ended this afternoon by compromise. The city paid Mrs. Dickerson $350. The suit was for $3,000. Mrs. Dickerson was walking along the street when she fell, breaking her leg. She alleged faulty pavement.

Aged Physician Insane.

Maysville, Ky., May 29.—Dr. W. T. Dobyns was adjudged a lunatic in the County Court here and sent to the Lexington asylum this morning. He is about seventy years old, and was one of this county's most reputable physicians.

DEATH RESULTS FROM FALL MONTHS AGO.

Mrs. H. A. Price Passes Away In Lancaster In Her Eighty-third Year.

Lancaster, Ky., May 29.—[Special.]—Mrs. H. A. Price died at her home near this city at an early hour this morning, after an illness of nineteen months, due to a fall and general infirmities. She had been a communicant of the Christian church of this place for more than forty years. She was the wife of the late Napoleon B. Price.

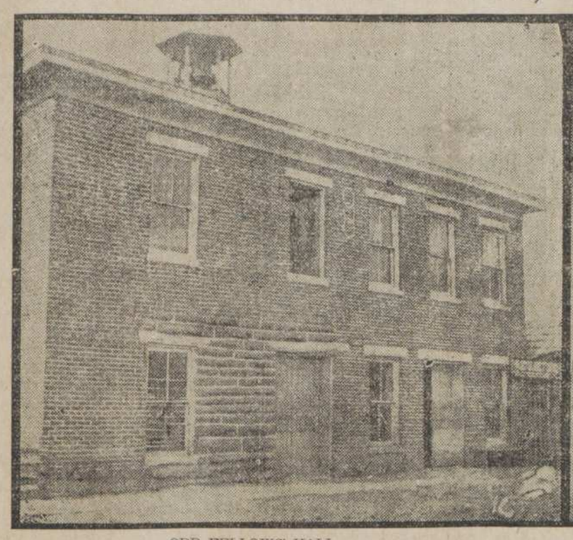

She leaves the following children: Ashburn Price, Johnson Price, Edgar Price and Napoleon B. Price, of this vicinity; Dr. A. S. Price, of Stanford, and Mrs. S. P. Grant, of Danville.

Mrs. Price was formerly Miss Harriet Stewart, the daughter of William Stewart, of Danville, but moved to this county immediately after her marriage and had resided in this county more than half a century.

Within the last month Mrs. Price had passed her eighty-second birthday, and had until her recent illness been the possessor of much vitality and energy.

The funeral will be conducted by Elder F. M. Tinder, and the interment will follow in the Lancaster cemetery.

When Bailiff Calls Jefferson Rarden's Case.

ALLEGED SLAYER OF JOSEPH SNAWDER OUT ON BAIL.

JUDGE WILSON ISSUES BENCH WARRANT FOR ARREST.

HIS BOND OF $500 FORFEITED.

The examining trial of Jefferson Rarden, charged with the murder of Joseph Snawder on the defendant's place, two miles from Orell, in the county, had been docketed for trial in the County Court yesterday, but Rarden failed to materialize. Judge Wilson declared his bond forfeited and issued a bench warrant for his arrest. His surety amounts to $500, and both of his brothers, Henry and Thomas Rarden, have signed it.

The County Court officials are not of the opinion that Rarden has attempted to flee from justice, but that he has merely misunderstood the day upon which he is expected to be present. At the time the case was docketed there was some confusion as to whether it should have been set for yesterday or to-day. As to-day is a legal holiday Judge Wilson at the last moment changed the date.

The County Attorney does not consider the case against Rarden very serious, and for that reason had agreed to his release on a bond of $500.

Juries For June Term.

The following jury lists have been drawn by Judge Pryor for service in the Criminal Court during the June term:

Harris, Herman Brieter, Adolph Feige, Joseph Bayer, George Schumpp, R. C. Crutcher, Ben Sterns, S. S. Lieberman, Naman Fletcher, Charles Distler, John Davidson, William Bennett, Jerlina Bacon, Fred Bauman.

Petit Jurors—D. J. Keneally, Henry Meyer, John Cusick, Frank M. Angemeier, H. C. Warren, John Hord, George Schneider, George A. Lochner, W. H. Clark, H. B. Struss, James Kiely, James E. Dunn, Louis Gideon, Lawrence Gutlemuth, Frank Hargadan, C. N. Maple, J. R. Blankenbaker, A. J. Schmidt, J. M. Feriton, J. Thixton, A. C. Ritz, Jefferson Woolley, Ambrose Klug, J. M. Turner, Julius Meyer, August Derkees, D. B. Garvey, Henry Fleishaker, Phil Laib, Charles Barth, James H. Ohlman, E. N. Button, John Behrly, J. Richard Wallace, Frank I. Brocar, Anton Schneiderhahn.

Manslaughter Case Continued.

Gene Herndon, colored, charged with killing John Johnson at Twelfth and Magazine streets, was presented for trial in the Criminal Court yesterday, but because of the absence of two important witnesses a continuance until October 18 was granted the defendant. He is said to have shot at another negro named Harry Price and hit Johnson in the leg, Johnson subsequently dying in the City Hospital, where it was found necessary to amputate the injured limb. He died under the chloroform.

Court Paragraphs.

—James W. Coll sued the city for $1,000 because of injury to property by reason of an overflow.

—Mary Marking sued Henry M. Marking for divorce on the charge of cruelty. They were married August 5, 1903.

HARMON SOUNDS NOTE FOR TARIFF REVISION

KEYNOTE OF ADDRESS BEFORE CLUB AT CINCINNATI.

TAKES EXCEPTION TO OUR "SLOP FED" INDUSTRIES.

NO HOPE FOR REPUBLICANS.

Cincinnati, May 29.—"Revision of the tariff by the friends of the people" was the keynote of an address before the Norwood Democratic Club to-night by Judson Harmon, who was Attorney General in the Cabinet of President Cleveland, who has been mentioned in Eastern newspapers as a Democratic presidential possibility in 1908. After discussing various public questions, Judge Harmon said:

A short time ago the Government made a great outcry because it was charged more for material and supplies for the Panama canal than the same dealers sold like articles for abroad after paying for longer shipments. It threatened to make its purchases abroad unless this imposition was stopped. But the prices of which the President and his Cabinet complained are just the same as the entire American people are compelled to pay; and as they require many thousand times more than the Government the imposition on them is greater. Why should they not have relief also? Why should the Government not make the same threat in their behalf and put them in a position to make them good if the imposition continues?

This would simply mean a reduction of reasonable figures of the tariff taxes by means of which this wrong is practiced. For ten years, now, these have been exacted without a change, while prices have gone and are still going steadily higher. This reduction can and should be made with fairness to all, so that those engaged in legitimate industries and enterprises may enjoy reasonable profits, in a market broadened as far as commerce goes, while the rest of the people are given a chance to save something out of their earnings.

We should soon find that it is better all around to have natural and wholesome instead of slop-fed industries, even if they do not grow quite fast or big. Our prosperity, thus left free, would find the natural channels which lead to fairer distribution throughout the land.

I do not believe the Republican leaders will ever make a satisfactory revision of the tariff, if they make any at all. They say the tariff must be revised only by its friends, and they are its friends. We say it must be revised by the friends of the people, and, so far as the tariff is concerned we, and not they, are the friends of the people, because nothing is sacred to us which stands in the way of the best interests of the entire people. The widest competence made possible to every one by unburdened industry and thrift is the Democratic standard, not the quick and swollen fortune acquired through special advantages bestowed by a Government established and maintained by all the people for their common benefit.

STREET RAILWAY COMPANY RAISES MONEY ON NOTES.

Deems It Not Advisable To Issue New Stock For Present Needs.

Instead of issuing common stock to shareholders to the amount of $500,000 the Louisville Railway Company's directors have decided to sell $500,000 of three-year notes bearing 6 per cent. interest and secured by $500,000 of the company's 4½ per cent. bonds. Notes to the amount of $300,000 were sold to local financial concerns yesterday at par, and the remainder will be disposed of as the money is needed.

The proceeds from the sale of the notes will be used to meet expenses growing out of the purchase of new cars and the extension of the interurban line out the Bardstown road. It had been at first considered advisable to sell the common stock and a syndicate had been formed to take all stock that was not taken by the stockholders. The note plan was, however, decided to be the most feasible. This is said to be the first sale of notes by a corporation in Louisville.

Marriage Licenses.

Marriage licenses were issued yesterday to the following: W. H. Goldsmith and Ida Hodge, William Harry Orrill and Nella C. Schmid, Cicero Clark King and Grace Armes, John C. Largen and Elizabeth Redman, Charles Hoeffiin and Rubey M. Buckley, George Kirchner and Carolina Henry, T. H. Crawford and Bessie A. Bengham, Dennis Tigbe and Lillie May Norris.

law of Dr. Cox, the murdered man, would not be present to render any assistance to the prosecution, and as it is he who has gathered the evidence and employed Byrd and Jouett to prosecute the Hargises, it looks as though Commonwealth's Attorney Waugh will have to go it alone. It is the contention of those representing the prosecution that a stronger case can be made out against Hargis for the Cox murder than was presented against him in either the Marcum or Cockrill killing.

The fact that the Commonwealth's Attorney will be present to resist any unfair move by the defense will result in a change of plans by Attorney Young and no effort will likely be made to get a dismissal without a trial.

Hargis Winning Friends.

The methods employed by Jim Hargis in making friends and his faculty for retaining them were fully demonstrated during the past few days. That kindness is the most highly treasured commodity as well as the cheapest, is the Hargis motto, while another is secure the friendship of a child and win that of the parent, and both have been lived up to by the Breathitt feud-chief and especially during the past four years.

While a crowd of barefooted lads were engaged in a game of marbles in the courthouse yard to-day Judge Hargis joined in, apparently with as much relish as any boy in the game, and he said afterwards that those boys would go home and tell their parents that the bad man from Breathitt, who is accused of so many murders, had played marbles with them, and he added that he would not be afraid to have the father of any boy in that game sit on the jury. He said that while he was confined in the Lexington jail two years ago he made friends with a ten-year-old boy who had accompanied his mother and other Christian Endeavor workers to the jail on a Sunday afternoon. He gave the lad some fruit he had in his cell, and the following Sunday the boy returned, bringing with him a large rose, which was pinned to Hargis' coat, while at the conclusion of the services the mother of the boy offered up a prayer for the mountain prisoner. He said he was then convinced that he had won the sympathy of the parent by his kindness to the boy.

O. M. WASSON.

GOVERNOR MAKES SUGGESTION.

Proposes Agreement By Attorneys To Get Judge.

Frankfort, Ky., May 29.—[Special.]—Gov. Beckham has suggested to the attorneys for prosecution and defense in the Hargis case, now on change of venue at Sandy Hook, Elliott county, that they agree upon a lawyer as special Judge in the case and that he will commission him to sit in the place of the regular Judge. Unless such an agreement should be reached it may be several days before the Governor can secure a special Judge to go to Elliott county, as he has always experienced difficulty in getting an attorney to preside in mountain feud cases.

MONON OFFICES GO INTO LINCOLN SAVINGS BANK.

Passenger Men Will Occupy Space On Ground Floor and Freight Men Go Upstairs.

The local freight and passenger offices of the Monon Route will be removed to the Lincoln Savings Bank building, fourth avenue and Market streets, on Saturday. The passenger and ticket offices will be on the ground floor, with entrace on Fourth avenue, adjoining the entrance to the building. The freight offices will be on the second floor. The passenger and ticket office will be fitted up with all modern conveniences. E. H. Bacon, district passenger agent; E. A. Buckner, city ticket agent, and the bill of lading clerk will have offices in the passenger office. In the freight office will be located W. H. Newman, division freight agent, and his force; C. M. Elliott, agent for the Lackawanna Line, and C. R. Watson, agent for the fast freight lines operating out of Louisville over the Monon Route.

Colored Teams To Play Ball.

The Post-office Boys and the branch of the Y. M. C. A. colored baseball teams will cross bats this afternoon at the Louisville Giants' Park, Twenty-eighth street and Broadway. Both teams are in good practice and the game is expected to be hotly contested. All the friends of the colored Y. M. C. A. and the mail-carriers are expected to see the game.

The Old Kentucky Champions and the I. B. C. team of Indianapolis, will contest for the championship at Recclus Park this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Both teams are in good shape and a good game is anticipated.

of the McKinley family left by the front door to go to their carriages. Crowds had gathered in front of the place, including a number of men with cameras, who wished to catch snap shots of the President. The original plan had been changed, however, and while the crowd waited on North Market street, the presidential party was led out of the side door to carriages waiting on Louis street. The trip to the cemetery was made quickly and without incident, and fifteen minutes ahead of the appointed time the President returned to his car. A large crowd had gathered and asked for a speech, but the President merely lifted his hat and wished them good luck.

LARGE CROWD ASSEMBLES NEAR PRESIDENT'S CAR.

In Brief Address He Pays Tribute To Home Life of Mr. and Mrs. McKinley.

Akron, O., May 29.—It was half an hour after the President boarded his car at Canton before it left for Akron Junction. A large crowd assembled in the meantime and the President several times appeared on the platform and wished the people good luck, to which they responded with rousing cheers. Incidentally on one occasion he took advantage of the opportunity to say a word about his visit and the beautiful home life of Mr. and Mrs. McKinley, speaking as follows:

We have come here to-day to attend the funeral of Mrs. McKinley. President McKinley rendered very great services to this nation as a public man, but no greater than he and Mrs. McKinley by a home life which could well be an example to all our nation. The essential things after all are the homely things. President McKinley served his country as an American citizen should serve his country in time of war and in time of peace. But it was in his own home, perhaps, that in the devotion to the loving woman we have just buried, he gave the best example to us all.

Vice President Fairbanks, who came from Indianapolis to attend the funeral, occupied a seat adjoining the President while the latter was waiting at the station. President Roosevelt introduced his distinguished associate to the crowd and the latter bowed his acknowledgments. Mr. Fairbanks will travel with the President to Indianapolis, where the latter speaks to-morrow at the dedication of the Lawton monument. Secretary Root, who came to Canton with the President, returned East to-night and Secretary Wilson went to Chicago. He will join the President at Lansing, Mich. The President left Canton at 4:35 o'clock and reached Akron Junction at 5:30. Here his car was switched to a siding until 9 o'clock when it was connected with a train for Grenwich, O., where a stop was made for the night. These stops in the journey, at Greenwich being for about five hours, gave Mr. Roosevelt an opportunity to rest and recuperate for the exercises to-morrow.

PRESIDENT TO SPEAK AT INDIANAPOLIS.

Will Deliver Address At Unveiling of Statue To Gen. Henry W. Lawton.

Indianapolis, May 29.—Mrs. Charles W. Fairbanks to-day received a message from the Vice President that he will arrive here to-morrow morning at 10:50 o'clock with the President, whom he will accompany from Canton, O. The President's car will be attached to a train on the Cleveland division of the Big Four railroad at Greenwich, O. The city is being profusely decorated today in honor of the coming visit of the President.

President Roosevelt will deliver the principal address to-morrow afternoon at the ceremonies incident to the unveiling of the statue of Gen. Henry W. Lawton. Elaborate platform and seating arrangements have been made for the event in the courthouse yard, where the statue stands.

On account of threatening weather, however, tentative plans have been made to hold the exercises in Tomlinson Hall, one square away. Preceding the exercises the President will be entertained at luncheon at the home of Vice President Fairbanks.

Three battalions and one battery of regular troops, one regiment of the Indiana National Guard, veterans of the G. A. R. and other military and semi-military organizations will act as escort to the President while in the city. At the statute at 3 o'clock Gov. Hanly will preside, the Rev. D. R. Lucas will pronounce the invocation and the Governor will make a short speech.

Miss Frances Lawton, the eldest daughter of Gen. Lawton, will release the mechanism that will unveil the monument; the band of the Seventh regiment, regulars, will play "America;" James Whitcomb Riley will read his poem, "The Home Voyage," and then the President will speak.

The President will return to the Vice President's home, and from there to his car. He will leave at 6 o'clock for Lansing, Mich.

INDIANA TOWN MARSHAL IN LOUISVILLE HOSPITAL.

Shot Five Weeks Ago By Men Who Attempted To Burn Railroad Bridge Near English.

William Cummins, Town Marshal of English, Ind., who was shot five weeks ago by men who attempted to burn a railroad bridge near English, is at St. Joseph's Infirmary recovering from an operation which was made necessary by wounds. He was shot through the abdomen, but luckily the bullet did not penetrate his intestines. It is expected that he will recover.

Cummins has been three times Marshal of English and both his father and grandfather were Sheriffs of Crawford county, in which English is situated, before him. During the Spanish-American War Cummins was wounded, but, although he has been twice shot, he does not believe that he will die from a gunshot wound.

"Billy" McDermott, a cripple, who sells papers at Fourth avenue and Jefferson street, is an old friend of Cummins, and he wheeled himself down to the hospital yesterday to see his old townsman. Cummins has been in the hospital since Sunday.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE FROM AWFUL END IN MACHINERY.

Frank Funk, of Thirtieth street and Virginia avenue, who was injured when caught in the machinery at the Tapp-Leathers Company's shop at 823 West Main street, yesterday morning, is not seriously injured, his physicians say, and he will be able to resume his work in a short time. Mr. Funk's shirt sleeve caught in a belt when he stooped to pick a spool of thread from the floor and before he could free himself he had been whirled over and over several times. The machinery was stopped in a few seconds and Mr. Funk was freed. He was removed to his home and physicians were called. His arm was badly wrenched and his body bruised and quite a gash was cut on the left side of his head, but his injuries are not considered serious.

"THE DREAMERS" WILL BE REPEATED NEXT WEEK.

The Mackin Council Choral Club will present a repetition of "The Dreamers" at the Mary Anderson Theater Tuesday night, June 4. So numerous were the requests for a repetition that the Choral Club thought a repetition necessary. The performance given last week proved such a big success that on the second night standing room was sold and even then many people were turned away. "The Dreamers" has been pronounced by all who saw it last week to be one of the best amateur productions ever presented in Louisville.

Aulyn Kanston, the author and director of "The Dreamers," will hold rehearsals almost nightly during the week.

TREBLE CLEF CLUB GIVES CHARITY BENEFIT OPERA.

A large audience of colored people attended the Masonic Theater last night to see the operas, "Florinda" and "Little Boy Blue," under the auspices of the Treble Clef Club, a colored musical organization.

The performance of the young school children ranging from the ages of four to sixteen, was very creditable and the singing of the soloists and choruses showed that the juveniles were well trained. The operas were given with every regard to costuming and staging. The sixty children were under Frank B. Waring, of Chicago, and Charlotte Bryant as musical director. The proceeds were for the Old Folks' Home.

DIRECTORATES, PAST AND PRESENT, DINE TOGETHER.

Twenty-three old and new officers and directors of the Commercial Club last night sat down to a dinner at the Louisville Hotel that was paid for by fines assessed against the members of the club's directorate during the past year. This dinner is an annual affair with the club, and while everything is informal the past and future of the club's work are discussed, and frequently valuable suggestions are made. Fred Levy, former president of the club, presided at the dinner as toastmaster, and everyone present was compelled to make a speech, sing a song, dance a dance or whistle a whistle.

THE STRIKE IS OVER AT SANTIAGO.

Santiago, Cuba, May 29.—The strike here practically is over, the men having resumed work at 1 o'clock this afternoon in obedience to a provisional resolution unanimously adoted by the Board of Arbitration. The strikers go back to work on the basis of a nine-hour day.

Kuroki In Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 29.—Gen. Kuroki was Milwaukee's guest for five hours to-day. The programme of entertainment included a public reception in City Hall Square, an automobile sightseeing trip, a visit to the National Soldiers' Home and the Milwaukee Press Club and a luncheon at the Hotel Pfister.

DEATHS.

DE MENT—May 29 at 8:45 p. m., John Byron, son of Byron H. and Maggie E. De Ment, at his father's residence, 1678 Willow avenue. Age 1 years.

APPLIES TO ALL.

Hargis Case Not Only One Moved To Elliott.

RULING OF SPECIAL JUDGE COVERS EVERY CASE.

COURT OF APPEALS GIVES EXTENDED OPINION.

CARNES MAKES CLEAN SWEEP.

Frankfort, Ky., May 29.—[Special.]—In an extended opinion in the case of the Commonwealth on relation, against Special Judge William Carnes, of the Breathitt Circuit Court, the Court of Appeals to-day declined to concur in a suggestion made by Attorney General Hays, following the delivering of the original opinion, that the change of venue of the Hargis cases to Elliott county applied only to James Hargis and not to the other defendants with him in the Cox murder case, because the written statement of the Commonwealth's Attorney named only the case against Hargis. The court says that the statement of the Commonwealth's Attorney was properly treated by the special Judge as applying to all the cases before him. The extended opinion of the court was handed down by Judge Settle, the other Judges concurring.

* * *

Opinion of Court.

The extended opinion is brief. It reads as follows:

"Since the opinion in this case was handed down, we have received from the Attorney General the suggestion that as the written statement filed by the Commonwealth's Attorney as the basis for the application for the change of venue ordered by Special Judge Carnes in the cases against James Hargis and others, named only the case against Hargis, the change of venue as to the other defendants was unauthorized.

"We do not concur in this view of the matter. It is true the statement in question includes in terms only the Hargis case, but it is manifest from the record that it was intended to apply to the cases of the other defendants as well, or at any rate it was so treated by court and counsel; moreover, the defendants were all indicted for the murder of D. B. Cox, either as principals or accessories, and the same reasons existed and were urged for the change of venue in the cases of the other defendants that were presented in the case of Hargis. This being true, we think the statement of the Commonwealth's Attorney was properly treated by the Special Judge as applying to all the cases.

"Besides the nunc pro tunc order, for the entering of which the writ of mandamus was asked against the Special Judge, embraced the cases against all the defendants indicted for the homicide in question. So in view of these facts and the further fact that the failure of counsel for the Commonwealth to introduce in the lower court evidence in resistance of the transfer to Elliott county of the cases against the other defendants as well as in that of Hargis, prevents us from reviewing the ruling of the Special Judge in ordering them to that county, we perceive no cause for modifying the opinion as suggested by the Attorney General."

Triple Murderer's Case Heard.

The court to-day heard oral argument and took under submission an appeal from the Jefferson Criminal Court in a case of Clarence Sturgeon against the Commonwealth. The appellant is under conviction of murder. The argument was presented to the court by Charles H. Morris, of the Attorney General's Department, for the State, and by W. H. Sweeny, of Louisville, for the appellant.

Other Decisions.

Judgment of the Logan Circuit Court in a case of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company against G. H. Arnold was upheld. The appellee secured judgment by failing from a train at Auburn. The court holds that the verdict is not excessive. The appellee is an aged woman and sustained permanent injuries.

The court affirmed judgment of Jefferson Chancery Court, first division, in a case of Griffin against Schienck and others. The action was brought to settle the deeds to land in the county.

PLUNGED OVER BRIDGE

QUEEN MAUD FIGURES IN AN ALARMING ACCIDENT.

Carriage Goes Into Lake and One of the Horses Has Two Legs Broken.

Paris, May 29.—An alarming incident marred the visit of King Haakon and Queen Maud of Norway to Versailles to-day. Their majesties were accompanied by President and Mme. Fallieres. Queen Maud, Mme. Fallieres and Gen. Michel were in one landau drawn by four horses. As the carriage was crossing the low, narrow bridge in the park that leads over Lake Marie Antoinette to the Swiss village, near the Petit Trialon, the horses suddenly became frightened and commenced lunging furiously. The bridge is without rails, low stone copings taking their place. First one horse fell into the water, and the continued plunging of the others carried two more over the side of the bridge. The postilions went with them.

In the meantime, the ladies were greatly alarmed. Gen. Michel, realizing the danger, burst open the door of the landau and half helped, half carried the Queen and the wife of the President out of the carriage and to the end of the short bridge. The General's action was none too prompt, for just as the ladies were in safety the oscillating carriage followed the horses into the lake. The ladies were not hurt, although they were much agitated and nervously shaken.

The water under the bridge is not deep, and dragoons rode in and pulled out the horses. One of the animals had two legs broken and was at once killed.

MAY REVOKE CHARTER OF BREWERY WORKMEN.

Scorn Federation of Labor's Ultimatum By An Overwhelming Vote.

Cincinnati, O., May 29.—The executive board of the International Union of Brewery Workmen, which has been engaged for the last three days in this city in compiling the vote of the local unions throughout the United States and Canada on the ultimatum submitted by the American Federation of Labor relative to jurisdiction over the engineers and firemen employed in breweries, announced to-day that the count is practically closed and that the vote cast was against giving up jurisdiction.

It is understood that not over 1,000 votes out of a total membership of about 60,000 have been cast in favor of accepting the dictum of the American Federation of Labor. If the latter carries out its ultimatum, as it probably will, the charter of the International Union of Brewery Workmen will be annulled and revoked on June 1.

This extreme measure has never been put in force before in the various jurisdiction controversies between the American Federation of Labor and its affiliated national unions. The result of the brewery workmen's vote thus becomes a matter of intense interest to thousands of trades union men throughout the country.

TO-DAY IN MEMORIAM

PUBLIC BUILDINGS AND OFFICES WILL BE CLOSED.

Services Will Be Conducted At Cave Hill Cemetery By Local G. A. R. Posts.

Memorial day will be observed to the usual extent in Louisville. Banks and the City Hall will be closed and many business houses will also give their employes a half holiday. All the offices at the courthouse will be closed all day, except the courts of Judges Field and Gordon, which are so pressed for time that a holiday cannot be spared.

The day will be observed generally at the Customhouse and practically all of the offices will be closed for the day. Postmaster Woods issued an order yesterday to the effect that the carriers will make two deliveries in the business section and one in the residence section of the city this morning. The stamp window will be open from 7 to 10 a. m., the general delivery will be open between the hours of 7 and 10 in the morning and 5 and 6 in the afternoon. The registry and cashier's division and all other departments will be closed during the day.

Beginning Saturday and continuing for three months the offices of the Internal Revenue Department will close at noon on that day.

This afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the veterans of the local G. A. R. camps will assemble at Cave Hill cemetery and decorate the graves of their comrades in arms who lie buried in the national burying ground. The veterans will assemble at the entrance at 2:30 and with the First Kentucky regiment as an escort, will march to the graves, where the Rev. Horace G. Ogden will deliver the address.

Route of Regiment's Movement.

The members of the First Kentucky regiment, which is to act as escort to the G. A. R. veterans, who will decorate the graves of their dead comrades this afternoon, will assemble at the Armory at 1 o'clock this afternoon. Half an hour later they will march up Walnut street to Third, out third to Broadway and up Broadway to Cave Hill cemetery.

The march from the gates of the cemetery to the national plat will be begun at 2:30 o'clock, with the First Kentucky leading as escort. Col. W. B. Haldeman will be in command. The return will be made down Broadway to Fifth street and in Fifth to the Armory, where the regiment will break ranks.

To-morrow night the regular monthly regimental drill will take place and the public is cordially invited to be present.

Memorial Day At the "Ferry."

Decoration day will be celebrated in appropriate fashion at Fontaine Ferry Park to-day with a free fireworks display at night and two holiday concerts by Cook's military band, accompanied by the Royal Hawaiian Serenaders, soloists. Bandmaster Cook has arranged the following programme of patriotic and popular airs in honor of the occasion:

March—My Maryland .....Mygrant

MANUEL KAHN DEAD.

BECAME ILL OF APPENDICITIS ONLY LAST SUNDAY.

Operation, Undertaken As Last Resort, Followed By Peritonitis, Resulted Fatally Last Nght.

Manuel Kahn, well-known in Jewish circles and senior member of the firm of Kahn Brothers, wholesale tailors, died of peritonitis a 10:40 o'clock last night at his home, 1654 Third avenue. Mr. Kahn was taken ill of appendicitis on Sunday night. Yesterday morning he submitted to an operation. From the first it was realized that his case was hopeless. Peritonitis developed following the operation and Mr. Kahn passed away last night.

Mr. Kahn was forty-three years of age and was a native of Louisville. He was the son of Leon Kahn, formerly in the wholesale tailor business in this city. After completing his education Mr. Kahn went into the wholesale tailoring business and continued it for twenty years, until his death last night.

Prominent in all the Jewish organizations in the city and one of the leading members of Temple Adath Israel, Mr. Kahn was well known in Louisville. He was of a kind and charitable nature and did much for the poor of Louisville. Besides his parents he is survived by two children. His wife, Mrs. Lottie Kahn, died five years ago.

ALLIANCE BETWEEN ENGLAND AND SPAIN.

How It Could Be Arranged and What It Would Mean.

[London Sphere.]

If the statement made in a reputable Spanish newspaper as to the outcome of the King's Cartagena visit is correct an international understanding of a very important and valuable character has been carried through. It is stated that Spain and Great Britain are agreed to preserve the peace of the Mediterranean, which by the geographical position of Gibraltar and Ceuta, facing each other across the Straits, they are able to do by closing the entrance at any time to war vessels. It is also declared that the reconstruction of the Spanish Navy, which would have been necessary in any case apart from the American War by the vessels of the fleet becoming obsolete, is to be carried out by British naval architects and engineers, partly in newly organized shipyards in Spain and partly in England. Ferrol, Cadiz and Cartagena are to be the fortified bases of a modern fleet of six powerful battleships and as many modern cruisers capable in armament of meeting the latest type of war vessels. The provisions of the necessary funds is to be made easier by British credit.

Such an arrangement may not have been concluded in all its details, but there are several considerations that tend to confirm the statements of the Spanish press in some measure. Undoubtedly British agents have been in Spain negotiating for a great scheme of naval construction, and it seems a settled matter that they will be intrusted with the creation of the new Spanish navy. If the credit of England is applied to carrying through the financial side of this enterprise Spain may be spared a good deal of difficulty and suspense without any loss to ourselves. Spain has made great progress in prosperity since she was relieved of the incubus of her revolted colonies, and her real resources are probably in advance of her position in the financial world, where the memory of past losses may remain to impair Spanish credit just as the past scrupulousness of Russia in paying interest has tended to keep Russian bonds higher than a sound estimate might place them.

The rumors as to the other provisions of the supposed agreement, placing the combined land and sea forces of the two nations at the service of either, are probably exaggerated, and it is a pity that they have been put in circulation, as they will only confirm the German press in its attitude of nervous and hostile suspicion. Even if the wildest assertions are true about the Anglo-Spanish entente, such an alliance could be no danger to Germany. German aggression could not in any case have any effect in the Mediterranean unless France and England were unwilling or unwilling to oppose it, and if France could not face Germany, still less could Spain. But the most innocent agreement made by England with any other nation is a grievance to one important section of German politicians and pressmen. There is every sign of one of those campaigns of suspicion and hatred which have in modern times preceded an attack by Prussia on a neighbor. The political maxim, odisse quem laesurus sis, has been practiced with much perfection since the days when Frederick the Great raked up musty pretexts for his treacherous seizure of Silesia. The real cause of his aggression then—the fact that Prussia's prestige and territory were not commensurate with her strength—still exists for the empire of his successors.

THE IDEAL COMMUNITIES.

[Harper's Magazine.]

It would perhaps be pushing metaphors to an unwarranted extreme to speak of "dignity of labor" in connection with the occupation of ants. But if by the phrase we mean that labor is the honorable lot of all citizens, and that all labors of whatever sort are upon the same level of respectability, then we might venture to apply the saying even to the labors of an ant hill. For therein all are workers, from the newly fledged callow to the veteran of a second summer.

Therein is no taboo upon "hand toil." All forms thereof are equally creditable. We are reminded of the simpler state of society in the pioneer days of the United States and Canada and the British colonies. Indeed, it is the natural social order of human communities, until great possessions, earned and inherited, or usurped, create a favored class. Surely this is an ideal republic—no idlers, no tramps, no citizen-parasites, no missrs, always well and fashionably dressed, hands in a plain visiting card at the inquiry office and asks for an American visitor by name. His card is taken up to the client in question, who in nine cases out of ten gives instructions for the caller to be shown up. He is usually a man with wide business relations, and thinks the caller must be someone whom he has met, but whose name he has forgotten. When the man is shown up he finds he represents a firm of motor-car manufacturers, art dealers, tailors or one of a score of other businesses.

"Lady visitors are similarly pestered by female 'special agents' representing dressmaking, millinery and similar firms."

The story was continued by an American visitor, who was himself a sufferer. "It is not easy," he said, "to escape their attentions. They have various means of finding the names, and they usually come primed with a superficial knowledge of their victim's career, gathered from handbooks. The cards never give any indication of their errand, and many of them do not hesitate, if asked their business, to say it is a private matter. They have even been known to use the name of a friend whom they pretend to be introduced by.

"They appear to make a special target of the men who have only recently acquired their wealth. The art dealers, in particular, seek this class of visitor, and as they are frequently anxious to be in the fashion and start a collection, there is no doubt that they are often victimized.

"The result is that rich American visitors are in some cases adopting a nom d'hotel, and even this is not always successful. In endeavoring to avoid the attentions of these unwelcome callers, awkward mistakes arise, and particular friends are sometimes sent away somewhat brusquely.

"A few days ago a visitor received a call from a lady friend, who had recently married, and whose new name the visitor did not recognize. She was told that the gentleman she asked for had received her card, but could not see anybody. The next day the visitor received a letter which apprised him of his mistake."

WALK-OUT ORDER

Obeyed By Union L. and N. Machinists.

BETWEEN SEVENTY-FIVE AND ONE HUNDRED LEAVE SHOPS.

COMPANY OFFICIALS SAY THEY EXPECT NO TROUBLE.

STRIKERS EXPECT RECRUITS.

Between seventy-five and a hundred machinists in the local employ of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company walked out yesterday morning, in response to an order issued by J. D. Buckalew, third vice president of the International Association of Machinists. The strike is the result of the refusal of the officials of the Louisville and Nashville to confer with a committee of the Machinists' Union in regard to the demands made by the union, and which include a standard day of ten hours, a standard rate of pay, regulations for apprentices and no discharge because of membership in the union.

The strikers assert that many of their fellow-workmen will be induced to join the union and walk out with them. T. R. Tracey, master mechanic of the Louisville and Nashville shops, in South Louisville, said yesterday that the work was not impeded to any great extent by the strike, and that everything was going on as usual with but little or no inconvenience.

* * *

Company Expects No Trouble.

Louisville and Nashville officials said yesterday that they were not in a position to make a statement for publication but expressed the opinion that the strike would last only a few days. They intimated that if necessary a public statement would be issued later.

Mr. Buckalew made the following statement yesterday:

"We are not asking for an increase in wages. We ask for a wage schedule and working agreement in the shops along the entire system."

"An effort was made to have the L. and N. treat with the union officers, but the effort failed. Upon authority of James O'Connell, international president of the workmen's union, the men all over the system, including the shops in Louisville, were ordered out."

Will Go Out At Evansville.

Evansville, Ind., May 29.—[Special.]—Railroad machinists here assert tonight that the machinists employed at the Louisville and Nashville shops at Howell, a suburb of this city, will probably join the strike. Most of the men in all departments of the shops are organized and it is asserted that those who are not in the unions are in sympathy with the strike.

Railroad officials say they have received no intimation that the men will go out on a strike. There are about eight hundred men employed in the various departments of the shops.

Out At Birmingham.

Birmingham, Ala., May 29.—The union machinists of the Louisville and Nashville railroad in this district struck to-day in accordance with the general strike order. The strike involves forty-nine machinists and eighteen apprentices at Boyles and Birmingham. All is quiet. The company expects to fill the places of the strikers with imported men.

Fifteen At Covington.

Cincinnati, May 29.—Only fifteen machinists in the Covington shops of the Louisville and Nashville railway went out on strike to-day in answer to the order from the officers of the International Association of Machinists. It is said that a very small proportion of the 200 machinists in the Covington shops belong to the union.

Sixty Out At Mobile.

Mobile, Ala., May 29.—The sixty machinists employed by the Louisville and Nashville railroad shops in this city obeyed the order of the third vice president of the union and went out on a strike this morning. The reason given was that the union was not recognized.

Few At Nashville.

Nashville, Tenn., May 29.—There are only eight or ten Louisville and Nashville railway machinists in this city, and if they are members of the Machinists' Union it is not known to the company. The strike will have little effect here.

Thirty-five At Montgomery.

Montgomery, Ala., May 29.—Responding to a call for a strike thirty-five machinists of the local Louisville and Nashville shops went out this morning. There are none at work in the machine shops, that department being idle.

Walk Out At Pensacola.

Pensacola, Fla., May 29.—With few exceptions the machinists employed by the Louisville and Nashville railroad in its shops went on strike to-day because the company refused to recognize the union. There has been no disorder.

Seven At New Orleans.

New Orleans, May 29.—Seven machinists of the Louisville and Nashville railroad struck here to-day.

WILES OF THE LONDON "SPECIAL AGENT."

London Paper Tells of Some of the American Tourists' Troubles.

[London Tribune.]

American millionaires who have recently left the breathless whirl of New York and Chicago for the comparatively peaceful haven of the West End of London are being assailed by a new terror, even more demoralizing than the English May weather, and one which comes in so insidious a shape that many resourceful men, famous in the intricate plans of finance and business, can find no adequate remedy save flight.

The new terror is called the "special agent" or the "special representative," and his particular prey is the wealthy American, his wife, sons and daughters. He is not altogether a new arrival, but this year he has assumed new methods which have enabled him to increase his activities a hundredfold and to carry his energies into fields which were previously denied to him. In reality he is a commercial traveler, who makes the American tourist his particular study, and adopts exceedingly baffling methods of approaching him.

A representative of the Tribune yesterday found the manager of one of London's foremast hotels, where it is an article of faith among many wealthy Americans to gather when accommodation is available, in a state of mind bordering upon despair over the tactics of the "special agent."

"I am continually receiving complaints from my clients," he said, "about these unscrupulous people, and although I do all I can to prevent their approach, I am outwitted practically every day. I have been obliged to discontinue the custom of allowing the names of prominent Americans staying at the hotel to be published, but in various ways many of the names seem to leak out.

"What happens is this: A gentleman, always well and fashionably dressed, hands in a plain visiting card at the inquiry office and asks for an American visitor by name. His card is taken up to the client in question, who in nine cases out of ten gives instructions for the caller to be shown up. He is usually a man with wide business relations, and thinks the caller must be someone whom he has met, but whose name he has forgotten. When the man is shown up he finds he represents a firm of motor-car manufacturers, art dealers, tailors or one of a score of other businesses.

The story was continued by an American visitor, who was himself a sufferer. "It is not easy," he said, "to escape their attentions. They have various means of finding the names, and they usually come primed with a superficial knowledge of their victim's career, gathered from handbooks. The cards never give any indication of their errand, and many of them do not hesitate, if asked their business, to say it is a private matter. BIGGEST MOSQUITOES

BEING BUILT FOR AMERICAN MUSEUM OF NATURAL HISTORY.

Four Hundred Thousand Times Size of Original, and Year and a Half In Making.

BEING BUILT FOR AMERICAN

The biggest mosquito that ever happened is being built at the American Museum of Natural History. Seventy-seventh street and Central Park West. It is being made in its four forms, male, female, larva and pupa, each one 400,000 times the size of the live original. These four mosquitoes have been a year and a half in the making. Each part has been constructed with scientific exactitude, of wood, wax, celluloid, glass, paper and paint, It has taken all the work of five men to complete them. The figures have not yet been entirely put together, but the parts are ready for assembling. By the time the mosquito season is really upon as they will be ready, and after that the four forms of the common or garden mosquito will be part of the museum's permanent exhibit.

The finished result will be a triumph of applied microscopy. Every one of the myriad of parts of the mosquito has been studied under the microscope and then has been copied on a scale 400,000 times bigger, precisely as the instrument has shown it, not only in detail of form, but in color and texture.

Now, this finished mosquito—400,000 rolled into one—will enable anybody to see to perfection just exactly what the pest really is. His biting apparatus—the business end of the mosquito—is shown in all its wonder. It is a gigantic, almost terrifying sight, this Brobdingnagian mosquito. He is four and a half feet long, and correspondingly high. Were he alive he could whip a regiment of men with ease.

Male and female are approximately alike. The body is of wax, with its wing-frames of glass, over which oiled paper has been stretched to produce the translucent effect. The feather-like scales along the veins of the wings are of celluloid. They are numerically exact. Collections of the scales make the spotted appearance of the wings under the ordinary microscope.

The leg of the mosquito is of wood, jointed. Each leg is covered with the same scales as are on the wings. This has been one of the most laborious details of the construction. For each scale a tiny hole must be bored in the wooden leg and the scale inserted by hand. One man working all day long can cover only about three inches.

The making of the eyes has been a tremendous job. The mosquito has two eyes, each made up of 350 minuter eyes. You can imagine how small these 350 eyes are in the ordinary mosquito when in the mammoth replica each one is about the size of a pinhead. Can anyone conceive of anything 400,000 times smaller than a pinhead?

The eyes have a peculiar iridescence, something like that seen on coal tar. Each of the little eyes has been put into the big eye independently, a distinct piece, part of a harmonious whole.

The biting apparatus will interest the average beholder most of all. Here you may see plainly and distinctly just why the mosquito bite is painful and how it bites. The adult mosquito has a genuine armory that does as much damage as any standing army does to the lives of men. It is responsible for much of the disease in the world. Minute as the sting is, it is a deadly thing.

The armory comprises two saws and two lances. These are in a tubular sheath, in the giant mosquito about a foot long. This tubular sheath has lips on its end. The sheath projects out from the head, and is on a hairy, yellow substance.

When the lips are pressed against a surface and the mosquito starts to bite, the enveloping cover over the tubular sheath slips back, leaving the two saws and the two lances exposed. In the models lances and saws are made of white glass and the effect is extremely striking.

The two antennae in the giant mosquito have been beautifully made of glass, and, following closely the design of nature as they do, they present exquisite delicacy of design and form. In the model they are fifteen to eighteen inches long, and are marked by whorl after whorl of points, grading down to the end, an effect that can best be described by saying that it is exactly like that of the horse-tail plant.

The model of the larva shows the embryo mosquito after it has left the egg and is floating in the water. In the pupa stage the mosquito is shown after it has stored up sufficient energy to form legs and wings.

Also there is under construction for this exhibit a cross-section model of the body of the mosquito, showing with exactitude and with all possible perfections of color the mosquito's interior organs. An important feature of this cross-section model will be the reproduction of the mosquito's salivary glands, where the parasites of the mosquito which introduce disease into the human organism, probably lodge.

Suit To Dissolve Merger.

Jefferson City, Mo., May 29.—The suit to dissolve the alleged merger of Gould interest railroads in this State was argued in the Supreme Court to-day on demurrers filed by the defendants to the information of Attorney General Hadley. Decision is expected within thirty days.

ATTACKS DUE TO RACE PREJUDICE

JAPANESE VIEW OF ASSAULTS IN 'FRISCO.

NOT CONNECTED WITH THE STREET CAR STRIKE.

ALL WITHOUT PROVOCATION.

San Francisco, May 29.—The Japanese Association, composed of leading Japanese residents, to-day gave out the following statement of the Japanese view of recent assaults committed against Japanese in this city:

In the first place, the Japanese residents of San Francisco realize the fact that the present conditions in this city made it very difficult for the authorities to extend full protection. They understand that the strike upon street railways put a heavy tax upon the police force and that it is impossible to guard all places at times against the lawless element of the community.

They are fully convinced, however, that much of the violence to which they had been subjected is due to racial prejudice and that the attempts which are being made in certain quarters to have it appear that the trouble is confined to quarrels between laboring men, incidentally involving the Japanese, are without foundation.

In support of this view they direct attention to the fact that the Japanese restaurants have been systematically annoyed and simultaneously attacked. Hardly a day goes by in the territory south of Market street that some threatening demonstration is not made by roughs and hoodlums against Japanese places of business in that quarter.

After giving a number of specific instances of attacks on Japanese restaurants between May 20 and May 25, the statement continues:

"The uniformity of these expressions of hostility to Japanese precludes the idea that they are accidental results of chance rows between white laboring men. They are entirely distinct in character from the acts of violence growing out of the street car strike, where capital and labor are at war. They are clearly an expression of race prejudice, to which the people of no other nationality are at present subjected.

"The Japanese residents of San Francisco further insist that no provocation has been given or is being given for these outrages. They are peacefully engaged in a lawful occupation, the right to which is guaranteed to them by treaty stipulations. They believe that they are fully justified in protesting against acts which place their property in jeopardy and their lives in peril, and they denounce as unjust such public criticism as attributes their complaints to mere caprice.

They simply desire that the true facts of these assaults should be placed before the American people, believing implicitly in the fairness and sense of justice of that tribunal.

In the meantime they sincerely regret the necessity of calling for special police protection, but believe it wiser to make that demand now rather than wait until some overt act of the mob shall precipitate more serious troubles and possibly bloodshed.

KENTUCKY WOMAN CHARGED WITH POISONING HUSBAND.

Kemmerer, Wyo., May 29.—Mrs. Carl Halberson, who formerly lived near Liberty, Casey county, Ky., is under arrest here, charged with attempting to murder her husband by putting strychnine in his coffee. At the same time Mrs. Halberson took some of the poison herself with suicidal intent, it is alleged. Both husband and wife came near dying, but are now out of danger. Mrs. Halberson, it is claimed, was jealous of her husband, who, she thought, was paying undue attentions to other women.

NO RELIEF FROM THE COLD WAVE.

Washington, May 29.—The Weather Bureau to-night held out no hope of a change from the abnormally cold weather which has prevailed east of the Rocky mountains. Cloudy and unsettled weather is reported throughout the region of the cold wave, except in the vicinity of the lower great lakes. The forecast for Thursday and Friday says:

"Temperature changes will not be marked."

BATTLESHIP'S TOP MAST INJURES TWO SAILORS.

Norfolk, Va., May 29.—The topmast of the battleship Virginia fell during the drill hour this morning, striking one of the fighting tops and wounding Boatswain's Mate Griffin seriously, and Seaman Kinley. Griffin is internally injured and probably will die. Kinley's injuries are not serious.

GOV. LITTLE'S CONDITION IS MUCH IMPROVED.

Fort Smith, Ark., May 29.—The condition of Gov. John S. Little, who is ill at his home in Greenwood, is much improved to-night. He retains nourishment, and Dr. Pittman is greatly encouraged.

SWITCHMEN'S UNION ELECT HAWLEY PRESIDENT.

Detroit, Mich., May 29.—The biennial convention of the Switchmen's Union of North America to-day re-elected Frank T. Hawley, of Buffalo, president. The election of officers will be completed Friday, the convention having adjourned over to-morrow on account of Memorial day.

NEGRO HANGED FOR CRIMINAL ASSAULT.

McDonough, Ga., May 29.—Buck High, a fifteen-year-old negro, was hanged here to-day for a criminal assault upon the four-year-old daughter of a prominent white citizen. The crime was committed last March.

Price—Falconer.

Versailles, Ky., May 29.—[Special.]—A tea was given this afternoon by Mrs. Oliver H. Farra to announce the engagement of Miss Alice Cary Price to Mr. John R. Falconer, of St. Louis. The wedding will be celebrated at the Presbyterian church in Versailles on June 27. Miss Price is the youngest daughter of Mr. D. B. Price, of this city, and is a very handsome and attractive young lady. Mr. Falconer is in the insurance business.

S.S.S. REMOVES BLOOD HUMORS

When the blood is pure and healthy the skin will be soft, smooth and free from eruptions, but when the blood becomes infected with some unhealthy humor the effect is shown by rashes, eruptions, boils and pimples, or other disfiguring and annoying skin disease. The skin is provided with countless pores and glands which act as a drainage system to rid the body of impurities through the perspiration that is constantly passing through these little tubes. There are other glands that pour out on the skin an oily substance to keep it soft and pliable. When the blood becomes filled with humors and acids these are thrown off through the pores and glands, burning and irritating the skin and drying up the natural oils so that we have not only Acne, Eczema, Salt Rheum, etc., but such dry, scaly skin affections as Tetter, Psoriasis, and kindred troubles. The treatment of skin troubles with salves, washes, lotions, etc. is not along the right line. True, such treatment relieves some of the itching and discomfort and aids in keeping the skin clear, but it does not reach the real cause of the trouble, which are humors in the blood, and it can therefore have no real curative effect on these skin affections. S. S. S., a gentle acting and perfect blood purifier, is the best and quickest treatment. It goes down into the blood and removes the humors, fiery acids and poisons from the circulation, cools the overheated blood, and by sending a fresh stream of nourishing blood to the skin permanently cures skin diseases of every character. S. S. S. is made entirely of health producing roots, herbs and barks, and is an absolutely safe remedy for young or old. S. S. S. cures Eczema, Acne, Salt Rheum, Tetter, Psoriasis, and all other disagreeable and unsightly eruptions of the skin. Special book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice desired furnished free to all who write. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

SUBURBAN HOMES

Strong Demand For Them At Present.

CLIFFORD CLARK AND BYRON HILLIARD TWO PURCHASERS.

RESIDENCE PROPERTY IN EAST AND SOUTH ACTIVE.

SOME SALES OF YESTERDAY.

Two important deals in suburban property were announced as having been closed yesterday and the demand for summer homes outside the city limits is said to be stronger this year than ever before. Especially is this true of property lying along the Pewee Valley electric line.

Clifford Clark purchased yesterday, through the real estate firm of the Varble-Button Company, the residence of Edwin Chase at Anchorage. The price was private. The residence stands on a commanding hill and is surrounded by attractive grounds. It is Mr. Clark's intention to remodel the house and improve the property.

James Button, of the Varble-Button Company, said that he has had several offers for suburban property of the type of this house, and will likely close several other deals soon.

Byron Hilliard purchased the Dr. J. B. Bullitt residence and three acres of land on Cherokee Drive, just outside Cherokee Park and the city limits, for a price said to be between $6,500 and $7,000. The sale was made through the firm of John H. Brand & Co.

According to one real estate dealer the strongest demand in the real estate market at present is for residences, either in the Highlands or in the south central part of the city to cost from $4,000 to $7,000. This dealer said that he could sell a dozen houses of this character if he could get the owners to agree to sell, and sell for a fair price.

New Distillery Office.

The Stitzel Distillery Company yesterday took out a permit for the erection of a two-story brick office building to cost $7,000. It will occupy a site at Story avenue and Johnson street.

The real estate department of the Fidelity Trust Company yesterday leased to J. C. Alcock and W. C. Brinkman the Boss storehouse and residence at Jeffersontown as an office for the paper they are to publish at Jeffersontown. This house was the scene of the tragedy in which the husband of Mrs. Barbara Boss lost his life. Mrs. Boss was arrested on the charge of murdering her husband, but was acquitted in the Circuit Court.

ARRIVALS AND DEPARTURES YESTERDAY.

City of Louisville from and to Cincinnati....Helen M. Gould from and to Carrollton....Tell City from and to Evansville.

BOATS LEAVING THIS DAY.

City of Cincinnati, Capt. Lindenbern, for Cincinnati at 5 p. m....Helen M. Gould, Capt. McIntyre, for Carrollton at 4 p. m. ....Glenmore, Capt. Anderson, for Evansville at 4 p. m....Georgia Lee, Capt. Bryant, for Memphis at 12 o'clock noon.

RIVER, BUSINESS AND WEATHER.

The river was rising last evening, with 7 feet 5 inches in the canal, 5 feet 3 inches on the falls and 16 feet 5 inches at the foot of the locks. Business good. Weather cloudy and cool.

DRIFTWOOD.

The Glenmore leaves for Evansville this afternoon at 4 o'clock....The Tarascon had a fine trip out last evening....The Georgia Lee leaves for Memphis and all way points this day at noon....The Falls City goes to Kentucky river to-morrow afternoon....The big, fine Cincinnati packets carry crowds on their excursion trips, especially Saturday evenings and Sunday mornings. The rate is very low and the trip a delightful one....Capt. Jesse Irwin has quit the Peters Lee and Capt. Peters Lee is in his place....The Leona was sold at Calhoun, Ky., a few days ago....The City of Cincinnati has not been laid up for repairs nor is the Bonanza in the Cincinnati trade....The Harvester is due up from Memphis with a tow of empties....The Pittsburg was the S. H. H. Clarke....The Reaper and Valiant went back to Pittsburg with empties....On Sunday morning next at 9 o'clock the big, fine City of Louisville leaves for Cincinnati. She meets the City of Cincinnati seventy-five miles up the river and carries excursionists up and back at a very low figure for the round trip. A big crowd will go up and back and enjoy the trip....A cargo of passengers on the floating poolroom, the City of Traverse, were arrested a few days ago as inmates of a disorderly place. The vessel is an old lake steamer which was fitted out as a poolroom at Chicago. The boat has been successfully used to evade the police for two years. Four detectives boarded it prior to its departure and remained aboard to obtain evidence of gambling. They reported that when the vessel was several miles off shore the passengers made wagers on the horse races. Upon the return of the boat to its dock, the Nineteenth-street station, seventy-five policemen and detectives arrested its seventy-two passengers....The Falls City leaves for Kentucky river to-morrow afternoon. Noble Pryor, the pilot, has been sick, but is all right again.... The best and handsomest mule teams that haul sand from the river belong to Scott Newman. He takes much interest in them and sees that they are well taken care of and well fed. They are fine mules.... The machinery on the Bonanza is being put in order at Cincinnati to be ready if needed at short notice....Steady rises in the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers. ....The Iron Age, Josh Cook, Jim Moren and Jim Wood are coming with tows of coal....Work on Capt. Neal Seabolt's fine launch is progressing rapidly...Ex-Mayor Maguire is quite ill at his home in Madison. He is the father of Shott Maguire, the well-known and popular steward....The Pittsburg Gazette-Times of Monday says: "Business among local rivermen was very dull yesterday and owing to lack of sufficient barge water no shipments of coal were sent South. From the present indications a rise need not be expected for a few days. An indication of the dullness among the coal fleets was some thirty or forty empty barges lying moored along the banks of the Monongahela river"....The Oakland and tow are due up from the South....The Evansville Courier says: "Under the existing circumstances it is no certain thing that freight offered can be handled even on Wednesday. Much depends on the notion of the vagrant negroes, who are allowed to lie about the wharf and in the various dives about the city. As long as the city officials allow the vagrancy law to lie as a dead letter the merchants of the city may look for delays in the transportation of consignments to their customers. The steamboat companies are offering good wages, board included, but this seems to be no temptation for the lazy set of negroes on the wharf. They should be made to work or get out of the way." ....Big model barges have been towed South lately by the M. R. C. C. and Co. towboats heavily loaded with ties, nails and other manufactured iron. Several are down the Mississippi being unloaded at various points and the barges will be reloaded with sugar and molasses for this city, Cincinnati and Pittsburg....The Liberty, which carried a cargo of shoes up White river from St. Louis, is on her way back for another load. She is above Memphis on her way up....The Sprague and W. W. O'Neal are on their way here from New Orleans with tows of empties....The steel steamer Clara Ramos, built by Rees at Pittsburg, left New Orleans last Friday for Frontera, Mexico, on her own steam....The Pittsburg Post says: "The Executive Committee of the National Board of Steam Navigation has selected Norfolk, Va., as the place for the next annual convention, which will be held on September 18. Pittsburg rivermen are deeply interested in the matters of this organization and there is a large membership in Western Pennsylvania. J. Frank Tilley, secretary of the Coal Exchange, is treasurer and several of the leading river operators are members of the executive board. As the convention will be close to the Jamestown Exposition, there will probably be a big delegation of rivermen at the session of the board"....The railroads will all engage in a big rate war before long. All are ready for a fight. Let 'er come....The Reaper and tow of coal from Pittsburg arrived and goes on South. ....The Pittsburg with a big tow of empties will be up from Cairo to-day and returns South with a tow of coal....Capt. G. W. Theis arrived from the South on a business trip yesterday and left for Pittsburg last night....Pilot Berry Smith made a trip South and back on the Harvester and is home again.

RIVER TELEGRAMS.

Pittsburg, May 29.—[Special.]—Seven tows of coal with about 2,000,000 bushels left on the crest of the rise to-day, which reached 9.9 feet at Davis Island dam. The River Coal Company sent out the Josh Cook, James Moren, Iron Age and Rival. River Coal Company sent out the Josh A. R. Budd; the People's Coal Company sent out the Crescent, and the United Coal Company the Helen White. The River Coal Company will send out the Ed Roberts with a tow to-morrow morning. There was 9.6 feet at Davis Island dam to-night and the water falling. The committee of rivermen headed by Commodore J. Frank Tilley returned this evening from Brilliant, O., where the condition of the Ohio river near that place was investigated. The members of the committee refused to talk of what would be done in the shape of a protest against the proposed fill by the Wheeling and Lake Erie railroad. Rivermen declare that the river space at that place wanted by the railroad company is valuable to river interests, and strong protests will be entered to the War Department, which has been asked to allow the fill. River interests were notified to-day that the Kanawha and Michigan Railway Company had been granted the privilege of reconstructing its bridge at Point Pleasant, O., and that the channel will be closed from July 1 for about ninety days. A temporary channel will be provided on the West Virginia shore.

Cincinnati, May 29.—[Special.]—At 6 p.m. to-day the Ohio river at Cincinnati was 21 feet 9 inches and rising. The departures of packets were: H. M. Stanley for Pomeroy, Courier for Maysville, Levi J. Workum for Madison, City of Cincinnati for Louisville and Peters Lee for Memphis. The Lucy Marmet arrived to-day with coal. The Harvester passed up with empties. The Douglas Hall arrived and departed with empties to-night. The George Mathewson passed up from Louisville with empties. Cloudy and warm.

Madison, Ind., May 29.—[Special.]—River 17.4 feet, rising. Rain.

Evansville, May 29.—River 13.3 feet, stationary. Clear and slightly warmer.

Cairo, May 29.—River 22.5 feet, falling. Partly cloudy and cool. Arrived: City of Saltillo, Tennessee river, 1 p. m.; Stacker Lee, St. Louis, 1 p. m. Departed: Ferd Herold, St. Louis, 12 noon; Stacker Lee, Memphis, 4 p. m.; City of Saltillo, St. Louis, 2 p. m.

St. Louis, May 29.—River 15.1 feet, a rise of three-tenths of a foot in twenty-four hours. Departed: City of Savannah, for Tennessee river.

Memphis, Tenn., May 29.—[Special.]—River 19.8 feet, a fall of 1.7 feet in twenty-four hours. The Kate Adams arrived from Arkansas City; Pacific No. 2 departed with a tow of model barges for the Ohio river. The towboat Dolphin No. 3 departed with a tow of empty barges for St. Francis river. The Chaperone, towing the houseboat Summer Girl, departed for Clinton, Ia.

THURSDAY.....MAY 30, 1907

"Business."

Wednesday Evening, May 29.—The New York stock market opened higher and after some irregularity developed a firm tone, which lasted to the close, final prices showing good gains.

Money on call was easy at 1½ to 2 per cent., ruling at 1¾. Time loans were slightly firmer. Sterling exchange was steady.

The Chicago wheat market had an early break, but regained it later, the July option closing unchanged from yesterday. Corn was ⅝c to ½c higher. Oats were up 1c.

The cotton market opened firm at an advance of 7 to 17 points and exhibited a strong tone throughout the session, closing prices being 21 to 28 points better than the opening.

The Chicago cattle market was weak for cows and 10c higher for others. The hog market was steady and the sheep market 10c lower.

Advising, and wisely advising, its friend, the Governor of Kentucky, to name no man for any of the Louisville offices vacated by the recent order of the Court of Appeals, who will be a candidate at the ensuing November election, the Evening Times says:

"Louisville has heard many preachments in the past eighteen months on the sacredness of the ballot. It has witnessed in the past thirty years no election in which fraud was not perpetrated by both sides, the measure of guilt depending solely on the measure of opportunity. Rascality is the exclusive attribute of neither party, as righteousness is not born of proclamations and does not always keep step with its loudest profession. A fair election will not result if one party is to be permitted to raise the cry of stop thief, the better to withdraw attention from its own thieves. There are good and evil men in both parties and in every party, and, unless the good men of all parties unite for the common purpose of seeing that no distinction is made between the thief who calls himself a Fusionist and the thief who boasts of his Democracy, the Government of Louisville will, in November, be placed in the hands of evil men."

This is the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

The New York Tribune, quoted in another part of to-day's paper, is no better pleased with the Courier-Journal's political suggestions than the Lexington Gazette and the Lexington Herald, though the Tribune is an undoubted and undoubting Republican, whilst our Bluegrass contemporaries claim to be Democrats. Recalling some forgotten fit of the blues, or what not, the Tribune twits us upon a certain growing optimism, observable in some of our more recent utterances. In answer we have to say that the Courier-Journal was just built that way. It never could stick very long in the mud, or stay very mad after the event. Its motto in hard-luck has ever been, "pick your flint and try it again." The rule it sets for itself it urges upon its political associates and its party. The Tribune is mistaken, however, in the assumption that we are making Democratic platforms and setting up Democratic candidates. We are merely intimating that, if given the job, we can show Mr. Bryan how to turn out the work and guarantee satisfaction—that is, a Democratic victory in 1908—always provided that those who claim to hold their lease direct from the Almighty are willing to sublet so much of their contract as relates to a platform and a candidate.

Consistency Is a Jewel.

The Lexington Leader, organ of straight-out Kentucky Republicanism, is throwing brick-bats at the Courier-Journal for no other reason that we can see than that the Courier-Journal is a Democrat. Well, the Courier-Journal is a Democrat. It knows why it is a Democrat and it can tell why it is a Democrat. It has always contended for Sound Democracy, including fair election laws and fair elections. It believes in good faith and fair play no less in public than in private affairs.

With our Bluegrass contemporary it seems to make all the difference in the world whose ox is gored. But a little while ago, for example, the Leader was declaiming against Judge Lassing as a partisan because the Judge did not give up one Judgeship until he got another—still sitting as a Democratic Committee Chairman—and now because this same Judge Lassing has delivered a legal opinion which the Leader approves—and which, let us add, the Courier-Journal does not disapprove—he has become such a model of wisdom and justice that the Republicans must needs join the Democrats in his unanimous election to a full term on the Bench of the Court of Appeals.

Seeing that Governor Beckham stands right back of Judge Lassing in his ruling, the Leader, to be consistent, will have to indorse him likewise. Then the woods will ring with the refrain, "How We Apples Swim!" After that, let us hear no more criticism of Democrats by Republicans.

Blind Leaders of the Blind.

I.

We regret to see that the Courier-Journal rests under the disapproval alike of the staid old Lexington Gazette and the sometime wayward Lexington Herald. Neither of those famed Belles of the Bluegrass supports our protest against the constructive usurpations of the President, as prefigured and defended by the Secretary of State, and the loose tampering of the Doctrinaires of Socialism with the organic law, as displayed on every hand, and both make light of our appeal for greater respect in the matter of historic precedent and more steadiness in the matter of the established order, generally expressed by the plea that we go "Back to the Constitution." Their attitude is quite enough alike to raise a suspicion of connivance. The Courier-Journal is truly unfortunate in having provoked the kindred and concurrent criticism of two such learned Thebans and valued and valorous comrades.

We shall begin by quoting from the Gazette, which, being senior, has a right to first place, and which says:

"The Constitution was at one time a first-class political platform, but it was the platform of a party from whose principles Mr. Watterson now dissents. It was the original platform of the Federalists, and Federalism and centralization are bogies to which all of Mr. Watterson's fears for the future of the country are to be attributed. The Democratic party will insist upon more specific declarations. Loyalty to the Constitution is too indefinite to satisfy the voters. All parties will profess loyalty to the fundamental principles of American institutions, and even those suggesting changes in the Constitution cannot be accused of seeking to overthrow the Republic."

The Gazette is older than the Courier-Journal. Doubtless its well of political history undefiled is deeper than ours. But, from our limited and more recent sources of supply, we fail to recall in what particular the use of the Constitution as a party platform by the Federalists a century ago bars it from the Democrats now. In point of fact, we do not remember just when the Federalists used it as a platform at all. Our political horn-book tells us that it was their wont to construe it past all recognition—in point of fact as wide as a barndoor—to suit themselves and their party exigencies. But, let that pass. The Gazette says it was "at one time a first-class platform." And we say that it has lost none of its virtues either as a civic code, or as a popular manifesto.

But, let the Gazette proceed. We are merely trying to get at truth. Again we quote:

"The Constitution is capable of various interpretations. It may be distorted to justify directly antagonistic views. The country is not in a mood to tolerate equivocation. The time has come when politicians and parties must be frank and sincere. We are confronted with great questions. Momentous problems are presented for solution. Every man who thinks must have opinions on current affairs."

The more reason why the organic, original chart should be reaffirmed by Democrats upon axiomatic Democratic lines. We need sorely to go back to first principles. Every fool with a pick-ax, calling himself a Democrat, should not be permitted to mutilate the Constitution. Nor should rank Socialism be confused with Democracy.

The Gazette continues:

"The Democratic party, if it hopes to make even a respectable showing in the next Presidential election, must stand for definite ideas. It must advocate a program of progressive statesmanship. It must have the courage to face the issues if it hopes to maintain the respect of intelligent people. It must leave no doubt as to its attitude and the politics it will pursue if entrusted with power. It cannot deceive the country by hiding behind a fetich. The Constitution, as long as it remains the supreme law, is entitled to respect; but this does not mean that it is so sacred as to be beyond the possibility of a change."

The Constitution is, or ought to be, sufficiently sacred to be adopted as the rule and plummet of a political organism not meditating such changes of system and usurpations of power as, when suspected of the old Federalists and the old Whigs, sent those parties to grass.

Our quotations from the Gazette read like the screeds of the Republicans just before the war of Sections. With them it was Abolition first, the Constitution afterwards. The Democratic party the last three Presidential campaigns has certainly shown no lack of "definite ideas," or of courage "to meet the issues." With each recurring "programme of progressive statesmanship," it has gone to wider differences and to receding majorities. There is nothing either equivocal, or evasive, in the revival of old-time, strict construction Democracy, embodied by the demand that in the disposition of the new problems we shall stand inside and not outside the organic law of the land. That only is what is meant by the proposed adjuration of the people to the officeholders, "Back to the Constitution."

II.

So much for the Gazette. Now let the Herald have the floor. Our esteemed contemporary, we are pained to observe, is disposed to compliment our parts of speech at the expense of our character and perspicacity. The poor plaintiff for the old order of things against the new, for all that is venerable in Democracy and sound in precedent, against all that is untried and questionable in experimentation, is bluntly told that he is merely "a phrasemaker," and that "his skill in promoting publicity for his own ideas amounts almost"—alas, why the qualification?—"to genius," and that, instead of being a country editor, having a certain clinging to the convictions of a lifetime and some tenacity in holding his own, "he might have made millions as an advertising expert." And then the Herald, still referring to the Editor of the Courier-Journal, goes on to say:

"His cry of 'Back to the Constitution' and the mystery with which he has surrounded his suggestion for a presidential candidate have served to attract attention and create discussion, from which it is clear that the Democrats are not inclined to resort to equivocation. The Democratic party, or at least a majority of it, does not look with favor on the proposition to dodge the issue and hide behind ancient theories.

"If the whole country agreed as to what the Constitution means, with the possibility of a difference of opinion in the matter of constitutional interpretation eliminated, the fundamental law would be inadequate as a platform for any political party. It is not clear wherein the country has radically deviated from constitutional principles. All of the machinery of the Government now existing rests upon the Constitution and is subject to constitutional limitations. We must depart from the Constitution before it is practicable to return to it.

"The Wattersonian war cry implies the worship of a fetich. It is well enough for the country to have respect for law. It is well enough to appreciate the dignity and importance of fundamentals. But there is danger in that form of political idolatry that would enshrine the Constitution as sacred and unchangeable. Like all other works of man, it has its imperfections. Its makers realized that it could not be a safe guide for the solution of all problems for an indefinite period in the future, and they provided means whereby it may be changed."

There is not a little of the ipse dixit here. There seems also some perversity from the Democratic point of view. How can the Herald know thus early in the debate what "a majority of Democrats" will next year be, either for, or against? Why should the bare suggestion of a possible Democratic nominee, who might still the discords and unite the party, be dismissed as an effort at mystification to enhance publicity? The Herald knows very well that the Courier-Journal is not a member of the charmed circle which stands for Democracy either within, or without, Kentucky, and that the Editor of the Courier-Journal is so persona non grata to the self-elect that wear the crown and issue the edicts alike of Governors and Courts of law, that they would rather take a bogus lottery ticket at the hands of an office-broker on the edge of the bottomless pit, than take counsel from him. Has the Herald turned organ-grinder? Whence cometh its new-found adulation of its erstwhile aversions?

But, let that pass also. The whole drift of our quotations from both the Herald and the Gazette, tend to the Roosevelt, not the Jeffersonian, school of Constitutional philosophy. Into what abysses of latter-day darkness must that Democrat have fallen who describes fidelity to the Constitution as "the worship of a fetich," and denounces it as "a dangerous form of political idolatry" for an old-line Jeffersonian Democrat to "enshrine the Constitution as sacred?"

The writer of this monstrous heresy adds the word "unchangeable," as if anybody had said anything about "unchangeable." The Constitution is attacked in its spirit and its letter. It is attacked by the President, leading the cohorts of paternalism and centralization. It is attacked by a great body of Extremists, preaching the subversion of the whole existing fabric, political and social. And, to stand by it, to defend it, to recur to it, to lift up the banner of the Constitution even as Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, is denounced as "the worship of a fetich" and "a dangerous form of political idolatry." Is that the Democracy, dear friends and fellow-students, you have been learning at—let us say—at Frankfort?

The Courier-Journal is doing what it can—unexcitedly, intelligently and disinterestedly—to consider and discuss the political situation as it slopes slowly down toward the Presidential period of 1908. It truly wants to elect a Democratic President. It invites its Democratic contemporaries, in and out of Kentucky, to share its investigation with it and to join it in the consideration of the actualities of the situation. But, in a spirit of inquiry and of brotherhood.

Does any one of them purpose, without an effort at agreement and preparation, to surrender our chance of victory in advance; with eyes wide open to walk blindfold to defeat? There are serious differences. Can they not be reconciled? There are many factions. Must they continue to baffle our hopes? The Courier-Journal may be mistaken; but it is sincere, it is unselfish and it is in earnest. It seeks nothing but a Democratic triumph. If the party can be unified it believes this possible; yet not, however, if many Democrats follow our two Lexington contemporaries in stigmatizing the Constitution of the United States as "a fetich," and its worship by Democrats as "a dangerous form of political idolatry."

Disheartened.

It may readily be conceived that the attorneys for the prosecution in their efforts to convict the Hargises and Callahans of complicity in the Breathitt orgies of assassination and terror, are disheartened. Representing the cause of law and justice, they repeatedly have conducted an admirable and determined fight for their side against conditions that are revolting to friends of law and believers in integrity of courts. Their task was one requiring courage, for they had to face the murder syndicate in its own territory. It required shrewdness, for against them were arrayed conscienceless cliques, who were not loath to stoop to devices more cunning than commendable. It required tenacity, for the defendants have proved themselves elusive. It demanded an abiding faith in the ultimate triumph of justice, for they saw operations of power in high places which must have been sufficient to make them question the chances of justice for the present.

The "ultimate triumph" of justice seems greatly delayed. The Breathitt murders have been going on for years and the victims lie rotting in their graves, yet, except for the imprisoning of Curt Jett, the leading spirits are still to pay the penalty of crime. The conspirators yet prevail. The prosecuting lawyers have won the admiration of the best elements of citizenship by their superb activities against the defendants in the Breathitt case—not only admiration, but gratitude. That they were opposed by masters of a vicious situation in official quarters was not their fault, but their misfortune, as it was the misfortune of outraged champions of law and high-minded behavior in the agents of law.

In Sandy Hook, so the Courier-Journal correspondent on the scene writes, sentiment favors the Hargis crowd. Of course. That is why the Hargis crowd thought Sandy Hook would be a fine place for the trial. It is because of the situation they find in Sandy Hook—this isolated town, tucked away in the remote heart of the mountains—that the prosecuting lawyers doubt the advisability of proceeding to the trial. Apparently they feel a trial under the circumstances would be futile, if not farcical. If they are disheartened, no wonder.

But a futile, farcical trial in Sandy Hook could be no worse, except in degree, than other futile, farcical trials which have gone before. Besides, every such trial helps to awaken the people of Kentucky to the dangerous and degraded state of affairs which is eating out decency in the official structure of the State.

The Power of the Negroes.

The negroes in mass meeting assembled in Washington City were addressed by a formed Consul General to Santo Domingo, who declared that the negro race is without comprehension of its political power. It can defeat any candidate whom the Republicans may nominate in 1908. They accordingly resolved that they do not want W. H. Taft as a candidate for the presidency and warn the leaders of the Republican party not to nominate anybody who says the enfranchising of the negroes was a mistake.

It is a question whether the negroes of the United States are willing to take this position. To say that they do not know their political power is almost equivalent to saying that they are possessed of power that they are not able fully to exercise. When they say they could defeat any candidate that the Republicans may nominate for the presidency in 1908, if they stand together, they are probably correct. In the States where they are most numerous they have no prospect of delivering any electoral votes to the Republican candidate. But among the States in which they have much smaller numbers there are several in which they have the balance of power in all close elections. By their votes they have repeatedly given these States to the Republicans in years when they would otherwise have lost them. Next year, in all probability, they could give these States to the Democrats by refusing to support the Republican nominee. So could any other equal number of Republicans who would stand together in opposition to the nominee. The difficulty has been in getting so many Republicans to repudiate the ticket. This difficulty has been rather greater with the negro voters than with the whites. They have been the most devoted in their determination to support the straight ticket. It is not altogether clear how they are to be induced to stand together. The idea of the negro gathering at Washington seems to be that by drawing the color line this may be done. They complain bitterly when the color line is drawn against them, but they see no wrong in their drawing it against others. Their hostility to Taft is based upon his admission that companies of the United States army composed of negroes were responsible for the shooting up of Brownsville. It might have fallen to his lot to make a similar report as to white troops, if the offenders had happened to be white, but that would have opened no door to demagogy. The circumstance that the offenders were negroes gave an opportunity to demagogues to appeal to the negroes not to support any man who admitted the guilt of these particular soldiers. This was in effect to say that negroes are so much superior to all other people that it is inconceivable that a negro soldier should have been guilty of such an offense. The opposition to Taft on this ground, therefore, is based upon the implied impeccability of the negro. The color line is drawn here in the most offensive way possible. It is virtually asserted that though United States troops may be convicted on irrefutable evidence of the most improper and criminal conduct, the conclusiveness of this evidence must not be admitted if the guilty parties are black. White soldiers may be punished, but negro troops must be conclusively presumed not to be capable of committing a crime. This conclusion is not to be based on evidence on the negro's known obedience to law, but on the circumstance that the negro holds the balance of power in the vote of certain States of the North. Unless he be held guiltless, contrary to all evidence, contrary to his well-known disposition to violate the law, the men who treat him as capable of committing crime must be boycotted by the whole negro race. Could there be a more conclusive argument for the unfitness of the negro to vote than the assumption that he will use this privilege in defense of riot and murder?

While exhorting all the negroes in the United States to use their votes to prevent the punishment of insubordination, riot and murder when perpetrated by negro troops, the Washington negroes exhort all the members of their race to oppose anybody who says the enfranchisement of the negro was a mistake. Now practically all the citizens of the United States know and feel that the bestowal of suffrage on the negro at the time and in the way that it was done was ill-advised, and at least premature. Some of them are not ready to say so because they are afraid it might lose them or their party some negro votes, but none the less the belief is general that a mistake was made. In this opinion the better class of negroes largely share. To make it an article of faith in the Republican party that there was no mistake in this matter might hold the negro vote in the Northern States, where it is needed, but it would hardly conduce to the success of the party in the whole country.

The truth is the negro was enfranchised at the time when the fifteenth amendment was adopted for the purpose of making the supremacy of the Republican party sure. The leaders had no illusions as to his fitness for suffrage, but they did not care, so long as they felt sure that he would vote the Republican ticket. Should he carry out his threat to refuse to vote for Republican candidates his unfitness for suffrage would be readily conceded by the very men who insisted that he should have it. The negro Republicans have a right to refuse to support Taft or any other candidate for the presidential nomination, but they are putting it upon grounds that are indefensible, and which prove that they are not yet fit to vote intelligently. However, as the negro was enfranchised for partisan objects, it would be a fitting punishment if it should cease to answer this wicked purpose.

The appeal to the negro race to refuse to vote the Republican ticket will probably be ineffectual. If, however, it should be successful, it would be interesting to see whether the negro tail is strong enough to wag the Republican dog.

Decoration Day.

To-day throughout the greater part of the United States will be observed as a public holiday and devoted to the commemoration of the Union soldiers who fell in the Civil War and to the decoration of their graves. It is rapidly, however, losing the features of a sectional day and becoming one on which the animosities of the war are minimized and the fraternal feelings between the survivors of the two contending armies are strengthened. By State and not national law it is a legal holiday in all the Northern States except Idaho and in all the Southern States except Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Texas. In Virginia it is known as "Confederate Memorial Day."

The custom of decorating the graves of those who fell in the war originated in the South soon after its close. In New Orleans and other cities of the South, where November first, "All Saints' Day," is observed and the graves of the dead are strewn with flowers, the custom of decorating the graves of the soldiers by their surviving comrades was early inaugurated and became a fixed custom. In a short time a day was observed for the same purpose in all the Southern States, not of uniform date, but selected with reference chiefly to the period at which flowers were in season. In course of time the custom was adopted in several of the Northern States, but it was not until May 3, 1886, that Gen. John A. Logan, then commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, issued an order fixing May 30 of that year for the G. A. R.'s service in decorating the graves of its brethren. It is thought that this day was selected chiefly because it was the date of the discharge of the last volunteer of the war.

As time passes and the ranks of the war survivors become thinner and thinner there is a closer approach to a unification on the day as one for common observance by the remnants of the two once contending armies. The near approach of it is seen from year to year in instances in which there is joint participation in some function, as the dedication of a monument by one or the other army association. Such affiliation, to be valued, must come only as the outgrowth of a natural and unanimous accord. It should not be attempted as the result of a proposition of a mere majority of a camp or other larger army organization. Just as each survivor of the war can feel pride in the manhood of his opponents in the conflict which impelled them to stake their lives in support of their convictions, so can the survivors with equal honor and consistency unite in honoring on Decoration day the memory of those who died on the battle field, irrespective of the banner under which they fought. The measure of affection will, of course, be for those of the same cause, but respect for an honorable adversary is one of the highest types of chivalry.

To-day there will be two memorable ceremonials, one in Richmond and the other in Indianapolis. The former will consist in the dedication of a monument to Gen. J. E. B. Stuart, the great Virginia cavalry leader, who fell at Yellow Tavern, near Richmond, May 11, 1864, during Sheridan's raid in the rear of Lee, then engaged in the battle of Spottsylvania Courthouse. A graduate of West Point, he was to the Confederate army in the East that which Morgan and Forrest were in the West, and was of the highest type of Virginia chivalry. The latter will be the dedication of a monument to Gen. H. W. Lawton, a gallant Federal officer in the Civil War, who was killed at San Mateo, in the Philippines, December 19, 1899. Here are types of men whose memory all can unite in honoring. What Confederate soldier would withhold his meed of praise from the gallant Lawton, an honorable opponent in the Civil War who sealed his devotion to his country with his blood on a foreign shore? And where is the honorable Federal loyalist who would detract from the memory of Stuart, who had he survived the war in which he fell would have responded to the call of his country in 1898 with the same ardor as Joe Wheeler and Fitzhugh Lee? The day with its honorable history reminds us that the war, with all the bitter strife which preceded and followed it, is a thing of the far distant past, and that we are again one people, with bonds all the stronger for the opportunity the people of the two sections had of becoming better acquainted with each other.

Owing to the frequency with which cyclones have occurred in Northern Texas during recent years the people have in many settlements provided themselves with storm cellars. In the recent tornado which struck the town of Emery these cellars proved to be of great service as places of refuge. Had it not been for the numerous underground places of safety with which the place was provided the loss of life would have been very serious. As it was, but three white persons were killed, while in the negro section of the town, where there had been no such precaution taken, there were twenty fatalities.

Says the Buffalo Evening News:

"Col. J. Ham. Lewis, of the glorious pink whiskers, the pride of Chicago, is suggested as Col. Watterson's mysterious stranger with a moustache, who is to be the Democratic candidate for the Presidency next year. The Tribune guesses wildly, for the Kentuckian set his deliverer from G. O. P. thralldom west of the great river. Lewis came from Washington to Illinois but he was born in Virginia and moved to Georgia the same year, and there he was "raised." He has lived both east and west of the Mississippi and also north and south of the Ohio. But the pink whiskers will never do."

The Courier-Journal risks nothing in the surmise that Col. Lewis is not the gentleman suspected.

Although we cannot contemplate the shaven head of Abraham Hummel without shedding a tear of sympathy, we should bear in mind that time was when that distinguished lawyer thought no more of skinning a client than the average high financier thinks of buying a yacht with the aggregate losings of 10,000 widows and orphans, whose providers listened to the swan song of his agent in the field.

According to a contributor to one of the magazines exercise in Sweden is universal, and even convicts are compelled to take it systematically. Beautiful Wedding.

Miss Laura Embry and Mr. J. Elliott Riddell, of Estill Springs, Married Last Evening in the Crescent Hill Presbyterian Church.

The wedding of Miss Laura Louise Embry to Mr. J. Elliott Riddell, which was solemnized last evening at 7 o'clock in the Crescent Hill Presbyterian church, was one of the prettiest of the spring weddings of recent years.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. H. Marquess, who was assisted by the Rev. Dr. James A. Chandler, of the Methodist church.

The church was beautifully and artistically decorated in palms, ferns and blooming hydrangeas. The plants and flowers were tastefully arranged around the rostrum and pulpit, and formed a charming background for the bridal party.

The bridal procession entered in the following order. First came the ushers, walking two abreast, with Dr. Hugh Manning and Mr. Thomas Gaither, followed by Mr. John Buchanan and Mr. Foster Embry.

The bridesmaids came next with Miss Aileen Moran and Miss Florence Lockhart, of Paris, followed by Miss Dorothy Embry, the maid of honor, who preceded the bride, who entered with her father, Mr. G. W. Embry. They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. Robert Friend, of Irvine.

Mendelssohn's wedding march was played as the bridal party entered and was repeated as a recessional. During the ceremony "Call Me Thine Own" was played.

The bridesmaids wore dainty gowns of white net mounted on yellow silk, and trimmed in Valenciennes lace. They carried large loose clusters of Paris daisies.

The maid of honor wore a beautiful gown of primrose yellow silk, trimmed in lace and she also carried Paris daisies.

The bride's gown was unusually beautiful and becoming, and was severe in its simplicity. It was made of white satin supple appliqued in rose point lace. The corsage was cut high and the sleeves were elbow length, and were finished with the point lace. Her veil was of tulle fastened with lilies of the valley, and she carried a French bouquet of the lilies.

Mr. and Mrs. Riddell left later in the evening on their wedding trip and will go to Estill Springs, where they will make their home.

A number of out-of-town guests were present at the wedding. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cunningham, of Middlesboro; Misses Dorothy and Minerva Embry, of Lexington; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Riddell and Miss Bessie Riddell, of Irvine; Mr. and Mrs. Tarleton Embry, of Cincinnati; Mrs. Nannie Embry and her son Tarleton, of Lexington, and Mr. Harvey Riddell, of Denver, Col.

"GOING IT BLIND."

The Republicans Don't Like the Constitution For a Democratic Platform and Will None of the Courier-Journal's "Dark Horses" For President.

[New York Tribune.]

The more Henry Watterson considers his scheme for electing a Democratic President in 1908 the better he likes it. His plan, which we outlined and frankly commended a day or two ago, involves the retirement of Mr. William J. Bryan, the nomination in his stead of a Man with the Iron Mask candidate, whose identity is to be kept a campaign secret, and the adoption of the "crisp" and cryptic four-word platform, "Back to the Constitution." So satisfied is the editor of the Courier-Journal of the cleverness of the strategy which he proposes that he is already foreseeing and celebrating a Democratic victory. "Our belief is," he said in a new panegyric last Wednesday on his Man of Mystery and Destiny, "that he (said Man of Mystery and Destiny) can defeat even Hughes and insure us a Democratic victory next year."

Only a month ago Col. Watterson was a prey to cynical disillusionment and blank despair. He saw no future for the Democratic party. Asked on his return from Europe about the prospect for 1908, he said with bitter irony:

"If we should have cholera in the Philippines and yellow fever in Cuba; if corn should drop to thirty cents and wheat to forty cents, then we should have a good chance. Yes, and we might win, too, if the Republican party should split wide open."

Four weeks in the Old Kentucky Home seem to have heartened the Colonel mightily, for now, instead of invoking famine, pestilence, hard times and impious and fratricidal strife among Republicans as the only agencies equal to creating a Democratic victory, he has undertaken to organize that victory alone and single handed, the Democratic party merely convenanting to let him write its platform and pick, but not announce, its presidential candidate. "The Democratic party cannot survive another defeat," exclaims Col. Watterson. He will therefore do for it with his prize package nominee, who is "clean, able, approved, loyal" and has "hair not yet touched with gray," and his rallying cry of "Back to the Constitution," what otherwise could be accomplished only by the unruly and devastating forces of nature in an unkind mood.

The Kentucky conservator is even inclined to withdraw the "short and crisp" platform which he framed last week to illustrate his ideas of a "return to the Constitution." He agrees with us that in such matters there is always danger in being too definite. He fortifies his aversion to overparticularity by an apt illustration in history. In 1840 the Whig party, in order to beat Van Buren, nominated William Henry Harrison, an orthodox Whig, and John Tyler, States' rights anti-Jackson Democrat. No platform could be capacious enough for those two nominees to stand on, and so a platform was prudently dispensed with. "May not the Democrats in 1908," asks Mr. Watterson, "take a lesson from the Whigs of 1840?" Undoubtedly they may. A platform is only a strife-making political luxury for a party which has no recognized and common beliefs. The editor of "The Courier-Journal" will find that he will save a good deal of unnecessary trouble by inviting the delegates to the next National Convention to "go it blind" on the platform as well as on the Presidential candidate.

May Cut Salaries To-day.

Salaries of employes of the Louisville Water Company likely will be reduced in some instances and increased in others at a meeting of the Board of Waterworks to be held this morning at 10 o'clock. Sebastian Zorn, president of the board, has been at work on the proposed change for some time. He declined to state yesterday just who will be affected, asserting that when the proper time comes he will give out a written statement.

SOME CURRENT JINGLES.

KUROKI.

[Washington Star.]

You're vastly diplomatic, as an honored guest should be;
Your delicate discernment is a gracious thing to see.
You compliment our people as you go from place to place;
But, then, politeness always did come natural to your race.
You praise our institutions in a manner that is fit,
But 'mid such demonstrations certain doubts will always flit.
These nice things that you say in England, tell us, please,
Are they always just the same as what you think in Japanese?

Of course we know you like us in a general sort of way,
And have profund respect for our industrial display,
But haven't you, sometimes, as on your journeyings you went Yearned for the great politeness of the placid Orient?
Our crowded cars, our noisy streets, our public strife and stress;
Our institutions known as graft—ah, how did they impress?
Your compliments have put us quiet completely at our ease,
But—were they just the same as what you thought in Japanese?

BALLAD OF OUR COOKS.

[Puck.]

Selena's specialty was brooms
And scrubbing and adjusting.
Daily she cycloned through the rooms
Industriously dusting.
With her the ice-box door staid shut
And milk staid sweet—sic semper;
We really loved Selena, but
We couldn't stand her temper.

Carlotta's voice was soft and low—
A most pacific creature;
A pious goodness seemed to show
Upon her every feature.
And clever, too, we never had
To shout to make her see things;
It's cruel to be obliged to add
She stole our silver tea-things.

Jemima—bless her!—loudly scorned
The least prevarications;
Her lightest moments were adorned
With biblical quotations.
We liked Jemima—I'll be bound
I sometimes think we would have Kept her forever, But we found
She drank more than she should have.

Katrina flirted all day long;
Sabina fed her cousins;
Elizabeth was never strong,
(But dances!—by the dozens).
Now Mary rules authoritatively our culinary;
And we—we patiently await
A fresh surprise from Mary.

As the best.
Spring is chilly. As to that
She concurs.
That is why the crafty cat
Fetches furs.

AWAKE UNPLEASANT MEMORIES.

[Paris Cor. London Mail.]

The "Matin" raises a protest against the general wearing by French children of sailor hats, made in London, with such ribbons as "H. M. S. Trafalgar," "Victory," "Nile," "Cressy," and "Aboukir," all recalling French defeats.

"It is nonsensical," says the "Matin," "for French children to walk about with English sailor hats as though French children were British subjects. It is the fashion just now to go to England for boys' sailor hats and suits, but supposing people were to go to Germany? French mothers would never allow their offspring to wear caps with such words as 'Sedan' or 'Woerth.'"

MONON'S TITLE

Questioned To New Albany Real Estate.

CITY COVETS PROPERTY ONCE OCCUPIED BY SHOPS.

MEMORIAL DAY WILL BE GENERALLY OBSERVED TO-DAY.

NEW EASTERN STAR CHAPTER.

At the meeting of the Board of Public Works of New Albany, held in that city yesterday morning, City Attorney John H. Weathers was directed to examine into the title of the Monon Railway Company to the tract of land formerly occupied by that company's machine shops, which were removed a few years ago to Lafayette. The City Attorney was instructed to ascertain if this land had been donated to the railway company by the city nearly a half-century ago with the understanding that it was to revert back should the company at any time remove the shops. If this should prove to be the case steps will be taken, it is likely by the city, to recover the property, which has become very valuable.

The grade for Market street, from East to Silver, was submitted by City Engineer Samuel T. Mann, and he was instructed to prepare plans and specifications for the improvement with vitrified brick, to be submitted at the next meeting of the board. Resolutions were adopted instructing City Controller Carl Best to ask the Common Council, at the next meeting of that body, to appropriate $500 for the care of persons afflicted with smallpox, and also for $1,000 to be used in the purchase of a street-flushing machine.

Judge Alexander Dowling, representing a number of property-owners of the North Side suburb, regarding the matter of opening an alley west of State street, between Green and Albany streets. After some little discussion action was deferred until June 8, when all the parties to the controversy will appear before the board.

MEMORIAL DAY OBSERVATION.

Graves In National Soldiers' Cemetery To Be Decorated.

Memorial day will be appropriately observed in New Albany. The banks, public offices and Carnegie Library will be closed, there will be a general suspension of business during the afternoon in honor of the patriotic dead. The general delivery window at the post-office will be closed after 10 o'clock this morning, the carriers making but one collection and delivery trip. Flowers to be used for decorating the graves of soldiers in the National cemetery on Ekin avenue may be left this morning at the following places: Mrs. Padgett, Oak and Thomas streets; George H. Pennington, Silver Grove; Mrs. Jacobs, 712 East Eleventh street; Callahan's drug store, East Eighth street; Pierle's drug store, Spring and Vincennes; reelhouse, Fourth and Spring; Stockdell Drug Company, Pearl and Market; Graves' grocery, West Market street; Mrs. Charlotte Jones, West Albany suburb; Mrs. McNamata, 1216 State street; Mrs. Farrabee, 155 Cherry street, and National Soldiers' Cemetery, Ekin avenue.

New Order Eastern Star Chapter.

An interesting meeting of New Albany Chapter, No. 340, Order of the Eastern Star, a side degree of Masonry, was held in Clapp's Hall Tuesday night. At this meeting Mrs. Nettie Ransford, of Indianapolis, Grand Secretary of the Grand Chapter of Indiana, organized the chapter, which had been operating under a special dispensation, and installed the officers. They were: Mrs. Fanny M. Spence, Worthy Matron; Lawrence B. Huckeby, Worthy Patron; Mrs. Flora Kelly, Associate Matron; Mrs. Katherine G. Newhouse, Secretary; Mrs. Diana M. Conner, Treasurer; Mrs. Mary A. Graff, Conductress; Mrs. Lottie Darnell, Associate Conductress; Mrs. Frances E. Hindmarch, Chaplain; Mrs. Aurelia R. Hickey, Adah; Mrs. Fanny Pepper, Ruth; Mrs. Henrietta Mitchell, Esther; Mrs. Adelaide A. Laufer, Martha; Mrs. Viola Maxwell, Warder; Mrs. Thomas E. Spence, Sentinel.

Daughters of Pocahontas Adjourn.

The annual State convention of the Daughters of Pocahontas, a woman's auxiliary of the Improved Order of Red Men, which has been in session in New Albany since Tuesday afternoon, closed yesterday and the delegates from the various Councils of Indiana left last night for their homes. Yesterday was spent by the delegates in sight-seeing in New Albany, all the points of interest having been visited and the most generous hospitality extended by the Navajo Council, a local organization.

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN NEW ALBANY.

—Miss Bessie McCord will leave in a few days for New York, going thence to Europe, where she will spend several months.

—Emmett E. McPheeters, of this city, will deliver the oration at the Memorial day services in Fredericksburg by the G. A. R. Post of that place.

—Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Jackson have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Susan Wasson Jackson, to William C. Borgerding. The marriage will be solemnized in August.

—Judge John H. Weathers left last night on the packet for Mauckport, where he will deliver an oration at the Memorial day exercises to be held by the old soldiers of that place this afternoon.

—Mrs. Charles Becht will leave to-night for New York, where she will spend several weeks. From there she will go to her cottage at Long branch, spending the summer there and at Asbury Park.

—John Denny, colored, arrested by Patrolman Jacob Fiss on a charge of stealing coal from the Monon railroad yards, was fined $10 in the City Court and sent to jail for ten days by Judge John M. Paris.

—Coleman G. Weiss, of Louisville, and Miss Caroline Rehmann, of this city, were married yesterday morning in St. Mary's Catholic church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Weiss, uncle of the groom.

—Charles Davis, who was charged with stealing $4.50 from Marcus Crawford, an old soldier, entered a plea of not guilty in the City Court yesterday and was sent to jail in default of bond of $1,000 for his appearance to answer.

—Viola, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Taylor, who was badly burned at her home, 216 East Eighteenth street, last Sunday, by swallowing a solution of carbolic acid, is able to be out, although she had a close call.

—Miss Mary Agnes Burke, of this city, and Arthur Donahue, of Jeffersonville, were married yesterday morning in Holy Trinity Catholic church, the ceremony having been performed by the rector, the Rev. Charles Curran.

—Pawnee Tribe of Red Men celebrated the thirty-fifth anniversary of its institution at the wigwam, Pearl and Market streets, last night. A fine programme was given and addresses were delivered by prominent men of the order.

—The outing that was to have been held to-day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hammersmith, north of the city, by the Ladies' Aid Society of Trinity M. E. church, has been postponed until Thursday of next week on account of Decoration day.

—The Rev. Dr. N. W. Tracy, the Kentucky temperance evangelist, will begin a series of meetings in a tent at East Fifteenth and Main streets, beginning June 6, and continuing twelve days. Services will be held nightly, with two each Sunday.

—Arthur William Conner, of Dallas, Tex., grandson of Mrs. J. H. Conner, of this city, is a member of the graduating class at Purdue University this year and will receive his degree from the department of civil engineering. The commencement exercises will be held June 8 to 12.

—The graduating exercises of the grammar schools of the city were held last night, the Rev. Dr. H. G. Ogden, of Louisville, delivering the principal address. The class participating numbered seventy, all of whom are eligible to enter the High School at the school year beginning next September.

—Mrs. D. R. Gebhart and her little son, John Frederick Gebhart, of Kirksville, Mo., are here to spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilford W. Jackson, of 1812 East Elm street. Mrs. Gebhart was accompanied by her sister, Miss Eva Jackson, who had been visiting her in Kirksville.

—Roy Glover and his niece, little Jean MacMullen, of Pittsburg, will arrive at noon to-day to visit Mrs. C. A. Reineking and Mrs. Annie R. Glover. Mr. Glover will stay two days, while the little girl will spend several weeks with her aunt and grandmother. Mrs. George W. MacMullen will be here next month.

—The closing meeting of the season for the Amaranth Club was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Walter B. Creed at her home, "Creedmont," on the Silver Hills. Piano solos were contributed by Mrs. Henry Terstegge and Miss Julia Fawcett and a duet by them. Mrs. Horace Pierce read an interesting paper on "Gallilee" and Mrs. Mary N. King one on "Macchiavelli." A feature was a delightful reading by Mrs. Evan B. Stotsenburg.

—Edith M. McWilliams, aged six years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McWilliams, died Tuesday afternoon at the home of her parents in Louisville of cerebro-spinal meningitis. The body was brought here and funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at the home of the child's grandparents, 408 West Spring street. The services were conducted by the Rev. B. F. Cato, pastor of the Central Christian church, and the burial was in Fairview.

—The handsome new clubhouse of the Highland Country Club, on the Silver Hills, west of the city, will be formally opened this afternoon. Extra cars on the Highland division of the traction company have been provided, and will leave the terminals this evening as follows: Bank-street station, 7:25, 8, 8:25, 9:05, 10 and 10:25 o'clock. —Albert Wise, James Trainor and Harry Morris, aged seventeen, eighteen and nineteen years, respectively, were picked up at Third and Water streets Tuesday night by Patrolmen Seery and Truman. They were intoxicated and thoroughly provided with liquors, having with them two bottles of whisky and six bottles of beer. Judge Paris, in the City Court, fined them $11 each and sent them to jail in default of payment. They said they were from Wheeling, W. Va., and were traveling over the country sightseeing.

HER FATHER'S CONSENT

CABLED BY HIM FROM SHANGHAI, CHINA.

Wedding of Miss Lulu F. Bryan To the Rev. James B. Leavell Solemnized Yesterday Afternoon.

The marriage license taken out by the Rev. James E. Leavell and Miss Lulu F. Bryan was issued after the father of the bride, Dr. Robert Bryan, president of the American College, of Shanghai, China, had cabled his consent. As Miss Bryan is only nineteen years of age. The law requires that either her parents or guardian give their consent for marriage in this State.

The groom wrote his prospective father-in-law to this effect about a month ago and the letter was only received three or four days ago by him. As it would have delayed matters too long to have waited to receive his consent by letter, Dr. Bryan was asked to send a cable message on the day upon which he was informed in the letter the license would be applied for. Upon receipt of the message Mr. Leavell took it to the Clerk's office and exhibited it to Walter Ratcliffe, Deputy County Clerk, who issued the license.

When the letter was written Mr. Ratcliffe had been apprised of the situation, and it had been agreed that the single word "yes" from Dr. Bryan was sufficient. This was all the cablegram contained besides the addresses.

The wedding took place at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Broadway Baptist church, Dr. Carter Helm Jones officiating. George W. Leavell, of San Antonio, Tex., brother of the groom, was best man. Miss Eliza Leavell, sister of the groom, was maid of honor, and Miss Catherine Leavell, another sister, bridesmaid. Bradley Kimbrough, of Oxford, Miss., and Boyce Watkins were ushers. The bride entered with Dr. Hugh Leavell, a relative of the groom, and was given in marriage by him. Little Miss Clarise Leavell and Hugh Rodman Leavell, children of Dr. Leavell, were the flower boy and girl.

After the ceremony at the church the bridal party was entertained at a wedding supper at the home of Dr. Leavell, 1120 Second street. Mr. and Mrs. Leavell left later in the evening for Chattanooga, from where they will go to Oxford, Miss., to visit Mr. Leavell's parents and attend the commencement of the University of Mississippi, after which they will go to McComb, where Mr. Leavell will have charge of the Baptist church. Mr. Leavell has completed his studies at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary here.

Miss Bryan, who was born in Shanghai, came to this country two years ago to attend Judson College, North Carolina. Last September she came to Louisville to perfect herself in kindergarten work in order that she might take a position in her father's college in Shanghai. There she met Mr. Leavell.

KENTUCKY STATE GUARD MAY GET TO JAMESTOWN.

Letter From Gov. Beckham Contains Information That Project Still Is Being Considered.

In a letter to R. E. Hughes, chairman of the Louisville Day Committee for the Jamestown Exposition, Gov. J. C. W. Beckham indicates that Kentucky troops may go to Jamestown for their annual encampment, after all. Gov. Beckham said the troops would be sent to Jamestown if it were possible for the State to send them. Mr. Hughes wrote Gov. Beckham in regard to the outing of the troops at the request of his committee, which deferred fixing a Louisville day at the Exposition until it should be known when the First Kentucky Regiment would be at Jamestown, as the committee desires to have the soldiers take part in the celebration. The letter from Gov. Beckham follows:

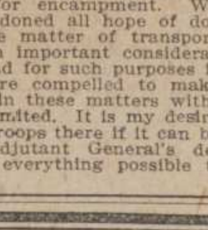

"I received your recent communication, containing a copy of the resolutions passed by your committee requesting me to do whatever I could in sending our State troops to the Jamestown Exposition for encampment. We have not yet abandoned all hope of doing so, though the matter of transportation has been an important consideration in it. Our fund for such purposes is limited, and we are compelled to make our arrangements in these matters within the amount so limited. It is my desire to send the State troops there if it can be done, and our Adjutant General's department will do everything possible to accomplish it."

Protect Baby's Skin

¶ Here's the difference in thickness between the outer skin of baby—and you, mother.

¶ The outer layer of baby's skin is so tender that it is easily burned, and also offers little protection to the intricate under structure of oil and sweat glands, tiny blood vessels and nerves.

¶ Coarse, unsightly skin is often caused by not knowing how to protect it in babyhood.

Pond's Extract Soap

feeds the skin, keeps it soft, helps its perfect development, preserves its fine delicacy. The Pond's Extract tones the glands and stimulates circulation, preserving health and rosy color. Its whiteness indicates its purity. Buy it always for Baby.

UNION VETERANS

Will Decorate Graves of Unknown Confederate Dead.

DIED IN JEFFERSONVILLE AS PRISONERS OF WAR.

RESTING PLACES OF FIVE SOLDIERS LONG FORGOTTEN.

SIMPLE SERVICES TO-DAY.

In an out-of-the-way spot in the Eastern cemetery in Jeffersonville are five graves that once contained the bodies of soldiers who took part in the Civil War and died far from home and friends, being buried in graves each marked "Confederate Soldier." That is all that is known of them. They were being taken North with hundreds of others as prisoners of war to a military prison.

Wearing only the scantiest clothing, they were marched through the streets of Jeffersonville from the ferry landing to the railroad station on the morning of January 1, 1864. The air was balmy and the suffering not great. Hardly had they reached the Northern shores before a blizzard set in and it became intensely cold. All of the prisoners suffered from the frigid atmosphere and five of them died. No attempt was made to learn their names, and they were buried as unknown.

It was only recently that their resting place was definitely ascertained. Last Saturday Mrs. Fred W. Penrose placed flowers on their graves and to-day the veterans who fought on the opposite side will see that they are not ignored. The graves of the Federal soldiers will be decorated this morning and this afternoon the exercises will be held in New Albany.

Simplicity will mark to-day's ceremonies in Jeffersonville attending the decorating of the graves of forty or more heroes who served during the Revolutionary War and whose bodies are supposed to be buried in an abandoned cemetery at the foot of Chestnut street. If there was ever a marker over their graves it disappeared so long ago that no one can recall it. Until within the last thirty years there were mounds to show where the remains lay, but they have long since gone. According to history, after the bodies were removed from the graveyard on the river bank, between Spring and Pearl streets, they were buried practically in one grave where the unused cemetery now is.

Col. James Keigwin, who has been dead some time, was authority on such things, and it was through him that Ann Rogers Clark Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, which organization will have charge of the ceremonies this morning, was enabled to locate with a degree of certainty the part of the cemetery where the bodies were interred. This is on a spot near where the little schoolhouse built in 1851 stood. The ground supposed to contain the bodies has been staked off and there this morning the women of the chapter will strew flowers and plant the United States colors in remembrance of those who died while serving the country in its infancy.

In another part of the old cemetery, which is now used as an assembling place for street material, is at least one more grave of a Revolutionary soldier, Simon Burett, whose native land was France. He was not only a friend of Marquis de Lafayette, but also his schoolmate, and it is believed they came to America together. Burett was a resident of Jeffersonville at the time of his death. His grave will be decorated with flowers and marked by a flag to-day by Ann Rogers Clark Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. The programme does not include speechmaking, but the exercises will consist simply of paying reverence to the graves.

There are many graves of Revolutionary soldiers in Clark county, but numbers of them have been lost track of. There are several at Charlestown, some at Utica and here and there scattered over the county. Every grave that is positively known will be decorated to-day. There are soldiers of the War of 1812, the Mexican War, the Civil War and the Spanish-American War buried in Clark county, and each grave will receive attention at the hands of the committees to-day.

SHOCK CONTRIBUTORY.

Harry Bellis' Death Believed Partly Due To It.

Information has reached Jeffersonville of the death of Harry Bellis, who was formerly a resident of that city, at San Francisco. He was confined to his home with a severe attack of typhoid fever at the time of the earthquake. The shock was such that he never fully regained his health, and he remained in a feeble condition until the end came unexpectedly from heart disease, which developed at the time of the shock. The body is now on the road to Jeffersonville for interment in the family lot.

Mr. Bellis was about forty-five years old and a graduate of the Jeffersonville High School, as was also his widow, who was Miss Hattie Friend before her marriage. More than fifteen years ago Mr. Bellis left Jeffersonville and eventually became established in San Francisco, where he prospered and enjoyed good health until attacked by typhoid fever. He was a son of Peter Bellis, who for many years was a Jeffersonville tax collector. Herbert Bellis, a brother, lives at Butler, Pa., and it was through him that the news of the death reached Jeffersonville. He, with his wife, will attend the funeral. It is not known on what day the body will arrive. Besides his wife Mr. Bellis is survived by several children.

NOTES OF THE NEWS OF JEFFERSONVILLE.

—Harry Smith, of Utica, a graduate of the Jeffersonville High School, will be one of a large class that will graduate from the State Normal at Terre Haute during the last week in June.

—Proof of heirship was made yesterday by Henry A. Burtt, administrator of the estate of Mary Oliver, as to Harry Oliver, Ernest Oliver and James Oliver and a distribution was ordered.

—Alexander Williams, who lived on what is known as National street, Claysburg, died yesterday after an illness of some duration of malarial fever. He was forty-one years old and leaves a family.

—James N. Teeple yesterday filed a claim against the estate of Fannie Mitchell for $116.50 for funeral expenses. Of the amount $14 is for flowers and the remainder is for miscellaneous items.

—James Snyder, George Potter and Fred Spieth yesterday filed a report as commissioners in the partition suit of Anna H. Meyer against George H. M. Meyer and others, showing the lands set off to each heir, which was approved.

—Judge Harry C. Poindexter yesterday fined Robert Levasy and Frank Bowman $5 and costs each on the charge of intoxication. After they had been arrested by Patrolman Summers they ran away, but were recaptured by the same officer.

—A notice was received yesterday by George W. Badger, Circuit Clerk, that Carl Swengle, who was sent from this county several months ago, had been paroled from the Central Hospital for the Insane, his condition being greatly improved.

—Notice of appeal has been given in the suit of Clara Copeland and William M. Copeland against William H. Bruning and Nicholas Horuff, trustees, under the will of John F. Bruning, which was decided in favor of the defendants on May 28, 1906.

—Joseph H. Warder, commissioner in the partition suit of Mary K. Coleman against Margaret Butler, filed a report yesterday showing he had sold the real estate involved to Dr. W. M. Varble for $1,060.85, which was approved and a deed ordered.

—The Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railway Company has assembled considerable material near the junction for the purpose of raising the fill there for future flood protection in case the city raises enough money to pay for building a new street.

—Mrs. Anna Haley qualified as administratrix of the estate of Patrick Haley yesterday, giving bond in the sum of $1,200, with Patrick Tracey and Richard Kennedy as her sureties. Haley died recently, and was the oldest guard at the Indiana Reformatory.

—On account of this being Decoration day the front doors of the saloons will be required to be kept closed and all of the manufacturing establishments will suspend for the day. The general delivery window at the post-office will be open from 9 to 10 o'clock a. m.

—Representatives from the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen, No. 71, of Louisville, will hold a meeting at Odd Fellows' Hall, in this city, to-night, the object being to explain the aims of the organization. The gathering will be for the local carmen, their wives and daughters.

—Miss Gertrude Spangler has tendered her resignation as president of the Clark County Woman's Christian Temperance Union and will become connected with the Gamble Deaconess Training School of Cincinnati. Miss Henrietta Smith, of Utica, was elected to succeed Miss Spangler.

—Thomas Howard, who is one of the two surviving soldiers of the Mexican War in this city, has suffered an attack of locomotor ataxia and his condition is serious. He is eighty-three years old. Col. John N. Ingram, the other survivor, is also practically helpless from paralysis.

—Enoch Edgerton, who was brought to this city Tuesday on a requisition after he was acquitted in Louisville on the charge of housebreaking, was arraigned in the Circuit Court yesterday on the charge of grand larceny and pleaded not guilty. It is alleged he stole a revolver.

—Arthur M. Patrick, administrator of the estate of Oscar V. Patrick, filed a motion to be substituted as plaintiff in the damage action against the J. L. Pease Company, wherein judgment for $3,500 was given in favor of Oscar V. Patrick, who died a few days ago, for injuries to his hand.

—Warder Park is being given a thorough overhauling and all of the small dead trees in the inclosure are being cut out and the walks are being put in shape. As part of the grounds belong to the Government it is likely the Plaza, which is a part of Warder Park, may be beautified this summer.

—Jonas Howard Ingram, who will be graduated at Annapolis Naval Academy on June 6, has been assigned to the battleship California now being built at San Francisco, and which will be completed in August. Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Ingram will leave for Annapolis to-morrow to attend the commencement.

—John Barmann, of Sellersburg, was fined $5, which includes costs, by Magistrate Clarence Gwin on complaint of Magistrate J. H. Weir on the charge of intoxication. Magistrate Weir asserted he was insulted by Barmann, who accused him of having him arrested every time Weir got out of flour.

—The funeral of William Doyle, who died Tuesday, will take place this morning at St. Augustine's Catholic church, and the services will be conducted by the Rev. John O'Connell. Doyle was a member of the Eagles, and was the first member in Jeffersonville to die. The local aerie will turn out this morning.

—A two-year-old son of Charles Kidder, who lives at Walnut and Maple streets, disappeared yesterday morning, and for a time the entire neighborhood was in a state of excitement. The father was called home from his work, the police were summoned and the telephones got busy. An hour after the search began the child was found playing in an alley.

—George F. Edenherter, superintendent of the Central Hospital for the Insane, has called the attention of Sheriff John S. Pernett to the fact that by a new law an increased sum can be expended in equipment for patients when they are being prepared to be sent in; also that they will be received only between the hours of 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. of Sundays.

—Louis Rose, who was charged with assault and battery with intent to kill, was tried in the Circuit Court yesterday, the case being completed before 4 o'clock in the afternoon. It was alleged Rose used a knife on Irvin Floyd with such telling effect that the latter lost an eye. On the witness stand Rose testified that Floyd was after him with a fence picket when he did the cutting to save his life. The trouble occurred near Speeds several weeks ago and after the principals had attended church. The jury was still out last night.

TRAY OF DIAMONDS

TAKEN FROM JEWELER'S WINDOW BY NEGRO THIEVES.

Smash Plate Glass Worth $200 and Get Away With Jewelry Valued At $1,000.

Three men, believed to be negroes, broke into the jewelry store of Charles E. Seng, 306 East Market street, shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday morning, and succeeded in getting away with jewelry valued at $1,000. The window broken in order to get to the jewelry was a heavy plate-glass window and was valued at $200. Mr. Seng caught sight of the marauders as they darted down Market street and has submitted a description of them to the detectives. With this description the detectives who are working on the case believe that they will be able to get the thieves.

The jewelry stolen consists of thirty-six diamond rings. They were lying on a tray in the front show window. It has always been the custom of Mr. Seng to take the tray containing these valuable rings from the display window when he retired at night, but for some reason or other he neglected to do so Tuesday night. About 4 o'clock he was awakened by the crashing of glass. He hurried to the front window and saw three men, who he said were negroes, run down Market street at breakneck speed.

Suspecting robbery Mr. Seng descended to the lower floor and found his front plate-glass window shattered to pieces. He at once reported the robbery to the police and a detail of patrolmen was sent to the scene. They searched the whole neighborhood in an effort to get a line on the night raiders, but did not succeed.

RUFUS JOHNSON BACK TO JAIL UNTIL TO-MORROW.

Rufus Johnson, whose name suggests his color, didn't have an opportunity to explain himself in the Police Court yesterday morning and was taken back to jail to wait until Friday, when he will be called on to tell the Judge just how and why he happened to break the glass at the store of Jake Jacob, at 334 First street, and take away watches and jewelry valued at about $250. Johnson was arrested in the courthouse yard by Patrolman Cave after an exciting chase of several blocks. Patrolman Cave was in court yesterday morning, but had scarcely recovered from his sprint of half a dozen blocks.

Y. M. C. A. EMPLOYED OFFICERS TO MEET.

The annual conference of the employed officers of the Young Men's Christian Associations of Kentucky will be held this year at Danville, June 14-17, in connection with the Kentucky Student Conference, which will be in session June 14-20. Each conference will meet separately, uniting at the platform meetings and in the recreative features. The programme for the secretaries' conference has been arranged by a committee consisting of Thomas Johnson, of Lexington; A. R. Garrett, of Russell; J. S. Moore, of Louisville, and Henry E. Rosevear, State secretary, and includes a thorough discussion of the whole range of association activities, physical, social, educational and religious. These conferences have been a most important factor in the development of the association movement in Kentucky.

KILLING MADE ON WEBBER.

JOE DIEL AND FRIENDS HEAVILY PLAY GELDING AT A LONG PRICE.

PRELIMINARY DERBY TO-DAY.

TO-DAY'S SELECTIONS.

First Race—Synchronized, Orlandot, Dunvegan.
Second Race—Etrena, Little George, Dan McKenna.
Third Race—Old Honesty, Wing Ting, Miss Lida.
Fourth Race—Soprano, Haughty, Nedra.
Fifth Race—R. C. Rann, Moquette, Mackeral.
Sixth Race—Redwood II., Warner Griswold, Demo.
Two Best Bets—Old Honesty, R. C. Rann.

HONEST, a two-year-old colt by Sorcerer-Priceless, the property of Milton Young, won the Juvenile Stakes at Churchill Downs yesterday afternoon. This race was at five furlongs and was the feature of the afternoon's programme. Honest was the favorite and he had little trouble in disposing of the fair field.

Joe Diel, the local turfman, who only recently entered the racing game, made another killing yesterday on his gelding Webber. Webber easily won the second race at the juicy odds of 25 and 30 to 1, and Mr. Diel and his friends wagered a considerable sum at these attractive prices. Webber's victory was a serious blow to several of the bookmakers, because many of Mr. Diel's friends wagered on the horse simply because he is owned by a Louisville man.

The Steeplechase Handicap over the short course yesterday was won by Saul, the favorite, who in winning the event lowered the track record from 2:50 3-5 to 2:50. This jumping event proved an interesting contest. Killdoe, which held the track record up to yesterday, secured an early lead and for a time it looked like the Schreiber gelding would make a runaway race of it, but Saul, Naran and Lady Jocelyn passed him in the stretch as if he were tied.

It was a bad day for the form players, because only two favorites rewarded their backers. The public, however, had a profitable afternoon, because a number of the winners, notably Bert Osra, Webber and Scalplock, were well supported. Fantastic, which beat the sprinters in the purse race at six furlongs in very fast time, was also heavily backed.

The feature of the card to-day will be a race at a mile and a furlong, which is a preliminary trial for the Latonia Derby candidates. A splendid field has been entered in this race and it includes Pink Star, which won the recent Kentucky Derby.

* * *

Long Shots Over Plate.

An unruly field of sixteen selling platers went to the post in the first race. Over ten minutes were consumed to get the field in anything like an even break. Redwood II. and Solly M. were on their bad behavior, and, together with Bert Osra, took turns about in running through the barrier. The field finally were caught in line and the webbing sprung to a fair start, with Redwood showing in front, closely followed by the favorite, Potter, and Bert Osra in the third position. It proved to be the best race of the day, as the finish between the first three was so close that only the judges were in a position to separate them. Potter forced the pace for half of the journey, and then Redwood took up the running and led making the turn for home, when Bert Osra, which had been lying in keen contention, moved up with a rush, and nipped Redwood at the post out of the long end of the purse.

Webber repeated his good performance of a few days ago and easily took the second race on the card at a mile from fifteen platers. He was one of the popular long shots of the day to win, and many a South Louisville piker had a bet on the locally-owned horse to take the long end of the money. Alta McDonald was conceded to be the class of the race by the layers and the short price of even money was snapped up, and as the bell rang, 4 to 5 was the best to be had. Webber, getting the best of the start, rushed to the front and forced the pace all the way. He was closely followed by the favorite, Alta McDonald, but turning into the stretch she gave it up and Ouardi came up with a rush and landed in the second position a half length in front of Alta McDonald.

Fantastic Beats Sprinters.

Six sprinters went to the post in the third race for a journey of six furlongs. La Velta was always the choice in the betting, and went to the post heavily played at 2 to 1. Lexoline was next in demand at 3 to 1, and Fleming was at 5 to 1. Fantastic was the one they were waiting for, and as soon as the layers settled the price on the Goldblatt trick a rush was made to get aboard, and from 6 to 1 the price was hammered until at post time 3 to 1 was the best to be had. Usury, evidently well meant, rushed to the front and at the first turn opened up a long lead, and turning into the stretch it looked as if the Knight of The Thistle filly was going to make good. Fantastic, which had been lying in keen contention, moved up with a determined rush, and wore down the long lead of the pacemaker and went under the wire a winner by a good length. Lexoline ran an excellent race, was closest in pursuit and finished strong, and will do to remember from now on. Usury managed to last long enough to save the third place from Fleming.

Six of the best youngsters at the track qualified for the Juvenile Stakes at five furlongs. The stake was worth $1,595 to the winner, and went to Milt Young's good son of Sorcerer, the favorite in the betting. Considerable delay was occasioned at the post by the unruly youngsters. Honest and Parisian Model took turns about to see which could delay the start the longest. After a delay of three minutes to a good start Honest, under the vigorous handling of J. Lee, shot to the front and opened up a gap of two lengths at the first turn. Margaret Randolph followed the Young colt and Hester Zorra was in the third place. Turning into the stretch Honest increased his lead to three lengths, and when the sixteenth pole was reached Lee found his mount began to tire and began to urge him, passing under the wire a length in front of Margaret Randolph. The latter was gradually wearing the winner down, and in a few more strides would have been on even terms with the winner. Parisian Model finished third, two lengths back.

Saul First Over Jumps.

Eight jumpers tried conclusion over the short course for a purse of $500. The talent was at sea as to what it wanted and Saul opened up as the favorite at even money, and 3 to 1 and take your pick on Naran and Killdoe. Saul evidently was not fancied and his price soared to 4 to 1. The "wise boys" finally decided the race was between Killdoe and Naran, and correspondingly set their checks in on the pair. Killdoe went to the front at the start, and it looked as if he was going to make a runaway race of it. He opened up a gap of five lengths on his field after going over the first two obstacles and getting over the last jump with an advantage of a length and a half, appeared to have the race at his mercy. The heavily-weighted Saul, which had been lying in keen contention all the way, wore down the lead of the favorite and raced him into defeat and won in a canter. Lady Jocelyn, running to her best form, easily took the second place from Naran. Fred Priesmeyer, the only one to come to grief, made a bad landing in going over the tenth jump and fell and broke his leg and had to be destroyed.

Scalplock, heavily played at 7 to 1, captured the last race of the day handily. Getting off tangled up, Moreland was compelled to take the overland route. In making the turn for home the field went wide and Moreland, by a tight squeeze, got through on the rail and caught Light Note a few yards from the wire and landed the long end of the purse by a good length. Light Note was doing his best at the end to stall off the rush of Carew. Devout, the favorite in the race, was used up in forcing the pace and quit almost to a walk in the final strides.

Preliminary Derby To-day.

The card for this afternoon is one of the best that have been offered by the New Louisville Jockey Club. The fields are well filled, which assures that the races will not be jug-handled affairs, and the conditions are so framed that every horse in the races will have an opportunity to earn his keep.

The feature of the card will be the third on the programme, when the stake horses now in training at the track will have a try-out for the various stakes in which they are entered. The race is especially designed for those entered in the Latonia Derby. Among those who are eligible to start in that event, are the much-touted Old Honesty and the Kentucky Derby winner, Pink Star, and the field will be asked to go a mile and an eighth.

The result of this race will be watched with much interest, not only because of the Derby candidates, but because there are several sprightly misses that would like to be crowned Queen of the three-year-old division. Wing Ting, Miss Alert, Victoria B. and Miss Lida will try conclusions for that much-coveted prize, the Kentucky Oaks, and to-day they will be asked the question as to whether they can last over the route at the heart-breaking pace that will be set in this race. R. C. Rann and Moquette, both winners at the meeting, will try conclusions over the five-furlong course, and there is much rivalry as to which is the better colt. Mackerel, lightly weighted, may upset the calculations of the wise contingent and get the long end of the purse. On the whole, the card is one befitting a holiday crowd. The indexed entries follow:

To-Day

One starts to-day that the stable connections have under cover. They have been waiting for a soft spot to "cut loose" at big odds.

The last time this horse started he was just in for a "work-out" and the boy did not show him up. To-day a different kind of a race will be run, and the educated money will be down and the horse will know he has to run and the "jock" will give a money ride. It is one of the best things of the meeting, so don't fail to get in on this large killing to-day. For sale at office only.

Bert Osra laid in keen contention, moved up fast making the turn for home, fought it out all through the stretch with Redwood II. and outgamed the latter in the final stride. The latter had all the early speed and forced a fast pace. Potter tired badly in the final strides.

2089—SECOND RACE—One mile; purse $500; for three-year-olds; selling. Start good. Won easily; place driving. Winner, J. Diel's b. g., by Sempronius—Web of Fate; trained by E. McCloskey. Value to winner, $400. Fractional time: :25, :49, 1:14 4-5, 1:41 2-5.

Webber, running to his best form, raced Alta McDonald into defeat the first three-quarters, had enough left to stall off the challenge of Ouardi in the final run and won well in hand. Ouardi, off tangled up, ran a winning race. County Clerk came from a long way back in the run through the stretch. Kaiserhoff had clear sailing all the way and had no mishaps.

2090—THIRD RACE—Six furlongs; purse $500; for three-year-olds and upward. Start poor. Won easily; place driving. Winner, Mrs. M. Goldblatt's br. f., 3, by Galore—Phantom Belle; trained by Mose Goldblatt. Value to winner, $400. Fractional time: :24, :48 4-5, 1:13 2-5.

Fantastic avoided the early pace, wore down the long lead of the pacemaker, raced her into defeat and won well in hand. Lexoline, in keen contention all the way, hung on gamely. Usury had burning early speed, forced a fast pace, opened up a long lead the first quarter, but tired badly in the run home. Fleming was outrun all the way.

2091—FOURTH RACE—Five furlongs; the Juvenile Stakes; $1,000 added; for two-year-olds. Start good. Won handily; place easily. Winner, M. Young's b. c., by Sorcerer—Priceless; trained by F. Hanlon. Value to winner, $1,595. Fractional time: :11 4-5, :23 2-5, :35 1-5, :47 3-5, 1:00 3-5.

Honest showed the most speed; off on his stride, he sprinted away from his field the first quarter, opened up a long lead at the first turn, but had to be shook up at the end to stall off the rush of Margaret Randolph. The latter was closest in pursuit and hung on gamely; was wearing the winner down in the final run. Parisian Model ran his race. Bucket Brigade finished strong. Hester Zorra showed early speed, then quit in the run home.

2092—FIFTH RACE—Short course; steeplechase handicap; purse $500; for three-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place same. Winner, J. & C. Davis' b. g., a., by Billet Doux—Satilene; trained by J. Davis. Value to winner, $400. Time, 2:50.

Saul avoided the early pace; always within striking distance of the leaders, moved up fast after making the last turn of the field, caught Killdoe in the stretch turn, raced him into defeat and won in a canter. Lady Jocelyn, running in improved form, outgamed Naran in the run home. Naran tired following the pace. Killdoe showed the most early speed; quit badly in the run through the stretch. Fred Priesmeyer fell going over the tenth jump.

2093—SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles; purse $500; for four-year-olds and upward; selling. Start good. Won handily; place driving. Winner, P. King's b. g., 4, by Oddfellow—Moya; trained by G. Land. Value to winner, $400. Fractional time: :24 3-5, :49 2-5, 1:15, 1:41 4-5, 1:48 2-5.

Scalplock weaved his way up on the inside after making the turn for home, caught Light Note at the sixteenth pole, gamely fought it out with him and drew away in the closing strides. Light Note, running to his best form, raced Devout into defeat and had nothing left when the real test came. Carew, in forward contention at all times, just lasted long enough to save the third place from Belden. The latter, in a pocket most of the way, moved up fast when clear. Devout was made too much use of in the early part.

CHAT OF THE COURSE.

E. R. Bradley cleaned up handsomely on the victory of Webber in the second event. His commissioners went down the line placing the money in $5 and $10 bets, getting 25 to 1 for most of his money. It was a nicely-planned coup, as very few persons thought Webber could go the distance.

* * *

Jockey Trueman was set down for three days by Starter Holtman. The boy was anxious to get away with Fantastic and broke through the barrier several times. Perhaps this may break the bad streak of luck which Mose Goldblatt has had since the meeting opened. Fantastic's victory was a popular one, as she was well played by the talent and public in general.

* * *

J. C. Tucker finally broke from the maiden class at the meeting when Bert Osra came under the wire in first position. The purse could not have been won by a more deserving man than Mr. Tucker, as he is one of those owners who has a small string and only gets a chance to capture a purse at long intervals.

* * *

Redwood II. was steadily played by the stable and the talent. He looked all over a winner a sixteenth out, but could not stall off the determined rush of Bert Osra. Potter had all of his early speed, but could not retain it. Perhaps his last race dulled him a trifle, as on that occasion the Muller horse carried 124 pounds and was hard pressed by Haughty. At any rate the pace was too hot Wednesday and he ran to his former race.

* * *

Honest kept up the reputation of his name and never gave his backers the least bit of heart trouble. Margaret Randolph struggled gamely, but the best she could do was to throw the dust in the eyes of Parisian Model. Bucket Brigade ran by Stone Street the first part and then stopped to consult with Hester Zorra, who was somewhat tardy.

* * *

Saul was in his glory. He laid out of the early pace set by Killdoe, who killed himself out in front, then came on and outgamed the fair Lady Jocelyn for first honors.

* * *

Fred Priesmeyer made a bad landing over the last jump, injuring himself seriously, and was destroyed after the last race was run.

* * *

Scalplock was on the warpath and cleverly scalped Light Note out of the purse.

* * *

There are more than 300 horses coughing at the track, most probably brought on by the changeable weather. Among those ailing are some of the best horses quartered at the Downs. There is nothing serious, but the horses cannot be trained, which accounts for a number of those known to be here not starting. A number of horses do not like the track and have little chance to win at any distance. As the weather improves the thoroughbreds will improve.

* * *

Phil King secured get-away money when Scalplock scored in the last race, and Mr. King will immediately depart for Denver. Phil should win a number of races at Overland Park. Jockey Shreve, a promising lightweight, will accompany the King stable.

* * *

Jockey Butler, who had the leg up on Margaret Randolph in the Juvenile Stakes, was badly kicked while at the post. The cut was just above the ankle and extended to the bone. The boy showed nerve by riding the race out and put up a great finish.

* * *

County Clerk almost checked up Alta McDonald for third money. The 60 to 1 shot was running great guns at the finish and will bear watching.

* * *

La Velta was cut on the off fore leg early in the race. The boy eased the filly up, only cantering her afterward.

* * *

Charlie Waltring was the most disgusted man on the track after the Webber race. Just as he was going up to make a bet on Webber a friend called him to one side and told him not to bet on the horse, as he was coughing. After the race Charlie exclaimed: "Coughing! I guess if he coughed a little more he would be a stake horse."

Black Mary and Black Sheep were shipped East yesterday in the car with Bob Tucker's string. Mr. Bradley did not make up his mind to ship the fillies until almost the time for loading.

One disgruntled sport said yesterday afternoon: "To add to the troubles of the players information is now received that a number of horses are coughing. This is a serious matter with us, which entails extra efforts on the man who wagers. With sixteen horses in a race it can easily be seen that one has his work laid out for him to ascertain who is coughing and who is not and how serious the cough may be. Picking the winners is certainly a hard game. I've found this out, though the sport is new to me."

Ethon, George C. Bennett's high-class colt, will be pointed for the Jockey Club weight-for-age race to be run Monday at New York. It would appear from the number of times that he has been sent to the races recently that he is being pointed for almost all of his stake engagements. He has been a very busy colt and there is a chance that some day he will escape from Farrow and win a good race. Under better handling than Farrow is capable of giving him it would take a smart one indeed to head him home.

John Rowe has bought from John E. Madden a handsome two-year-old colt by Ogden—Etta. He is credited with a half-mile trial in :47 3-5, and there is better than a chance that he will be heard from before very long.

* * *

T. C. McDowell has sold Homeless to W. S. Price. He is a brown gelding by Batten—Wanton, and on several occasions has shown remarkably well in private trials.

The fates seem to be against Francis R. Hitchcock. He has been forced to scratch Dandelion from both the Brooklyn and Cosmopolitan handicaps because of the bad going. Dandelion, unlike a majority of the get of Hamburg, will not run to his best form in muddy going. He showed that in the Metropolitan Handicap, and Mr. Hitchcock believed it useless to start him in the other events. He is hoping for better luck for the Suburban and Brighton.

* * *

Blandy is one of the few sons or daughters of Hastings in the East that will not run in sloppy going. On his Parkway running Blandy would have been given a chance in the Cosmopolitan, but in the mud he was not wanted, at least by those who watch matters closely.

Yesterday after Webber won the second race and when, in accordance with the custom after all selling races, the winner is offered at public auction, John Walters, who trains for George Hendrie, of Canada, former owner of Javanese, when bids were called for, boosted Webber's entered price of $400 to $1,000. Joe Diel, the owner of Webber, retained his horse by bidding the additional $5. This made it cost Diel $200 to win the race. This, however, was a mere bagatelle to Diel, as he won heavily in wagers on his horse. Diel, then to show that he knows a good horse when he sees one and that he did not consider Alta McDonald disgraced because his own horse, Webber, had taken his measure, put in a claim for Alta McDonald, which claim being honored, he also led him to his barn for $800—a pretty good deal for Diel. If the selling races hold out Diel is liable to have all of the horses at the track. Diel is a Louisville man, and if he keeps them all at the track the Latonia meeting may be abandoned. On May 20 Javanese was entered in a selling race and Diel claimed him when he lost for $1,100 and in less than an hour afterward was offered $3,000 for him. Diel would not sell. After Walters boosted Webber yesterday some people thought it was in retaliation for the claiming of Javanese that prompted Walters to take this action. Walters, however, disclaimed any retaliatory motive, saying that he thought Webber was worth the money.

Congratulations are being offered to John Rodegap on every hand by his many friends because of the almost certain recovery of his good colt, Jim Myers. Rody's face was wreathed in smiles when spoken to about Jim, and stated that Jim Meyers was the best colt and the best conditioned one that he had trained for years. He did not know what he was worth, but he knew he was worth lots of money. His method of procedure to save Jim was to raise the heel of the injured leg very high and then let Jim stand on a very deep straw bedding. He will remain here for some time and then when he can prudently be removed, some day after a heavy rain, when the footing is real soft, Jim will be taken to Lexington and turned out until he has entirely recovered. Here's to Jim's recovery.

THE RESULTS AT OAKLAND.

Talent Has Good Day, As Favorites Or Well-Played Horses Finish In Front.

San Francisco, May 29.—A rather ordinary card was offered at Oakland to-day, the favorites, or well-played horses, finishing in front in most of the races. Summary:

EACH NEGRO WOMAN SAYS OTHER STRUCK HER FIRST.

Either Clara Downing or Anna Scott, both colored, threw a bottle at the other near West and Walnut streets, yesterday afternoon, and both were arrested on charges of malicious assault. Each said that the other started the trouble, but when they were arrested it was found that both had slight wounds. The Scott woman ran when she saw Patrolman Webb coming and was found behind a bed in her home. She had locked the door to her room and the policeman had to climb through a window to get into the house.

ARCITE BEATEN IN FIRST START

George Long's Colt Defeated By Zambesi In Belmont Feature.

TRACK RECORD EQUALLED.

Dinna Ken, Favorite, Gets Off In Front, But Keene Colt Scores Easy Victory.

RESULTS ON OTHER TRACKS.

NEW YORK, May 29.—In winning the Pocantico Stakes at Belmont Park to-day, Zambesi equaled the track record for the mile and a sixteenth, 1:45. The Keene colt ran practically unbacked at 6 to 1, most of the money going on Dinna Ken, who won the Carleton Stakes last Saturday at Gravesend, though Arcite, the Southern horse, had some support. Dinna Ken got off first, but Miller sent Zambesi to the fore at the quarter and won easily.

The offering at Belmont this afternoon was not of the usual sparkling variety that generally prevails at the Metropolitan track. However, the Pocantico Stakes for three-year-olds, with an added money value of $2,000, at one and one-sixteenth miles, was a headliner containing such good class as to draw a splendid crowd to the course.

Miller, on Adoration, flashed first past the post in the opener, a three-quarter handicap. Pretension was second and Smiling Tom third.

A big band of twenty-three two-year-old maidens started in the second, and after an exciting stretch drive Colin got home first by two lengths, Bar None got the place and Harcourt was third.

Jockey Dugan rode Beggar Maid to victory in the third, winning by six lengths from Rosemont and Woodwitch.

Zambesi was much the best in the day's feature, the Pocantico Stakes, with $2,000 added. Four of the best three-year-olds at the track faced Mr. Cassidy, who sent them away in perfect alignment. Zambesi soon shot to the front and won handily. Arcite, on his Western work, was heavily played, and beat the favorite, Dinna Ken, by a neck for the place honors. Summaries:

First Race—Six furlongs:
Adoration, 110 (Miller), 12 to 5..............1
Pretension, 126 (Musgrave), 11 to 5.........2
Smiling Tom, 95 (Lowe), 9 to 2...............3
Time, 1:13 3-5. Sir Toddington and Royal Onyx also ran.

Second Race—Five furlongs:
Colin, 110 (Miller), 6 to 5......................1

THE KING EDWARD STAKES.

Inferno Takes Feature At Toronto—Minnie Adams Beats Good Field.

Toronto, Ont., May 29.—Another good card of seven races was offered the racing devotees at the Woodbine track this afternoon. Chief interest of the day centered in the running of the King Edward Hotel Cup, at one mile and a quarter, and the allowance affair in the third, at one and one-sixteenth miles, in which such cracks as Minnie Adams, Ellicott, Ormonde's Right and other good ones were scheduled to be colored.

A splendid crowd was on hand, with track conditions good and the weather clear.

The Woodbine betting case came up in court this morning, and was adjourned till to-morrow morning. It developed at the hearing that the prosecution against John C. Cavanaugh, of New York, who controls the betting ring here, and his representative, Mortimer Mahoney, and the bookmakers were merely charged with being frequenters of a common betting house. The usual forty books drew in to-day, and did business as usual.

The first race, a three-quarter scramble, went to Belle of Jessamine in a gallop by a length, with Clifton Forge second and Ralbert third.

Cannie Maid was the best of the small bunch of two-year-olds that started in the second. Out of Step was second and Raway third.

Minnie Adams won the third from Ellicott by a neck, with Ormonde's Right third. It was a close fit for the Cook mare.

Inferno, the 1 to 2 favorite, took the King Edward Hotel Cup, a mile and a quarter weight for age affair, with $1,500 added value. Lotus Eater was the runner up and Tourenne third. Summaries:

First Race—Three-quarters of a mile; for four-year-olds and upward; selling:

GARGIULO AND HIS BAND AT THE WHITE CITY.

The crowds which have been attending the band concerts given at the White City by Gargiulo and his band have established a record in Louisville for park attendance and band concert crowds. Gargiulo has had as big crowds to play to as any other leader who has ever wielded the baton in this city. He plays upon his band as a pianist does upon a piano, as if it were one instrument made of fifty, and his music is captivating. Gargiulo has many of the late Theodore Thomas' invisible means of impressing and inspiring his men; a penetrating glance, a lifted finger, a polite wave of the tip of the silent baton, with scarcely a motion observable to the audience, but a continual battery upon his men. The humblest player in the band has a sense of flowing tone, animated by rhythm, that many a singer, whose name asks black full type, might envy. The dog and pony show and the balloon ascensions, all free features of the boardwalk plaza, are continued for the week.

COLONELS WIN CLOSE CONTEST

Durham Pitches Fine Ball For Five Innings Against Columbus.

WRIGHT FINISHES THE GAME.

Ex-Kansas City Pitcher Called To Louisville By Serious Illness of His Wife.

FINE FIELDING BY BRASHEAR.

COLUMBUS, O., May 29.—[Special.]—The Louisville Colonels made their first visit of the year to Neil Park this afternoon, and it was a success in every way for the Kentuckians. Columbus did give them somewhat of a scare in the eighth and ninth innings, but the damage they did to Jack Townsend in the first inning could not be overcome by Columbus, and Louisville won, 5 to 4.

Louisville played the better ball and deserved a victory. The Colonels hit timely when hits meant runs. Durham pitched good ball until the fifth inning, when his error and three clean hits netted three runs and placed the champions where they at least had a look in for future run getting. Immediately after he had retired the last man in the fifth Durham received a telegram stating that his wife was ill in Louisville, and he took the 5:40 o'clock train for that city, hastening from the ground to change his clothes and reach the station.

Wright finished the game. He passed Friel in the eighth and Kihm's single scored him. Fohl beat out a bunt in the ninth, but he tightened and kept Columbus from further scoring.

In the first inning Stovall was hit by Townsend. Neal took second on Jude's error of his fly, Stovall scoring. Brashear forced Neal at third. Sullivan walked. Peitz singled, scoring both Brashear and Sullivan. Stanley singled. Quinlan fouled out. Woodruff's safe drive through second scored Peitz with the fourth run.

In the sixth inning Quinlan walked. Woodruff sacrificed. Cooley, batting for Durham, hit safely. Stovall's safe hit counted Quinlan. The batting of Hulswitt and Fohl for Columbus and the timely sticking of Peitz and Stovall for Louisville were features.

The fielding stunt of the day was that of Brashear, who accepted ten chances, cleanly getting in one nice double play as part of his performance. Stovall did not have a chance in right field and Neal but two in left. The score:

BASEBALL CHAT.

Frank Delehanty, recalcitrant outfielder whom Cleveland obtained with Pitcher Clarkson in exchange for Pitcher Moore, has signed a Cleveland contract. He has finished his course for a year at Baldwin University at Berea. The terms he accepted are said to have been the same Clark Griffith offered him.

* * *

Joe Cantillon is showing signs of dissatisfaction over the slow action of the National Commission and the Washington manager can be expected to start something in the Kelley case before many days go by. Mike is ready to play first base at any time and only the dilatory tactics pursued by members of the commission are keeping him out of the national game.

* * *

The soft-shelled crabs clothed in tartar sauce pushed the Cincy ball club out of the Copley Square Hotel at Boston. One evening Business Manager Bancroft asked for crabs in the dining-room and was told there was none. He hiked to a la carte rathskellar department and the two crabs hastened to meet him at so much percrustacean. The coy and elusive habits of Boston soft shell crabs cost the hotel the patronage of the Cincy team. Funny thing about that, too. While the Cubs were there the chef scratched live lobsters from our menu, but Mr. Tenney daily trotted out a mess at the ball yard. Fred possesses the spirit of true hospitality.

* * *

Umpire Hurst has been inoculated with the gesture virus, indicating strikes by raising his right hand. He has the unanimous thanks of the spectators and the knowledge he belongs to the good majority, for only a few of the arbitrators indicate pitched ball decisions now by some gesture.

* * *

The spitball McGraw considers as the most dangerous delivery a pitcher can adopt, and he has issued the strictest orders against its use. He says no pitcher can use it more than one season without ruining his arm. McGraw possibly bases his conclusions on Chesbro's sad experience. However, the Giants' manager will listen to no arguments that Walsh, of the White Sox, has used the vapor pellet for several seasons, and is still very effective with it, or that Stricklett is still good and also has used the damp sling for years. "I will not have any of my pitchers use it," he says, with rigid determination and decisiveness.

* * *

Griffiths, of the New Yorks, has experienced his usual run of hard luck in the way of the crippling of his players. With the return of his team to his own grounds there ought to be a change in fortunes and a good opportunity will be afforded beyond a doubt to get into the thick of the fight.

* * *

"Jiggs" Donohue, who acts as guardian of the first landing for the Chicago White Sox, continues to electrify the followers of balldom by his stunt of spearing the globule with one mitt. It is said that he could, if found necessary, be able to play with only one hand.

* * *

Cold molasses delivery is the latest style added to the twirlers' stock in trade.

* * *

It is alleged by connoisseurs that Clark Griffiths is the designer of the new fad.

* * *

The latest creation of pitching will unquestionably prove an unpopular one, as it requires from twenty to thirty seconds to execute the trick.

* * *

Lively coaching is what stirs up enthusiasm to player and fan alike, and much life is injected into the game if there is plenty of run-getting.

* * *

If Lajoie's diamond actors can maintain the pace they have been setting, there is no doubt that the Naps will placate the Comiskey clan, who hold first place in the American League scramble for the championship trophy.

* * *

The bunch representing Cleveland appear to be in tip-top fettle for the coming campaign with the Eastern clubs.

* * *

Barring accidents, Cleveland will be the odds-on favorite for first position when the day of the Declaration of Independence is celebrated.

* * *

Manager Griffiths, of the Highlanders, is being accused by some of the baseball critics of having slipped one over on his friend, Larry Lajoie, who presides over the destinies of the Cleveland contingent, when he exchanged Walter Clarkson for Earl Moore.

* * *

Since the transfer, both pitchers have added a victory to their respective clubs in the one argument they participated in.

* * *

Manager Lajoie, of the Cleveland aggregation, will in all likelihood return Heine Berger to Columbus, as he is hardly up to major league standard.

* * *

If the locals succeed in playing rings around the Columbus contingent by capturing the majority of the three games now on between the two teams, it will serve to awaken up the Falls City cranks from their present dormant condition.

* * *

On their return the Colonels will play twenty-four straight games on the local lot.

* * *

The Louisvilles are not outclassed by any of the teams in the American Association, and with proper handling ought to secure a berth in the first division.

* * *

With the same article of ball as dished out by the Cooleyites in the series just ended with the Mud-hens, the locals should secure 75 per cent. of the games.

* * *

Baseball devotees of Louisville and territory adjacent will not support a team holding the cellar championship. The management understands this.

THE HUMAN HANDICAP.

"The Human Handicap"—A race for all ages. Distance, forever and aye. Start, fair for all. Starter—Adam. Assistant Starter—Eve.

Starters.	Jockeys.
Death	Coffin
Poor Health	Brokedown
Dissipation	Jolly
Women	Vanity
Wine	Goodfellow
Song	Singer
Ambition	Hope
Man	Fairsex
Youth	Father
Infant	Mother

(Owing to the race being too uncertain, there will be no betting.)

They're off! The starter has dropped his flag.
There they go. Ah! what a sight.
Infant is leading, got the rail,
And mother is hugging tight.

It looks like infant is losing ground,
Hello! He bolts too late;
He's dropped back in the ruck, and
Mother cannot keep him straight.

AT THE QUARTER.

Youth is full of running,
And jumps into the lead,
Father is urging good advice,
But youth he will not heed.

He's running wild. Hello!
He's stepped into a hole,
It looks as though Youth is done for,
Yes, father has lost control.

AT THE HALF.

Man now forges to the front,
Ambition is burning the track;
Man is anxious, wants to go, but,
Fairsex holds him back.

Wine and Song comes along, and Man falls in between.
Try as he may to shake them off,
He can't, that's plainly seen.

AT THE THREE-QUARTERS.

Ambition is gone, Man clings unto Wine, Women and Song.
It's a question now if Man can last,
With Dissipation running strong.

Man is going a terrible clip, with Dissipation at his side;
Man is game—he won't give up,
Although he's beat, he still has pride.

INTO THE STRETCH AND FINISH.

Man has still a little left,
It's plain, though, he can't last, for Poor Health is at his heels, and Death is coming fast.

The pace that kills has settled man.
He falters, out of breath,
And with a ghostly burst of speed
Comes the winner—DEATH.

(NOTE.—The winner was handicapped by the start, but came slow and sure. Women, Wine and Song a hard combination to beat. Youth's too strong-headed and Father could do nothing with him. Ambition and Man were going well, but were interfered with by Dissipation. Poor Health came through on the rail when Man swerved from the place. Infant gave way in the early running.)

Butchertowns and Muldoons.

The Butchertown management has arranged an attraction for Sunday. The Muldoons, who succeeded in taking the scalp of the East Enders earlier in the season, have been engaged for a return game. The Muldoons have defeated every team they have played this season and are making a strong bid for the Ohio championship. Manager Middendorf, still smarting under the defeat by the Cincinnatians earlier in the season, will present his strongest team with a view of turning the tables. The line-up follows:

Butchertowns.	Positions.	Muldoons.
Boardman	Pitcher	Connor or Hooker
Dugan	Catcher	Kleir
Tilford	Shortstop	Woelsher
Kuhn	First base	Ashborn
Leonhart	Second base	Snider
Gerrard	Third base	Ducklo
Krebs	Left field	Connors
Hoffman	Center field	Maber
Quigley	Right field	Volkers

Reccius and Wiedemanns.

At Reccius Park Sunday the champion Wiedemann team, of Newport, will play the Reccius club, the winner to take 75 per cent. and the loser 25 per cent. of the gate receipts. The line-up follows:

Reccius.	Positions.	Wiedemann.
Vetter	Catcher	Rafferty
Ramsey or Doyle	Pitcher	Rains or Richey
Williams	Shortstop	Schulte
Doup	First base	Meyer
Piepho	Second base	Burke
Lally	Third base	Heeb
Langan	Left field	Hennessey
Dugan	Center field	Ball
Fay	Right field	Cefalu

SEVEN GIRLS WALK OUT OF PORTLAND STEAM LAUNDRY.

Seven Others Will Take Their Places To-day—Unusual Proceedings Attendant On This "Strike."

Seven girls left the Portland Steam Laundry, 2615 Portland avenue, at noon yesterday without notifying the manager, L. C. Castersen, that they were going or stating why they were quitting work. To-day seven new employes will take their places. Last night Mr. Castersen said that he did not know why the girls quit and that he was not at the laundry at the time they walked out the back door and failed to return after the noon hour.

Tuesday morning Miss Mamie Finton, the office girl, did not come to work, but Mr. Castersen said that he did not discharge her. He said that the fact that Miss Finton had quit the laundry could not have had anything to do with the exodus of the other girls yesterday. The seven girls who quit at noon yesterday failed to draw their pay, Mr. Castersen said, and should they return to go to work the manager said that they would find their places taken. He did not consider their quitting as a serious matter. The girls who quit intimated that they were leaving because Miss Finton was out of the company's employ.

COMING INTERCOLLEGIATE CHAMPIONSHIPS IN LIGHT OF PAST PERFORMANCES

FOLLOWING action taken by the Cambridge athletic meet authorities whereby several colleges were refused permission to compete in the intercollegiate championships, comes the story to the effect that many well-known athletes of the leading colleges, including Harvard, Yale and Syracuse, have had protests lodged against them.

These protests were not decided, and the committee refused information regarding them. The status of the men will be determined before their names are revealed. This action by the committee changes the prospects of the colleges, as it is understood that several of their stars will be barred.

The dual meets of the various colleges invariably afford the safest augury of the probabilities of the intercollegiate championship on which the interest and attention of the college world always centers during May. The intercollegiates this year are to be run at Cambridge on May 31 and June 1, and are now two weeks off. The New England intercollegiates, to be held next Saturday, are, however, the only important games yet to be held that are likely to afford much indication of the chances of any of the competitors likely to be prominent in the championships. Taken in conjunction with the games at Pennsylvania Saturday and the dual games of Princeton and Cornell and Yale and Harvard, the results of the previous dual games give a very definite line on the possibilities. The former records of the meets of the year are given below. It should be remembered, however, that Michigan, Syracuse, Lafayette, Haverford and Swarthmore have not competed in dual games, and all of these teams have some good men who will figure, especially Michigan. Those who are likely to show from these institutions are:

Michigan—Rowe, Coe, Dull, Maloney, Patterson, Heath, Garrels, French and Ramey.

Swarthmore—Maxwell and Kreuger.
Lafayette—Colliton.
Haverford—Baker.

These account for about all the probable men who may figure in the championships. From the list it should be possible for the good judge of form to almost pick the outcome of the championships. It looks like a very close run between Pennsylvania, Cornell and Michigan for the first three places, with Harvard a good outside chance.

SCHOOL TEAMS ARE READY FOR BATTLE

Manual and High School Nines Expect Hard Struggle This Afternoon In Second Game of Series.

THIS afternoon the High School and Manual baseball nines tie up for their second game of the present season at High School Park, Brook and Breckinridge streets.

From the tap of the gong at 3 o'clock to the end of the last inning the game promises to be hard fought, and the team that wins knows that it must play ball every minute. The one game the two local rivals have already played ended in a score of 4 to 3 in favor of High School, although the Purple was shut out up to the seventh inning. In that round three Manual errors, a base on balls and three timely hits by Duffy's men brought in four runs and put the Purple in the lead. The next two innings were nerve-racking affairs, for both sides had several men left on bases. This game was very close, but those of former years have been the same. The two games in 1906 were 3 to 0 and 4 to 2 in favor of High School, while both contests in 1905 were annexed by the Purple and Gold by the same score, 4 to 3. These results not only prove the closeness of the High School-Manual contests, but they conclusively show that the local boys play splendid ball. The low scores, in connection with good hitting, show that fine fielding must have been done, and indeed, the two teams are well known for their brilliant plays at critical stages. High School especially is in the habit of pulling off hair-raising catches when most needed. Last year Booker and Goddard saved the first Manual game by good fielding, and the latter won the second by cleverly playing the hit and run game. Manual has been using this play to good advantage of late, while High School has been working on it.

In comparing the rival teams one finds the Reds a little stronger in batting, with two such sluggers as Weisenstein and Sprau. However, High School's hitting has improved steadily all season and is much stronger now than it was on May 11. The Purple has a first baseman in J. Foley whom many consider Sprau's superior in hitting, while he is easily as good a first sacker. At second High School has Duffy, who is Weisenstein's superior in fielding since the Manual man is prone to lose his head in a tight place. The Crimson has a fine man at short in the veteran Payne, who can bat and field slightly better than M. Foley, of High School. Foley's batting, however, has improved greatly in the past week or two and he plays inside ball all the time.

Little Rieser at third for the Purple is probably a better fielder than Schmidt, but the Manual man is a good hitter.

The High School outfield, composed of Crawford, Chescheir and Baer, is easily the superior of the Crimson gardeners at all points.

In the box, Kimbel for the Purple and Fallis for Manual, are pretty well matched, though the former is steadier in a tight place and especially good with men on bases.

Behind the bat Lanahan, of High School, is better than Burgess. Both are good hitters, but "Lanny's" throwing and catching of fouls is excellent.

On the bases the two nines are evenly matched, but Fallis watches runners better than Kimbel.

From this dope and from the games already played it is evident that neither side can look for an easy victory. Manual will try especially hard to win, however, for if High School takes the Decoration day game the series will be over and the Purple once again champions.

The teams will line up as follows:

High School.	Positions.	Manual.
Baer	Right field	Weisert
Rieser	Third base	Schmidt
Crawford	Left field	Caldwell
Chescheir	Center field	Stone
Duffy	Second base	Weisenstein
J. Foley	First base	Sprau
M. Foley	Shortstop	Payne
Lanahan	Catcher	Burgess
Kimbel	Pitcher	Fallis

WISE MEN IN BETTING RING

Pittsburg Phil Was One of the Generals of the Turf.

BIGGEST KILLING OF CAREER.

Big Bookmaker the Inventor of Cagey Kinks For the Baffling of Pricemakers.

J. E. MADDEN'S ARISTOCRACY.

"THAT big clean-up at Aqueduct the other day by the Cella crowd on Rustle was pretty well put over," said a bookmaker, "but their cash betting kink wasn't original stuff, as some of the new people at the game thought it was at the time.

"They sneaked in the currency on Rustle in $100, $200 and $500 lots, you'll recall, instead of doing the finger betting thing, as usual, and that's why the layers who got singled didn't wake up to it that Rustle was the one until the Cella sifters stood to tear off something like $30,000.

"Their switch to the cash way of betting was an old turnover, and Pittsburg Phil invented it, as he invented most of the cagey kinks for the baffling of the price fixers. The first time he ever played the spot-coin way for the big money was when he got Lord Turco over, and that was the heaviest hauling he ever made at it.

"All of his bets had been made on the nod, so when a whole slew of fellows with familiar faces sashayed up and down the main line tamping in the spot yellows on Lord Turco—there was as good as 20 to 1 at the beginning—we all took it that it was merely one of those much-noddled paddock tips and looked upon the bales of Turco money as straight out, for the horse had been running like a two-horned rhino through a thorn jungle, and nobody on the stool row had a chance to figure him as being the picture.

Players Get Wise.

"Some of the layers got wise to it just a little bit before the race and rubbed Turco to nothing, but it was too late. The tide of strange-looking money had muddled us utterly, and Phil's pull-off wasn't a pistole short of $90,000, for the Turco thing had finished alone.

"Phil wasn't a repeater on his schemes without big intervals between them, and he didn't try the cash way again until John Madden's Aristocracy won the big two-year-old race at Saratoga. He put it over again that time, getting as high as 30 to 1 against the Madden trick, with his unfamiliar-looking spot kale, and he picked up a bale of it at that time, too.

"The layers had no possible way of doping out Phil's constant switches in his style of ring generalship, and that, of course, is why he went on, year after year, leaving the barbs in them, and why, when he made his final cash-in, he had pretty nigh $2,000,000 of the ring money. His handling of his commissioners in itself was perfect work. He'd change his betting crews constantly, and the bookies never had a chance to become really familiar with their maps.

"For instance, the book runners would pipe Phil standing off in a secluded part of the lawn, surrounded by ten or a dozen of the commissioners who had done his betting the day before. The outside men would get the faces of the fellows standing around Phil firmly printed in their minds' eyes and then they'd stand right alongside the layers for whom they worked, waiting for those fellows to come up.

"Well, they wouldn't come along. Their standing on the lawn talking with Phil would only be a blind to fool the outside men. An entirely different crew of Phil's commissioners would swoop into the ring that day and get down his money.

"There wasn't anything about the game that he wasn't about four jumps ahead from first to last, and that's why he stuck to the finish. It used to be said that Phil never took worse than even money, and that he usually demanded two to one better, but as a matter of truth he'd take anything that was offered in a price-making operation, and it was an odd day when he didn't frame things so that he managed to get just about the price he wanted and thought was right. He'd go to any amount of trouble to toss the layers off the scent.

Night Workouts.

"One midnight during the spring meeting at Gravesend the on guard railbirds, on the lookout for night work, caught sight of Phil gliding through the paddock gate, all muffled up in a heavy overcoat, for the weather was raw, and a man with a poor set of lungs Phil was fixed out with didn't appear to have much business fiz-gigging around in that sort of night weather, unless there was something big on hand. This, of course, was the natural enough view of it that the watchful railbirds took of Phil's appearance.

"Phil was met not far from the paddock gate by a trainer who seemed to be on the lookout for him, and the two strolled over in the black dark to the stable where the trainer's string had their boxes. Presently the lanterns around that stable began to glow, and an untried two-year-old that was carded to go in an important stake race the next day was led out.

"A bunch of stable hands with lanterns distributed themselves around the track, and the two-year-old was saddled and an exercise boy was put up on his back. Phil and the trainer of the two-year-old walked into the infield near the stand, and there was a man around at the five-furlong starting post to time the start.

* * *

Railbirds Flit Around.

"Phil and the trainer, watches in hand, waited for the two-year-old to dash down to the finish line—the railbirds all the time flitting around in the background and keeping strictly under cover, so as not to let Phil in on it that the work was being watched. The two-year-old pranced down to the finish full tilt, and Phil and the trainer caught the finish, split second.

"After a few minutes the man who had taken the starting time came up and the three compared their time notes.

"'One-one for five furlongs,' said Phil to the trainer. 'That'll do it—with that 125 pound exercise boy up it's a fine work. It'll do. I'll go it,' and then he quit the trainer and walked through the paddock gate to the automobile that was waiting for him.

"The railbirds put the top price makers next to the story of Phil's visit to the track and of how the identified two-year-old trick had been sent the five furlong route in 1:01 with a lummox of an exercise boy up, and when the chalk went up on that race the two-year-old that had got the midnight work under Phil's eye was the 1-to-2 favorite. Nobody could understand it, for there were two or three tried cracks in the field and none of the previously reported works of the 1-to-2 trick had been in the least sensational.

* * *

Chalk Folks Waited.

"The chalk folks stood by and waited for the Phil coin to sweep along, meanwhile carelessly laying the nice figures against the other tried good two-year-olds in the race. They waited for a long time for the Phil money, but it never showed up.

"An entirely new lot of Phil's commissioners, though, took the first price offered—8 to 1—against one of the other good ones in the race, and by the time the layers were thinking it funny that the Phil money wasn't showing they had enough of the other one's money on their sheets to make Phil's midnight visit to the track worth close to a hundred thousand to him.

"These successes on the part of Pittsburg Phil finally got the bookies' nerves, and thereby made it a whole lot easier for him. During his best years, before his sickness took hold of him that broke down his activity, it became only necessary for Phil to be looking a horse over carefully in the paddock before a race for the books to curl up in their figures against that one and to all but hold it out altogether.

Get Out Their Meat Axes.

"A paddock runner would come hustling into the ring with the news that Phil and a bunch of his people were lined up in the paddock around one of the horses carded to go in the race, and the often stung layers would be pretty likely to hop to the conclusion that this was the one that was going to run for Phil—and when they reached that conclusion they got their meat axes out on the price. But in nine cases out of ten Phil's paddock scrutiny of the horse was a pure blind, and even while he'd be gazing at that one his agents would be mooching around the ring getting down his money at the top price on something entirely different that Phil had picked out for himself.

"Badly as they were lashed year in and year out by this topnotcher of all betting ring generals, there wasn't ever a man in the ring who fell for his schemes who didn't feel all the time that Phil was absolutely honest. He was so adroit in his methods that he didn't have to do anything remotely resembling crooked work.

"He was simply more than a fair match for the layers, and when they got beat out by him on their own ground they might repine over their losses, but they never beefed about the man who had inflicted the losses upon them. He could get away with things that no other plunger would dare try, because nobody ever had the ring's confidence as he had."

MARVIN HART IS CONFIDENT

Louisville Fighter and Mike Schreck Are To Meet To-day.

BOTH ARE IN FINE CONDITION.

Kentuckian Declares He Will Knock Out Cincinnati Boxer In Fifteen Rounds.

WHAT GEORGE SILER SAYS.

TONOPAH, Nev., May 29.—With the time for the battle between Mike Schreck and Marvin Hart almost at hand, the latter has broken his reserve. To-day he declared he would win from the German from Cincinnati by the knockout route. The Louisville slugger gives Schreck fifteen rounds with him.

"I was never in better shape since the beginning of my ring career," said Hart, "and I expect to go in and clean up Schreck. I feel sure I will be able to knock him out, and give him fifteen rounds as a limit. I may win in less time than that, but I will win."

The betting on the big fight is heavier than on any match ever pulled off out here. The odds are ranging from 10 to 7, with Schreck the favorite, to even money. Both sides have plenty of coin and each man is being well supported. The Goldfield crowd is backing Hart to a man, he having trained at that camp and has shown cleverness.

Schreck is being backed by much Chicago money. Abe Attell, the featherweight champion of the world, is one of his supporters. He wired Billy Hogan today to bet $2,000 on Mike at the best odds he could get. Other Chicago bettors have wired commissions on the big German, and it seems probable he will be a more pronounced favorite by the time the two enter the ring. Attell thinks Schreck is the best heavyweight in the world, barring Jeffries, of course. He is at present in Los Angeles, but wired his commission from there.

George Siler, of Chicago, who will referee the Hart-Schreck heavyweight championship fight, in this city to-morrow, arrived yesterday. He issued the following statement:

"This town and the surrounding mining camps are all in a flutter over the Schreck-Hart fight, which takes place here May 30, and the advance sale of tickets indicates a large attendance. Schreck, who is in the pink of condition, came weighing 205, and has trained down to 185. He says he feels like a sure winner. I saw Mike go through his training stunts yesterday afternoon before a crowd of not less than 600. He boxed four aspiring champions and went through twenty rounds, finishing fresh as a daisy, and showing marvelous speed and cleverness. He is hitting straight as an arrow, with loads of force behind his blows, and I never saw him look better. Hart is training at Goldfield, and reports from there are that he is working like a Trojan and in fine shape.

"He boxes all comers daily, but handles them more roughly than does Mike. His work has made a favorable impression on sports in that camp, and sporting men are backing him at even to win. Fully $10,000 is already placed on the outcome, all at evens. I had a talk with Schreck regarding the rules under which he is to fight, and to-day will trip it to Goldfield to interview Hart. Messrs. Johnson and Brown, promoters of the battle, are arranging to stage a big fight July 4. Jack Curley, manager for Johnson and Brown, is keeping the wires hot for a July 4 attraction. They are after big Jack Johnson to fight the winner of the coming fight, and will leave here for 'Frisco Friday to clinch the match if possible. Hart and Schreck have signified their willingness to meet the big black, so it is up to Johnson. Curley also is figuring on getting the winner of the Squires-Burns fight against Schreck here Labor day."

NATIONAL TREASURER.

LIEUT. COL. W. C. HICKS, OF SALVATION ARMY, TO SPEAK.

Will Address Meeting At Hall, 323 Second Street, To-night—Here On Inspection Trip.

Special services will be held to-night at the Salvation Army Hall, 323 Second street, when one of the most prominent officials of that organization will be present and lead the meeting. The services will be conducted by Lieut. Col. William C. Hicks, of New York City, who has charge of what is known as the Social and Industrial Home Department throughout the United States. These include the Salvation Army homes, rummage stores, hotels and lodging houses. He comes to Louisville on a tour of inspection of the organization's headquarters in the Middle States.

He will be accompanied by Brig. A. Marcussen, of Cleveland, who has charge of all the social institutions of the army in Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Pennsylvania and the Southern States. Some important improvements are contemplated in the local work of the army, and it is with these that the visit of Col. Hicks has to do. Adjt. Garland has seized the opportunity in order to have Col. Hicks make an address. He is said to be an entertaining speaker.

Col. Hicks is regarded as one of the most capable officers in the Salvation Army. He was formerly in the tea business in a Western Pennsylvania town, but becoming interested in the work of the army gave up his business and joined the army. He has been the national treasurer of the organization since it was incorporated.

FOR CATHOLIC WOMEN'S CLUB BUILDING FUND.

Miss Blanche Mitchell's pupils will give an entertainment at Macauley's Theater Friday evening, May 31, for the benefit of the Catholic Women's Club building fund. Mr. Macauley has donated the use of his theater for the occasion. The Catholic Woman's Club will be forced to leave their present quarters on Walnut street soon, and all money realized from this entertainment will be used for the building of a permanent home for the club. The organization devotes its entire time to charity, regardless of creed, and is managed on high standards by popular officials.

FREE TELEPHONES!

THE TIMES and COURIER-JOURNAL Free Telephone Proposition has been renewed through the Circulation Promotion Company, of Milwaukee. Under this arrangement, any present subscriber to either paper, or anyone who will become a subscriber, having the paper delivered by carrier, in Louisville, New Albany or Jeffersonville, paying the regular monthly subscription price of the paper, can have installed in his or her home or residence a Cumberland Telephone at a cost of just one dollar, with no guarantee to spend another cent for a year on the telephone. The regular contract price for a Telephone is $36 a year. The Telephone installed under this arrangement is a coin-receiving one. When YOU call up, you drop a nickel in the coin receiver. When you are called up, it costs you nothing.

How to Get the Free Telephone.

FIRST—Call at the City Circulation Department of The Times and Courier-Journal, room 5, second floor, Courier-Journal office building. Here you sign an agreement to become a regular subscriber to The Times or Daily Courier-Journal for one year, paying the regular subscription price each month—10c a week of six days; 65c a month for Daily and Sunday Courier-Journal.

SECOND—Sign an agreement to leave the Telephone in your residence one year from date of installation. PAY $2.00 INSTALLATION FEE, $1.00 OF THIS AMOUNT being refunded to you in slugs good for your first twenty calls.

THIRD—This proposition is made by the Circulation Promotion Company, of Milwaukee. If this company for any reason declines to put in the Telephone, your $2.00 will be refunded and your contract for the paper canceled if desired.

FOURTH—This offer will NOT apply to anyone who has had a Cumberland Phone in their residence, or had it removed, since July 1, 1906.

FIFTH—This proposition applies to residences only—not to stores, offices or shops—in the city limits only of Louisville, New Albany or Jeffersonville.

Reduction in Rates.

The Times and Courier-Journal have more good news for subscribers who now have these Coin-receiving Telephones, or who will order them installed. We have secured a special concession, whereby calls may be made

At Three Cents a Call.

All subscribers having these Telephones in their homes can purchase slugs from the Cumberland Telephone and Telegraph Company, at the following rates:

For $1.00 25 Slugs, Making 4c a Call

For $3.00 100 Slugs, Making 3c a Call

To get these slugs, call at the Cumberland Telephone office, Jefferson street, near Fifth, state that you have the coin-receiving phone, and show your receipts for payment of the previous month's subscription to The Times or Courier-Journal.

If you are interested, call at the City Circulation Department, Room 5, Courier-Journal Office Building. Don't telephone, as you will have to come to sign the agreement.

Give Your Order To-day

So as to get your name and number in the next Telephone Directory, which goes to press in a few days.

HARGISES PLEAD

In Answer To Suit By the Heirs of Dr. B. D. Cox.

OBJECT TO JURISDICTION OF FAYETTE COURT.

ALSO RELY ON THE STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS.

GENERAL DENIAL ENTERED.

Lexington, Ky., May 29.—[Special.]—The defendants in the suit of the heirs of Dr. B. D. Cox, of Jackson, against James and Elbert Hargis and Ed Callahan for $100,000 damages filed the answer in the Circuit Court to-day. In the answer it is stated that Dr. Cox was killed in Breathitt county April 13, 1902, and that the defendants lived in Breathitt at that time, and that Breathitt county, in which a similar suit has already been filed, is the proper place for the trial of the action. The court is therefore asked to dismiss the petition here. It is also pleaded in the answer that the alleged cause of action occurred over a year ago, and the suit is therefore barred by the stautes of limitation.

The answer thus proceeds to deny that any of the defendants conspired to kill Dr. Cox, or in any way assisted in causing his death as charged in the petition, or aided and abetted John Smith and John Abner in the killing, or have any knowledge of the conspiracy.

Power Plant At Valley View.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Lexington and Interurban Railway Companies to-day it was finally decided to build the new powerhouse at Valley View on the Kentucky river, thirteen miles from this city. The new powerhouse will be a gigantic structure and will furnish electric power for lighting the cities of Lexington and Frankfort, and the street car systems of these two cities, as well as the interurban lines which radiate from Lexington to Paris, Georgetown, Nicholasville, Versailles and Frankfort. The new plant will have a capacity of 3,000 kilowatts, or a combined voltage of 33,000. The power will be furnished by a system of Curtis turbine engines, of the latest pattern. Frankfort, Lexington and other points were anxious to secure the location of the powerhouse, but the site at Valley View was finally decided on because of the facilities for obtaining water and coal, as well as being nearer the center of the interurban railroads which have been or will be constructed in Central Kentucky by this company.

Fair Girl Graduates.

The commencement exercises of Campbell-Hagerman Female College will be held in the Operahouse here to-given diplomas. The address was made by Rev. Cary E. Morgan, pastor of the Christian church at Paris. Miss Ida Pearl Moore, of Stanford, was awarded first honor, her average for the session being 97 per cent. A unique prize offered by the college was that to the student who had shown the most uniform cheerfulness during the term, and this was also won by Miss Moore. The prize is a two-weeks' outing at Bethany Beach on the coast of Delaware. The graduating class was as follows:

Misses Mary Cecil Adams, Postura, New Mexico; Nannie Crittendon Bastin, Lancaster; Margaret Cavanaugh Bogie, Mt. Sterling; Cathering Carmen Butler, Somerset; Grace Scott Cline, Pineville; Margaret Ethelyn Egbert, Lexington; Beulah Gourley, Lexington; Fanny McFarland, Lexington; Ida Pearl Moore, Stanford; Verna Jewell Sink, Lexington; Hallie Shouse Wise, Lexington; Hazel Belle Browne, Guthrie, Okla.; Minnie Lou Bryant, Denver, Colo.; Scott Alleyne McCabe, Vicksburg, Miss.; Edna McFarland, Pittsburg, Pa.; Annie May Powell and Mamie Adah Powell, Utica, Miss.; Florence Rosalie Shoptow, Russellville, Ark.; Alice Van Zandt, Ft. Worth, Tex.; Elen May Weeks, Utica, Miss.; Ida Evangeline Wise, Millersburg, O.; and Mary D. Tanner, Lexington.

Lexington Notes.

James R. Hamilton and Miss Mayme Barr were married this morning at the home of Rev. Thomas Mingard in this city. The bride is the daughter of Robert Barr, a farmer, who lives near Carlisle, and the groom is also a farmer of the same locality. There was no objection to the wedding and the couple came to this city to be married simply to surprise their friends.

MANILA "HELLO GIRLS."

[New York Sun.]

Manila telephone subscribers feel that though living in what the average American believes to be a semi-barbarou land, the rest of the world has no "edge" on them in being served by comely maidens as "hello girls." The Filipino telephone operator comes from the best families of her land, and takes her work more seriously than her fair-skinned sister of the Occident, says the Kansas City Star. She has her servant, who is also her chaperon, to accompany her to the office, carrying her lunch, and who calls to chaperon her back to the security of her home when the gong rings on her day's work.

The Spanish custom of never permitting an unmarried woman above the age of twelve years to leave the portals of her casa unaccompanied still prevails with both Spaniards and Filipinos of the better class, and their employment as telephone operators permits no relaxation of the watchful care.

The fact that the field of labor, aside from domestic service, for the Filipino girl is so limited, makes employment in this line especially desirable and much sought after by the daughters of the well-to-do Filipinos. Hence, to be a "hello girl" in the Philippines is an honor carrying with it prestige and entry into the best society.

To serve as "central" in Manila a girl must speak and understand English, Spanish and Tagalog, and some of them possess a working knowledge of Chinese, Japanese and other Oriental tongues.

The chief operator—an American woman—of the recently-established Manila line states that the Filipino girls employed as operators are very apt and intelligent and are rapidly developing a most satisfactory service. They receive, as beginners, a salary of twenty pesos ($10) per month, which is increased to twice that amount on their becoming proficient.

As the word hurry is unknown in the Far East, so likewise it is often necessary for an impatient subscriber to curb his temper when telephoning. But the tones of the dulcet voiced operator, "The lyne ees beesee, senor," soothes him to patience.

Byrd Still In Case.

Lexington, Ky., May 29.—[Special.]—Attorney R. B. Jouett, who, with his law partner, A. Floyd Byrd, has been prominent in the prosecution of the Hargis cases, was called up at his home in Winchester by telephone to-day and asked if the prosecution in the Sandy Hook cases had been abandoned. Mr. Jouett replied as follows: "Neither Mr. Byrd or myself has anything to do with abandoning the prosecution of the case at Sandy Hook. Commonwealth's Attorney Waugh has complete charge of the case. We are employed to assist in the prosecution, and I wired Mr. Waugh to know about the trial now. He answered that he had left Elliott county and the cases would be continued until the October term of court. Mr. Byrd then went to Campton, where he is now. We made no preparation to go to Sandy Hook after we received a reply from Mr. Waugh."

STRUCK BOY WHO ANNOYED HIM, THEN RAN FROM MOB.

Salvation Army Standard-Bearer Exasperated By Fred Corso, Used Flag Pole Disastrously.

Because he struck Fred Corso, the six-year-old son of Mrs. Mary Corso, of 343 Second street, with a flagstaff last night, Charles White, a member of the Salvation Army, was almost mobbed on Green street, between Third and Fourth avenues.

White says that he struck the boy because he was bothering him when he was trying to perform his duty in front of the Salvation Army's Hall on Second street. After he struck the boy he was surrounded by a mob of men and boys who chased him down Green street, and when they overtook him they would probably have done him injury but for the fact that Patrolman McElliott appeared on the scene and locked him up. He was charged with disorderly conduct.

COMMENCEMENT HOP

COMPLETES YEAR AT KENTUCKY MILITARY INSTITUTE.

Fourteen Young Men Graduated From School—Chief Address By J. D. Allen, of Florida, Class '82.

The commencement hop, given at the Kentucky Military Institute last night, marked the close of commencement exercises that began Sunday afternoon with a baccalaureate sermon preached by the Rev. J. B. Hawk, of Florida, beginning at 3 o'clock. In all fourteen young men were graduated. They are:

James Milford Berry, of Carlisle, Ky.; Rollo M. Chappell, of Elgin, Ill.; Marion Bicknell Harlan, of Lagrange, Ky.; Courtney Scott Henley, of Birmingham, Ala.; Albert Sidney Johnson, of Lawrenceburg, Ky.; Paul Webber Long, of Shelbyville, Ky.; John Paul Mudd, of Birmingham, Ala.; Warren Dudley Small, Charles Edward Springer and Victor Thomas Springer, of El Paso, Tex.; Charles Manfred Wilson, of Douglas, Wyo.; Silas Witherbee Winchester, of Lyndon, Ky.; Thomas T. Barrett, of Henderson, Ky.; Sevelle Marion Bonavita, of Atlanta, Ga.

The honor men of the class were Chas. Manfred Wilson, who had conferred upon him the honor of first distinguished cadet, and James Milford Berry and Warren Dudley Small, who had conferred upon them the title of second distinguished cadets.

The principal address to the graduates was delivered by the Hon. J. D. Allen, who was graduated from the institution in 1882, and who is a nephew of the founder of the school.

He gave a history of the institute from its inception up to the time when it was disorganized as a result of the strife between the North and South. He impressed upon his hearers the value of a good character and said that without that essential all men become failures.

"The great trouble with too many colleges," he said, "is that they turn out human encyclopedias of knowledge instead of developing men of character."

He said that it was much to the credit of the Kentucky Military Institute that it, an institution withou an endowment fund, was enabled to compete with schools of large endowments.

Dr. William Bailey, of Louisville, who graduated from the Kentucky Military Institute in 1853, presented the graduates with their diplomas.

Judge William Dearing, of Louisville, also took part in the exercises.

The opening address was made by Col. C. W. Fowler, the head of the institution. The Rev. A. L. Mell opened the exercises with prayer and the Rev. J. B. Hawk pronounced the benediction.

The alumni dinner was given at 1 o'clock.

SHORT ILLNESS FATAL TO MRS. CATHERINE KREBS.

Mrs. Catherine Krebs, widow of Philip Krebs, died of a complication of diseases at her home, 1660 Everett avenue, at 10:45 o'clock yesterday morning after being ill for about ten days. Mrs. Krebs was fifty-eight years of age and was a native of Louisville. She is survived by three sons, George, Charles and Philip Krebs, all of whom live in Louisville. Mrs. Krebs will be buried in Cave Hill cemetery Friday afternoon after funeral services which will be held at the residence at 3 o'clock.

FIGHT WITH A MOOSE.

[Grand Marais Correspondence St. Paul Pioneer Press.]

Angus Le Sage, who has just returned from a trip over his trapping trail at the twenty-four-mile post on the Gunflint road, tells of a thrilling adventure he had with a moose in which he narrowly escaped being stamped to death and was saved only by his dogs.

Le Sage, who has been trapping in that vicinity all winter, started last week to pick up his traps and close camp. On the trail in the vicinity of Clearwater Lake the two dogs which were accompanying the trapper and which had gone on ahead were barking furiously and when their master caught up with them he found that they held a monster moose at bay. The big animal stood squarely in the trail and was menacing the dogs with his horns. Le Sage, without thought of danger, attempted to take a hand in the fun, starting toward the animal and inciting the dogs to renew the attack by clapping his hands.

As soon as the moose saw its human enemy it charged fiercely at him, and the trapper in attempting to make a sharp turn became entangled in his snowshoes and fell heavily to the ground. The animal was almost upon him and had its hoofs raised to beat his life out when the dogs, seeing their master's peril, attacked the moose fiercely from behind. This caused a diversion and the upraised hoof of the animal descended on the man's leg instead of upon his head.

Meantime a companion of Le Sage who had been some distance in the rear came up and assisted the man to his feet. Then the combined efforts of the men and dogs put the infuriated moose to flight.

Le Sage was not badly hurt, escaping with a contusion caused by his heavy fall upon the frozen snow and with a bad scrape along the muscles of his leg made by the hoof of the moose.

SOCIAL LIFE ON THE OCEAN.

[Harriet Quimby, in Leslie's Weekly.]

Since social life has become such a feature of the six and seven-day ocean crossings the cafe system has been adopted as a means of entertaining, and dinner parties on steamships, especially farewell dinners—the latest innovation of society—are frequently given. The traveler who has crossed before rarely cares to miss the captain's dinner, in the general dining saloon, for it is not only a feature worth attending, with its darkened room—for the lights are lowered just before the dessert is served, in order to accentuate the novelty of the procession of illuminated ices held aloft by the waiters, who march and countermarch down the aisles, followed by the Mardi Gras spectacle of grotesquely-attired attendants—but the favors allotted to each guest at table are always pleasing souvenirs of the voyage. Silver chatelaine notebooks and pencils, a collection of postal cards and fascinating crackers, containing little pins, etc., were the favors during the last voyage of the writer on the Amerika.

MISCEGENATION.

Important Beginning of a Movement Against It.

ONE OF THE PROLIFIC CAUSES OF SOUTHERN RACE TROUBLE.

NEW ORLEANS PAPER TAKES A STRONG STAND.

TO BREAK UP GREAT EVIL.

[New Orleans Times-Democrat.]

During the past winter the Times-Democrat called attention in a number of articles to the evils of the miscegenations between whites and blacks prevailing in some parts of the South, and urged that action be taken to break up a practice that is one of the most prolific causes of race trouble. Southern statesmen have appreciated this fact, but they have shown in many instances a lamentable weakness in dealing with this feature of the race problem. Every Southern State, for instance, prohibits the marriage between whites and negroes, but only a few of them have had the courage to go a step further, like Mississippi, and to make miscegenation, illicit relations between the races, a crime, although it leads to even more difficulties than the intermarriages. As long as miscegenation is allowed it establishes, the Times-Democrat pointed out, relations between the races degrading to the whites, spreading false ideas among the negroes and breeding up a race of half-breeds who have proved a nuisance, if not a danger, in every land where they have existed. Nearly every serious trouble between the races is connected in some way with the evil of miscegenation.

Our warning, while it produced some effect, did not accomplish all we hoped for. What we said was conceded by all, and on this point there is apparently no difference of opinion. The difficulty lies in securing the necessary legislation to stop miscegenation by making it a crime. When a bill to that effect came before the Louisiana Legislature not a member would say a word against it, and apparently there was no opposition; yet none the less the bill died, being successfully but mysteriously pigeon-holed, pocketed and delayed, as is the practice with measures which the people want, but which the legislative leaders and luminaries silently and secretly are opposed to without daring to show their opposition.

A murder recently committed in West Feliciana, due to miscegenation, has stirred that parish to the uttermost and has started a campaign of morality and decency certain to succeed, and which, we hope, will spread to other portions of the State and force the Legislature to do what it should have done long ago—put an end to miscegenation and break up the disreputable negro establishments in our towns that are corrupting the youth of the State and generating and encouraging crime.

The murder which so stirred West Feliciana occurred at the house of a negro woman in that parish, the victim being a young white man of good family, murdered by another young white man who lived with the negroes. The investigation which the crime led to disclosed the fact that this place was only one of many in the parish, and the young man who did the killing and the young man who was killed were but following the practices that had become very common.

It was thought necessary to call the people together to consider the situation and to see what steps should be taken to break up what was recognized to be a great evil and a great danger to the community. This meeting, held in St. Francisville last week, was outspoken in its language. Judge Lawrason acted as chairman, and insisted that the parish should take some action—and the State also—looking to the preservation of the purity of the white race, and the prevention of Amalgamation between the races by illicit intercourse, as well as by forbidding marriage. He pointed out the great danger to the State, and to the whole South, from the hordes of mulatto children growing up, and predicted that if something was not done to stop it immediately that a day of fearful reckoning would come. He also urged that it was every man's duty to do what he could to help keep his State and town morally pure, and to assist the authorities in their efforts to preserve morality, and that it was the duty of the meeting by expression of sympathy and by suggestions of help and advice to strengthen the hands of the officials, and to appeal to all legislative bodies, parochial, municipal and State, to grant more power to their executive officers by ordinances and statutes supplying any deficiencies in the present laws.

A number of speeches were made counseling restraint, and urging that whatever was done should be done peaceably under the law, and not violently and by a mob; and it was suggested that the State Legislature be memorialized to pass a law that will prevent white men from living in concubinage with negro women, and recommending that the town councils and the police jury of the parish be at once petitioned and recommended to pass such additional ordinances as may be necessary to more thoroughly regulate and control disreputable houses and suppress concubinage.

A committee was appointed to draw up a petition to the Louisiana Legislature embracing this idea, as well as to correspond with the police juries of the other parishes to get their aid and co-operation in the war it is proposed to wage against miscegenation—which committee was made a permanent one to keep hammering away until the desired law was passed.

In the meanwhile, however, some good is expected to be done by the passage of more severe ordinances dealing with the problem and the more rigid enforcement of the vagrancy laws.

It is quite evident from the tone of the speeches that the movement against miscegenation in West Feliciana is going to be successful. It will be unfortunate if it stops there, instead of spreading throughout the length and breadth of Louisiana, and, indeed, of the entire South. The Times-Democrat will give all the assistance it can, and will take up again the fight it waged against an evil that degrades the white race, undermines society and breeds not only mulattoes, but race hatreds and race wars.

OBSERVATIONS OF A FUTURE PRESIDENT.

[Newark Evening News.]

CORUPSHION.

Pa says Politics is awful dirty in this Stait. I said, is that why you & Uncle Joseph like to talk about them so mutch. Uncle Joseph laft, but Pa was mitey cereous.

Things has come to such a Pass, he said, that we dassent menshin the politishans of to-day before our children for fear of corupting thier morels.

How about Roseyvelt, says Uncle Joseph, aint he a pollitishan? & how about Lafollet & Govner Foke & Everet Coalby & Bryan, aint they good enuf for to introduce to your family?

Thats so said Pa.

Theres just as grate men in pollitics to-day as there ever was said Uncle Joseph & they are making good and Winirg their fites everywheres & serveing thier country just as noble as any of the Public Idles of your boyhoods happy day. The trubble with you Harvey is that you hapen to kno a alderman which got his sun in law a sooer contrack & thats as far as you can see, like the blind man which said the ellefant was like a roap becos he had a hold of its tale.

But says Pa you must admitt that there is a tearable lot of corupshion going on.

Sure there is says Uncle Joseph & always will be as long as you & me & the rest of us want a doller werse than the other fello. It aint the fault of pollitics Harvey its the fault of the old Hairy in human natcher. Which do you supose come first, corupshion or corupter?

Pa kind of grunted.

This reform rumpis all over the country is a good thing said Uncle Joseph. Amerrica is only a baby yet & as long as it can yell there is hoap as doctor Munyin says. But it maiks me smile some times. If the ravviges of the rapashus Trusts tutched the peoples honor in sted of thier pocketbooks do you reckon there wood be such a Howl?

I like to hear Pa and Uncle Joseph talk pollitics becos Pa always gets the werst of it.

Unquestionably.

If but John Smith
And all his kith
Take in the Jamestown show,
It will, I guess,
A great success
Adown Time's turnpike go.

COTTON MARKETS.

New York, May 29.—The cotton market was very active to-day, and made new high records on covering and bull support. The close was firm and within a point or two of the best at a net advance of 24@38 points. Sales were estimated at 600,000 bales. The opening was firm at a net advance of 7@17 points on active demand, attracted by the encouraging cables, cool, wet weather in the Western belt and bullish private acreage and condition reports, one of which estimated a decrease of 4 per cent. in the area. Another report gave the condition of the crop in Texas as 68.2 per cent. and the area of that State at 2 per cent. over last year, and still another report estimated the average condition of the crop as a whole at 69 per cent. and the acreage at an increase of 1.2 per cent. These reports, pointing to a very bullish Government report next week, imparted a very firm tone to the market, while bullish sentiment is so encouraged by numerous private wires from the Southwest reporting heavy rains and very unfavorable weather conditions. Some of the larger shorts appeared to be covering in the afternoon, and while realizing was very heavy on a scale-up, offerings were well absorbed and the highest prices were reached in the late session when July sold at 11.75c, October at 11.55c and January at 11.77c. New Orleans sent very bullish messages here and was a buyer in the local market, while part of the demand was attributed to strong Western interests. The local market will be closed to-morrow and New Orleans will be closed next Monday. The Government report is expected at noon next Tuesday.

Estimated receipts at the ports to-day 9,000 bales, against 9,225 last week and 11,899 last year; for the week 50,000 bales, against 54,432 last week and 78,908 last year; to-day's receipts at New Orleans 1,530 bales, against 5,500 last year, and at Houston 1,772, against 2,294 last year.

Spot cotton opened quiet; middling uplands 12.35c; do gulf 12.60c. Closed steady and 15 points higher; middling uplands 12.50c; do gulf 12.75c. Sales 100 bales.

Futures closed firm. Prices ranged as follows:

New Orleans, May 29.—Cotton spots closed firm; middling 12 5-16c. Quotations were revised by the Revision Committee, putting low middling and middling up 1-16c, the grades above middling up 3-16c and leaving the other grades unchanged. Sales were 1,950 bales on the spot and 225 to arrive. Quotations: Low ordinary 7 5-16c nominal; ordinary 8 5-16c nominal; good ordinary 9⅝c; low middling 10⅞c; middling 12 5-16c; good middling 13 3-16c; middling fair 14 3-16c nominal; fair 14 13-16c nominal. Receipts 1,530 bales; stock 115,310.

The active future months all passed the 12c mark to-day, July running as high as 12.42c. Prices opened steady at an advance of 6@13 points over last night. Under the influence of rains in the belt and a bullish acreage estimate from Texas prices boomed steadily upward throughout the day. The closing was very steady, with the active months 23@31 points above yesterday's close and the entire list 23@37 points above. The range for the day was as follows:

COTTON COMMENT.

New York.—The situation and outlook from our point of view, both as regards the crop and the speculative position, remain unchanged. The trade is discounting the worst crop report for June 1 on record by fully 10 points. Last week the expectations were it would make the average condition about 68 to 70 per cent. Now these have been lowered to about 64 per cent. against 74.1 per cent. on June 1, 1903, the previous low average condition at this time of the season. Buy cotton on every setback.—(Hubbard Bros. & Co. to E. E. Paine & Co.

We believe prices are low and would advise buying for a sharp advance.—(J. S. Bache & Co. to Washington Flexner & Co.

The market looks like it will ultimately sell higher, but of course may have natural reactions from time to time.—(T. A. McIntyre & Co.

While we do not advise buying on such an advance, we would not hesitate to buy on any good break before Tuesday noon.—(A. O. Brown & Co. to Hunt, Bridgeford & Co.

Unless the crop situation and outlook throughout entire country should improve, we believe demand for dry goods will increase, hence the market looks like higher to us.—(Marshall, Spader & Co.

Oil Quotations.

Oil City, May 29.—Credit balances $1.78; runs 195,510 bbls., average 148,631; shipments 201,461, average 170,284.

Naval Stores.

Savannah, May 29.—Spirits of turpentine steady at 60c; sales 491 casks; receipts 635; shipments 540. Rosin firm; sales 2,292 casks; receipts 1,618; shipments 275; stock 38,815; A, B and C $4.15@4.25; D $4.40@4.50; E $4.60@4.65; F $4.70@4.85; G $4.80@4.87½; H $5@5.05; I $5.35; K $5.55; M $5.50@5.70; N $5.65@5.85; window glass $5.90; water white $6.

Wilmington, May 29.—Spirits of turpentine, nothing doing. Rosin quiet at $4.30; receipts 52 casks. Tar firm at $2.40; receipts 197 casks. Crude turpentine firm at $3.50, $4.75 and $5.25; receipts 48 casks.

Charleston, May 29.—Turpentine and rosin, nothing doing.

New York Dry Goods.

New York, May 29.—The dry goods market was active during the day in the lines of brown and bleached cottons—domestics, yarns, underwear and hosiery, and some lines of men's wear. But there was a generally quiet tone in many quarters, due in part to the approach of the holiday and to the reflection of a quiet trade among retailers. Advances in hosiery and underwear are being made rapidly on account of the higher yarn market.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MONETARY.

Wednesday Evening, May 29.—Call money continued easy in New York to-day, but time funds were firmer. An additional $2,000,000 gold was engaged for export to France. Business was fairly active in the local money market. Rates were quoted at 6 per cent. Banks and trust companies will be closed to-morrow.

New York exchange was strong, sales being made at 35c premium.

The report of the Clearing-house to-day was as follows:

Day's clearing	$2,013,236
Balance	271,896

There was a little better inquiry reported in the security market to-day, but very little trading was done. Louisville Traction common developed an easier tone at the Stock Exchange, selling at 98½ and 98 and closing at 99 asked, with no bid. However, the supply at current prices appeared to be limited. The preferred was offered a point lower at 115. Louisville and Eastern common and Central Home Telephone were shaded ½ in asked price. In the outside list Kansas City Railway and Light common was stronger and St. Louis United Railways common easy.

At the Stock Exchange $1,000 Louisville Railway 5s were offered at 106¼ and interest. Twenty-five shares of Central Home Telephone were offered at 15. Twenty shares of Louisville Gas were offered at 123. A bid of 60 was made for five shares of Louisville Tobacco Warehouse common and ten were offered at 60¾. Louisville Traction common was twenty shares offered at par, 97¾ bid for ten, 98 bid for ten, ten offered at 99½, 98½ bid for ten, ten sold at 98½ and ten at 98, ten offered at 99, 98 bid for ten and sold. Thirty shares of the preferred were offered at 115. Twenty shares of Louisville and Eastern common were offered at 21½. New Orleans common was 23 bid for twenty shares and 100 offered at 24½.

St. Louis United Railways common closed in St. Louis at 32½ asked, with no bid; the preferred at 67½ to 68½, and the 4s at 81 to 81¼. Kansas City Railway and Light common closed in Chicago at 52 to 54. United Railways Investment preferred sold in New York at 47 and 46 and closed at 45 to 47. Detroit closed at 66 to 68. Subway was 19 to 19½. Giroux at 8¾ to 9 and Crucible Steel common at 7½ bid.

The following are the latest bid and asked prices made for securities on the Stock Exchange:

10 shares Louisville Traction com	98
10 shares Louisville Traction com	98

It was officially announced to-day that the Louisville Railway Company has issued $500,000 of short term notes, of which $300,000 have been disposed of at par to local institutions. The notes are secured by $600,000 of the company's 4½ per cent. bonds, are in denominations of $1,000, bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent., payable semi-annually, dating from June 1, and may be redeemed in part or in whole at the expiration of one year or on any interest date thereafter. The remaining $200,000 will not be sold for some months, the $300,000 being sufficient to take up immediate obligations. The proceeds of the issue will be used to pay for new equipment, for power house improvements and for extensions. The company had hoped to care for betterments and extensions by the sale of common stock, and several weeks ago authorized an increase in the common stock from $12,000,000 to $15,000,000, but the stagnant condition of the security market precluded the sale of new stock at par, the price fixed at the time of authorization, so it was decided to follow the plan so generally adopted by railroad and industrial corporations.

The Citizens' National Bank has declared the regular semi-annual dividend of 4 per cent., payable June 1. The six months' period of the bank's fiscal year drawing to a close has been one of the best in its history.

By September of the current year the stockholders of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company will have paid for additional stock, the proceeds for new construction, approximately $7,000,000. The common stock outstanding at that time will be in the neighborhood of $29,500,000. Within the last three years the company has spent in the neighborhood of $5,000,000 for new construction. The company is receiving great benefits from this outlay of cash.

The railroad price average fell to 99.98, which is only 1.71 above the low point of the year, reached on March 25. The three low swings of the market have been as follows:

	R. R. Av.
March 14	99.71
March 25	98.27
May 27	99.98

It will be observed that the average is now on a level with that of the panic day, March 14. As a matter of fact, however, the records of March 14 and March 25 must be regarded as one swing and the new record now making is therefore the secondary movement.

A suit against the North American Company to restrain it from voting or exercising the right of ownership of the stock of the United Railways Company, the Laclede Gas Light Company and the Union Electric Light and Power Company will be filed within ten days by Circuit Attorney Sager, says a St. Louis dispatch. This one company controls three public utilities—gas and electric light and street car service. Sager's contention is that the North American Company's ownership and control are unlawful. Circuit Attorney Sager says he also will file suit to oust the Laclede Gas Company on the ground that it is violating the anti-trust law of the State.

A proposition has been made by E. W. Clark & Co., of Philadelphia, to build an interurban road from St. Joseph to Atchison, Kas. Clark Bros. own the St. Joseph street railroad system. They have a line to Lake Contrary, from which point they propose to build to Atchison, a distance of seventeen miles. Clark & Co. propose to organize a company, with $1,500,000, to make the extension. They will take half the stock, if St. Joseph bankers will take the other half. A St. Joseph banker is authority for the statement that the proposition will be accepted.

Of the $182,000,000 of Government money in national banks $90,000,000 is secured by the deposit of State, city and railroad bonds, the balance being secured by Government bonds. Of the State and railroad bonds $31,500,000 are on deposit in the Subtreasuries at New York and San Francisco.

About 90 per cent. of perfunctory stock market comment at the moment runs in this wise: "We see nothing on which to bull stocks, and yet we cannot get very bearish after the decline that has taken place. Look for a very dull summer." The one prophecy upon which a great majority of critics are able to agree is that it will be a dull summer. Now, dullness has this in common with a calamity, that it not infrequently fails to come when a majority of people are in the way of expecting it. The stock market has at least as much perversity about it as any other thing, animate or inanimate, and seldom does it do the thing it ought to do, or exactly the thing which too many folks agree that it ought to do. This thing of turning it out to pasture in a 5-point range for the summer may therefore not work. This may be a dull summer in the stock market, in spite of too much expectation that way; but there cannot be the slightest certainty about it.—(Wall Street Journal.

COTTON EXPORTS.

Last week brought up the total of cotton exports to somewhat in excess of 8,000,000 bales, or 2,130,000 bales beyond last year, making an increase of 36 per cent. The total crop in sight was 12,717,000 bales, against 10,773,000 last year. Sight receipts have therefore increased only 1,944,000 bales, against an increase of 2,130,000 bales for export. The rate of sight increase was only 18 per cent. The increase over last year's exports to date was twice as large as the increase in sight receipts to date, showing that foreigners are taking out cotton in larger proportions than a year ago. The takings to the end of April, eight months of the cotton year, were valued at $430,302,865, compared with $331,021,052, or $99,000,000 more than last year.

THE IRON MARKET.

Cleveland, May 29.—The Iron Trade Review to-morrow will say:

"In spite of widespread reports of damages to crops, agricultural implement manufacturers continue as active buyers and orders for steel bars are being placed in even larger tonnages than last year at full prices. This active buying followed a period of marked hesitation. The other buyers, whose attitude has been somewhat in doubt, especially among railroad interests are also more prominent in the market and railroads are urging deliveries of rolling stock. Sales of steel rails for 1908 delivery now on the books of the Illinois Steel Company [illegible] more than 250,000 tons. The Northern Pacific has closed with the Lackawanna Steel Company for 35,000 tons of rails, in addition to the 250,000 tons recently placed with the Illinois Steel Company. The Tennessee [illegible] and Railway Company has closed with the Southern Railway System for 30,000 tons of [illegible] rails for 1908 delivery. The Chesapeake and Ohio has placed a contract for 11,000 tons for 1908 delivery with an [illegible] of the corporation. Other companies have taken large tonnages as heretofore reported and at present inquiries are pending. The present month has been productive of very large orders for structural material, and the prospect for continued demand is excellent. It is estimated that 100,000 tons will be required at Chicago and 90,000 tons at Kansas City before the close of the present year. The demand in other parts of the country is almost as heavy as in these Western cities.

"Buying of pig iron is in smaller volume than for many weeks. There is not the slightest indication of weakness, the small number of transactions being due to the fact that consumers are well supplied and see no necessity for buying further into the future. There is, however, no little interest in the market for the first quarter of 1908, and among the noteworthy inquiries pending is one for 15,000 tons for delivery during that period from a large concern whose product goes to the railroads.

"Questions in regard to labor are attracting considerable attention. The new scale demanded by the Amalgamated Association will be considered at a conference with manufacturers to be held at Toledo June 4. The result is in considerable doubt."

WALL STREET BRIEFS.

New York Central takes over its own terminal construction work from contractors.

London market generally better. Foreign bourses improve and Copper stocks strong, under lead of Rio Tinto.

Atchison will earn 15 per cent. on common this year.

Unfavorable weather seriously affected B. R. T. earnings from Coney Island and other points.

Western roads expect summer grain traffic to break all records.

Colorado and Southern earnings for third week of May increased $28,449.

Twenty active Railroads declined Tuesday .03 per cent.

London settlement concludes to-morrow, then failures may be announced, but nothing of any consequence is expected.

Twelve Industrials advanced Tuesday .02 per cent.

Southern Railway gross earnings for third week of May increased $43,623, and since July 1 have increased $2,427,132.

MARKET LETTERS.

New York.—Early in the afternoon a drive was made at the market with New York Central the particular target which carried prices down around the opening figures, but on the decline a good demand sprang up and the losses were quickly recovered. The announcement that $2,000,000 gold has been engaged for export to-morrow caused a little selling, but the influence was only temporary. Some withdrawals of Government deposits are expected within the next few days which will probably check the outflow of gold. It is believed that a considerable portion of the June disbursements amounting to over $70,000,000 will be reinvested in the better class of stocks. With no unfavorable news over the holiday continuation of improvement seems quite likely. There was less apprehension to-day concerning the President's speech, to be delivered to-morrow at Indianapolis.—(A. O. Brown & Co. to Hunt, Bridgeford & Co.

New York.—There was much short covering in evidence. The important bullish factor was expectation that the President's address to-morrow will show that he is not disposed to promote retroactive legislation against corporations. Sentiment shows distinct improvement, and there has been good absorption of stocks owing to the exceptional opportunities presented at current levels. We think that the short interest is still quite extended, and favor purchases on recessions.—(Ennis & Stoppani to E. H. Morgan & Co.

New York.—Stocks closed strong. Most of the trading was in Union Pacific, although Reading, Pennsylvania, Atchison and others were also strong. It looked like a driving in of shorts. There was little public participation. When the market opens again the public will have had a chance to make up its mind how much importance should be attached to the President's Memorial day address. That it tended to check operations to-day and during most of the week there is no doubt. To-day's weather in the West was better and this no doubt helped sentiment. Foreign bankers this afternoon were predicting larger gold exports later in the week and now they are declaring that the Bank of France is anxious to increase its holdings to a fairly large extent. It has allowed its reserve to run down to a greater extent than has been its wont in former times.—(C. I. Hudson & Co. to S. C. Henning & Co.

New York.—Quite a large amount of gold was engaged for export by to-morrow's steamer, but in spite of this the market is so heavily oversold that it continues to show a very strong tendency right up to the close. If it continues strong for a time, it will doubtless be a sale again, but for the time being we believe that we have had about all the decline we are apt to have. At best, however, we look for an up and down swing in prices, with perhaps steadier conditions, but no bull market for the present.—(Post & Flagg to John W. & D. S. Green.

New York.—The strength developed in the trading reflected good buying that was in the market yesterday more than to-day and much was said about the President's speech to-morrow. With the upturn in prices the room traders were quick to regard all incidents with a bullish view and they joined in helping the upward movement along. London bought about 15,000 shares around the room.—(Ex. Norton & Co. to J. J. B. Hilliard & Son.

New York.—The market enjoyed a further rally to-day on another reduction in the volume of trading; the rally occurring in the natural order of events regardless of news which was bad. The President's speech to-morrow was practically published to-day as far as Wall street is concerned. It argues both ways and is practically a confirmation of the President's attitude heretofore. The outlook seems still to be the same, namely, all rallies should be utilized for the purpose of making short sales until fanatical legislation shall have been officially pronounced insane.—(Miller & Co. to John L. Dunlap.

New York.—The market closed strong on the rumor that the President's speech would be bullish, and better weather in the West. The shorts covered freely in the last half hour.—(Kelley, Miller & Co. to Almstedt Bros.

New York.—Yesterday's good feeling was reflected in to-day's trading and the list had a healthy tone throughout the session. Standard issues were in good demand and outside buying as well as local support showed quite an improvement. The President's speech to-morrow was the one topic of the conversation and sentiment as to the outcome seems about evenly divided. There were no news developments of importance and no feature to the market except for its continued healthiness during the entire session. We would not be surprised to see the list do better should the President's speech not be taken as unfavorable.—(W. L. Lyons & Co.

New York.—A score or more of specialties were marked up on few transactions. The governing influence was favorable on the President's speech, which will be delivered at Indianapolis to-morrow. In fact the bulls claimed that the address would be, indeed, very mild, with a more conservative stand on railroads and corporation matters than heretofore taken by the President. Prices held very well and advanced further in the afternoon session. Traders covered freely in anticipation of the holiday, but business ruled comparatively dull. An engagement of gold for shipment to Paris fell flat as a market influence.—(J. S. Bache & Co. to Washington Flexner & Co.

New York.—The bear party was evidently getting uneasy, as the few drives which they made at the market from time to time were not successful in bringing out any long stock. A gradual covering movement started early in the day, which grew in volume as the day progressed, until the last half hour the shorts were put fairly to flight, and the final market closed strong and active at the best figures of the day, with very notable net gains recorded in the active list. The announcement of some further gold engagements for shipment to Paris were entirely ignored, as was also the further sharp advance in cotton and continued reports of bad damage to the growing cotton crop.—(E. & C. Randolph to E. E. Paine & Co.

STOCK MARKET REVIEW.

New York, May 29.—Money on call easy at 1¾@2 per cent.; ruling rate 1¾; closing bid 1¾; offered at 2; time loans slightly firmer; 60 days 3¾@4; 90 days 3¾@4; six months 4¾@5; prime mercantile paper 5½. Sterling exchange steady, with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.8675@4.8680 for demand and at $4.8350@4.8355 for 60-day bills; posted rates $4.84½ and $4.87½; commercial bills $4.83¼. Bar silver 67⅝c. Mexican dollars 52c. Government bonds heavy. Railroad bonds irregular.

The closing up of accounts was the important influence at work to-day in the stock market. The same influence was effective in London. Here the Decoration day holiday to-morrow was the motive. There the conclusion of a stock market settlement and the lack of verification of rumors current yesterday that failures were to result prompted the covering of short contracts. The imminent holiday took away all inclination among traders here to enter on any new commitments. The fact that the closing up of speculative accounts resulted in more buying than selling of stocks was confirmatory of the impression that the position is largely extended on the short side of the market. The uncertain price movement of wheat, reports of more favorable weather in the crop regions and forecast of needed rains and higher temperature added to the disinclination of shorts to remain uncovered over the holiday.

The sentiment in financial circles was that a sudden change in the prevailing unusual weather conditions might alleviate to an important degree the depression at present ruling in the demand for securities. The engagement of $2,000,000 gold for shipment to France to-morrow did not deter the bears in stocks from proceeding with their movement to cover shorts. This amount was less than was estimated on yesterday, when the first engagement was made, but it belied the assumption of yesterday that no engagement would be made to-day. Discounts receded in London to-day, but conditions bearing on the gold movement were not otherwise materially changed and the question of a further outgo of gold is left open. A rise in copper in the London metal market was a helpful factor for the metal stocks here.

The professional element was influenced in its position to some extent by the cabled advice of an active speculator who has attracted some following in past movements. The speech to be delivered by President Roosevelt at Indianapolis to-morrow was much discussed. Accurate knowledge of the substance of the speech was professed in many quarters, but confidence was less pronounced as to the interpretation to be placed on it in public discussion. There was an element, however, in prompting the covering operations by shorts. Increasing attention is given to the showing of net earnings of railroads for April, as successive reports received indicate correction of the recent excess of the increase of operating expenses over the increase in gross earnings. The Lehigh Valley report for April was the important example to-day and its good showing was a strengthening factor on the coalers generally. It appears that officials of the railroads already reporting for April the growth of 28.01 per cent. in gross earnings leaves an expansion for the net earnings after the increase in operating expenses is allowed for of 9.78 per cent. This showing may be further improved from the effect of advances in freight rates, which were to go into effect in many cases on May 1.

The strength of the day's market in spite of its extreme dullness drove the shorts into something like a scramble at the last and gave the fillip to prices which raised them to the highest of the day but which was not fully maintained to the closing.

Treasury Statement.

Washington, May 29.—To-day's statement of the Treasury balances in the general fund, exclusive of the $150,000,000 gold reserve, shows:

Available cash balance	$254,816,919
Gold coin and bullion	94,023,330
Gold certificates	46,905,180

FOREIGN FINANCIAL.

London, May 29.—Money was in good demand and supply was rather larger in the market to-day. Discounts were easier. On the Stock Exchange the tone was steadier. The belief prevailed that the decline had reached its limit and buyers picked up first-class securities pretty freely, causing a hardening tendency, with consols leading the advance, while the firmness in Paris assisted in the improvement of foreigners. Japanese Imperial 6s of 1904 closed at 102. Irregularity characterized the dealings in Americans until near noon, when good buying steadied the market considerably, the improvement being helped by the better crop news. Later New York sent a firm opening, accompanied by buying orders, and the advance progressed further, the market closing firm. Copper shares were steadily supported. Closing quotations were: Consols for money 84 7-16; do for the account 84½; Anaconda 11⅝; Atchison 90¾; do preferred 96½; Baltimore and Ohio 96⅝; Canadian Pacific 173¼; Chesapeake and Ohio 34; Chicago Great Western 10; Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul 128½; De Beers 26; Denver and Rio Grande 25½; do preferred 71; Erie 21⅝; do first preferred 56; do second preferred 35; Illinois Central 140; Louisville and Nashville 113; Missouri, Kansas and Texas 32½; New York Central 113; Norfolk and Western 76; do preferred 86; Ontario and Western 32⅞; Pennsylvania 61½; Rand Mines 6; Reading 50½; Southern Railway 18¾; do preferred 57; Southern Pacific 78¾; Union Pacific 138⅞; do preferred 92; United States Steel 33⅞; do preferred 100⅝; Wabash 13; do preferred 23; Grand Trunk 28¼; Spanish fours 94⅞. Bar silver quiet at 31 1-16d per ounce. Money 3½@3⅝ per cent. The rate of discount in the open market for both short and three months' bills 3 9-16@3⅝ per cent. India Council bills were allotted to-day at 1s 4 3-32d.

Paris, May 29.—Prices on the Bourse to-day improved, principally owing to the opposition of the Budget committee to the proposed income tax and to the purchase of the Western railroad. Russian Imperial 4s closed at 74.80 and Russian bonds of 1904 at 486. Three per cent. rentes 95f for the account. Exchange on London 25f 13½c for checks.

Berlin, May 29.—There was a slight improvement in prices on the Boerse to-day, but Americans, especially Canadian Pacific, were rather weak. Exchange on London 20 marks 46 pfgs. for checks. Discount rates: Short bills 4 per cent.; three months' bills 4½ per cent.

LEAF TOBACCO.

Wednesday Evening, May 29.—Offerings of leaf tobacco on the local auction breaks to-day were of fair volume and the market continued to show a strong tone. The new Burley was composed mostly of common and low grades, very little good or fine tobaccos being offered. The condition remained about the same as that of yesterday. There was a good demand for most all grades, especially the very common ones. Medium grades ruled firm and unchanged. No special features developed in the old Burley market. There was a good demand and prices were very satisfactory. For dark tobacco the market showed decided strength and activity. The quality and condition of the offerings were fully up to expectation, and all grades, both of fired and unfired types, met with good competition at former prices. Leaf suitable for manufacturing purposes was strong and export leaf met with good request. Lugs remained firm and unchanged. There was very little old dark offered.

Cincinnati Market.

Cincinnati, May 29.—(Special.)—The tobacco market was improved to-day, especially on old tobaccos, colory smokers, medium to fine red and bright leaf being the features of strength. The advance averaged ½c on these types. Total offerings 268 hhds. New—84: 4 at $5.25@5.95; 32 at $6@7.95; 14 at $8@9.20; 24 at $10@11.75; 15 at $12.25@13.75; 5 at $15@16.75. Old—184: 6 at $4@5.10; 30 at $8.20@9.95; 43 at $10@11.75; 72 at $12@14.75; 33 at $15@19.50.

(Reported by the Louisville Live Stock Exchange, Bourbon Stock Yards.)

Louisville, May 29.—Cattle—Receipts to-day were 126 head; for the three days this week 2,455. There were about the usual number of buyers on the yards this morning, but they displayed very little desire to trade, and consequently the fresh supply, although rather light, about equaled the demand. The few choice handy-weight butcher cattle numbered among the receipts were disposed of with more readiness than any other class, and steady values prevailed, but the common and medium kinds were dull and steady figures hard to maintain. Choice feeders in fair request, but other grades hard to sell. Bulls, cows and canners were reported unchanged as to values, but general tone of the trade extremely quiet. Same condition existed as regards the heavy cattle trade. The market closed quiet.

Calves—Receipts of calves 155 head; for the three days 451. The market was mostly unchanged; bulk of best $6@6.25; something extra a shade better; common calves dull.

Hogs—Receipts of hogs to-day were 2,822 head; for the week thus far 7,070. The market was stronger and 5c higher to-day; best, 100 pounds and up, selling at $6.25; lighter weights $5.65; roughs $5.65. Pens well cleared and the market closed steady.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts of sheep and lambs were 1,875 head; for the week so far 5,552. The fat sheep trade ruled firm and higher; bulk of best selling at $5.30@5.60, and not enough coming to satisfy demand. Choice spring lambs also in good request and steady values easily upheld all along the line; common, plain sheep and lambs rather slow at quotations.

(Reported by the Central Live Stock Exchange, Central Stock Yards.)

Louisville, May 29.—Cattle—Receipts moderate. Market quiet, only the fancy butcher heifers meeting with active demand. However, the prices on butcher stuff are about in line with Monday's quotations. Fancy feeders and stockers in fair demand, while the common lightweight, thin stuff is neglected. Bulls and canners in fair demand; prices unchanged. Milch cows of high grade and good flesh are about steady, but the thin light ones are hard to find places for at satisfactory prices. Feeling about steady on the heavy shipping cattle.

Calves—Receipts fair. Market active, best selling at $6.25; others lower, according to quality.

Hogs—Receipts liberal. Market active and 5c higher, 100 lbs. and up selling at $6.25; 100 lbs. and down $5.65; roughs $5.65 down.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts light. Market active, with best fat sheep selling at $5@5.50; top lambs $8.25.

New York.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, May 29.—Additional rains in Kansas and Nebraska caused an early break of nearly a cent a bushel in the price of wheat to-day, but the loss was recovered later on an active general demand. At the close the July option was unchanged from yesterday's final quotations. September was up ⅛c and December was a shade lower. Corn showed a net gain of ⅝@¾c. Oats were up a cent and provisions 7½@12½c higher.

It looked for a time after the opening in the wheat market as if prices were to suffer. Continued wet weather in the wheat belt massed pit traders on the bear side of the market and free selling was indulged in at the start, opening declines ranging from ½@⅞c. Before the first half hour had passed, however, prices had advanced more than a cent on a good demand by several leading commission houses. Later liberal purchases by shorts gave the market additional strength. Near the close the market eased off somewhat on profit-taking and selling by holders who did not wish to retain their lines over the holiday, but the underlying tone of the market was rather firm. A number of damage reports were received to-day, but none of them of a serious nature. Reports of a good export demand for all grains at Toronto was an aid to the local market. The close was about steady. July opened ⅛@⅞c lower at 97⅝@98c, advanced to 99½c and closed at 98½c. September opened ⅝@⅞c lower at 98⅞@99c, advanced to $1.00⅜ and closed at 99⅞c. December opened ⅝@¾c lower at 99⅞c@$1, sold up to $1.01⅝ and closed at $1.00½@1.00⅝. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 280,000 bushels. Primary receipts were 385,000 bushels. The corresponding day last year was a holiday. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 296 cars, against 394 last week.

A big demand by commission houses and cash interests made a strong and active corn market. The opening was rather weak on the improved weather conditions, which caused some selling, but the celerity with which offerings were taken checked this in a hurry and caused many early sellers to reinstate their lines. Small acceptances in the country was one of the chief bull influences. The market closed strong. July opened a shade to ⅛@¼c lower at 53@53⅛c, advanced to 54⅛c and closed at 53⅞c. Local receipts were 176 cars, 64 of contract grade.

Market for oats was active, both July and September being in urgent demand by commission houses and shippers, who were influenced by the large number of damage reports from all sections of the Middle West. A continued small movement also helped to stimulate demand. The close was strong. July opened ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher at 47⅛@47⅜c, sold up to 49¼c and closed at 48⅞c. Local receipts were 99 cars.

Strength of the coarse grain markets caused good buying of provisions and that market was firm, although trading in general was not heavy. At the close July pork was up 7½c at $16.37½, July lard was 12½c higher at $9.20 and July ribs 7½c higher at $8.82½.

Estimated receipts for to-morrow: Wheat 31 cars; corn 506; oats 201; hogs 25,000 head.

The Board of Trade will be closed to-morrow on account of holiday.

GRAIN LETTERS.

Chicago.—There was heavy profit taking on the swells, but every attempt to break the market was unsuccessful. The weather over Thursday will be the most potent factor. However, in view of the damage to date and the possibilities we would rather buy wheat on the setbacks than sell it on the bulges. We can see nothing in the situation to warrant any permanent setback and hence continue to advise the purchase of corn and especially September on all recessions. The situation in oats continues strong and we believe reactions should be taken advantage of to make further purchases.—(E. E. Paine & Co.

Chicago.—The cash wheat demand has shown material improvement here and elsewhere. Cash sales of 50,000 bushels of No. 2 red winter were made here to Eastern millers and as much more in scattered small lots was also closed. Kansas City has quoted high prices for cash wheat. Miller & Co. at Kansas City, estimates the crop 50,000,000 bushels below a perfect condition. This is presumably on the area seeded last fall. Counting the decrease in area, there would be a further decrease. The report is taken to mean about a 65,000,000 bushel crop for Kansas. Foreign markets have not responded to yesterday's break. The buyers were disappointed that prices had not dipped further.—(Hunt, Bridgeford & Co.

Chicago.—Southwestern millers are reported as very much disturbed by the poor wheat supply prospect of the Southwest, and a very bullish report may be forthcoming later. No. 2 Kansas hard wheat sold at $1 a bushel for the first time on the crop at Kansas City. Experts wired from Kansas points that the crop has gone back of late, that the light rains have done little good. Toronto reports big foreign inquiry for wheat, and leaders there say it looks like higher prices. It looks as if the bearish influences of what little rainfall there has been in the West and abroad has been discounted on the recent decline and has the market now in a position for a fresh bull start if former holders attempt to replace long wheat sold out.—(Logan & Bryan to W. L. Lyons & Co.

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL LOUISVILLE, KY.

UNION CARPENTERS DELIVER ULTIMATUM

MUST BE EIGHT-HOUR DAY OR STRIKE.

MUST HAVE GRANTED DEMANDS BY SATURDAY.

MEN WILLING TO ARBITRATE.

Union carpenters will lay down their tools Saturday, provided the contractors do not agree in the meantime to grant the eight-hour day and a wage scale of thirty-seven and one-half cents an hour. The District Council of Carpenters' Unions held a meeting Tuesday night, at which a strike was finally agreed upon, and the contractors were notified of the ultimatum yesterday.

It is likely that a mass-meeting of all the journeymen union carpenters will be held at Germania Hall to-morrow night, but no official announcement to that effect has been given out as yet. At the last mass-meeting of carpenters, held on the night of April 30, a resolution was adopted leaving the entire matter of a strike in the hands of the District Council to be decided. This decision, which has already been made, is final, it is said, unless the contractors agree to arbitrate.

"There is nothing new in the situation further than what has already been told," said a member of the Carpenters' Union yesterday afternoon. "The District Council has put the matter of a strike up to the contractors, and if they fail to heed the warning that has been given them they must suffer the consequences. The union carpenters, to a man, will go on a strike Saturday, June 1, unless the contractors show a disposition to arbitrate the matter before them. If we do go out we will have the support of all the trades' alliances of the city, and that will mean a complete tie-up of building operations until our demands are granted.

"We do not want to do this, as it will be bad for the city, but the blame will all be on the shoulders of the contractors. By granting the eight-hour day they would really lose nothing, as the men would be willing to work harder during the eight hours. At present the men are receiving $3.15 a day for nine hours, and under the new arrangements, as proposed by us, they would receive $3 a day for eight hours. That amount of difference is not enough to break any contractor."

Despite the ultimatum from the journeymen carpenters, the contractors are holding firm and assert that they will not grant the eight-hour day before July 1. They say they have counted on a nine-hour day in making their contracts and that the change to an eight-hour day, beginning June 1 would result in a loss to them.

The union carpenters assert that they are 900 strong. The contractors aver that if the strike is ordered they will have enough loyal men left to enable them to go on with the work for which contracts have already been made.

COMPANY GIVES REASONS FOR CUTTING OFF SERVICE.

The special Telephone Committee of the Commercial Club held a conference with George G. Hall and Ben S. Read, superintendent and manager respectively of the Cumberland Telephone and Telegraph Company, in regard to the recent order of the company stopping the free telephone service from Jeffersonville and New Albany to Louisville. The conference was held at the rooms of the Commercial Club and the telephone officials presented their reasons for the change to the members of the committee fully. They will to-day reduce their statement to writing and send it to the committee.

The members of the committee are R. A. McDowell, chairman; V. H. Engelhard, Pendleton C. Beckley, Allen R. Carter and A. T. Dukes.

Adds Another Company To His General Agency—Arthur G. Langham Appointed General Agent For Kentucky of the Calumet Insurance Company of Illinois.

A contract was signed yesterday by the vice president of the Calumet Insurance Company and Arthur G. Langham, who was appointed general agent for the State of Kentucky for this company.

The Calumet is one of the companies that weathered the San Francisco storm and has settled all its losses, the stockholders furnishing $500,000 for this purpose. The company has assets of about $900,000 with a policyholders' surplus of $350,000.

All agents in the State will report to Mr. Langham after June 1, 1907.

RENEWS EFFORT TO LAND CONVENTION

BOARD OF TRADE DIRECTORS START JOINT COMMITTEE.

WILL WORK TO GET NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC MEETING.

LOUISVILLE'S CHANCES GOOD.

Action was taken by the Board of Trade directors at their regular weekly meeting yesterday at noon looking toward getting the National Democratic Convention for Louisville in 1908, when a committee was named to confer with like committees from other commercial organizations in the city to decide on a plan of action.

The Board of Trade first took up the project to secure the National Democratic Convention for Louisville next year and sent a committee, headed by Gen. John B. Castleman, to New York to present Louisville's claims before the National Democratic Committee. Louisville was given a further boost several weeks ago, when Thomas Taggart, chairman of the National Democratic Committee, was guest of the directors of the Commercial Club at a dinner at The Seelbach and afterward at the annual meeting of the club at the Galt House. Mr. Taggart told the members of the club what inducements a city wanting to entertain the convention must offer and dropped a hint that Louisville is being favorably considered.

Discussion of plans for getting the convention occupied most of the session of the Board of Trade directors yesterday. By virtue of a resolution President W. W. Hite appointed a special committee, consisting of Capt. John H. Leathers, Congressman Swagar Shirley, Gen. John B. Castleman, Marion E. Taylor, E. H. Bowmen and Col. W. B. Haldeman, to confer with similar committees from other commercial organizations for the purpose of deciding on a definite plan of action. The members of the directorate were enthusiastic over Louisville's chances and believe that it is not too early now to go to work.

The Commercial Club, the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, the Retail Merchants' Association and the city administration will probably be invited to name committees, and a general meeting will be held soon to discuss the questions.

One of the most important things to be done is the raising of a fund to guarantee the expenses of the convention, and as a nucleus for this fund the Commercial Club has already pledged $5,000. It is believed that the necessary amount can be secured without trouble.

The directors of the Board of Trade believe that the members of the National Democratic Committee are naturally inclined to vote for Louisville and that this city can get the convention if the proper effort is made.

PAINFULLY BURNED IN GAS STOVE EXPLOSION.

Mrs. Emma Schroder May Suffer Permanent Injuries To Her Eyes—Recovery Expected.

Mrs. Emma Schroder, of Twenty-fourth street and Griffiths avenue, was seriously burned by the explosion of her gas stove yesterday afternoon. She was burned about the face, arms and hands, and so badly were her eyes seared that her physician, Dr. W. M. Dwyer, said yesterday afternoon that her sight may be permanently impaired.

Mrs. Schroder was heating a meal for her son when the explosion occurred. Defective connections allowed the gas to escape, it is believed, and caused the explosion. Frank Schroder, the son, hastened to his mother and kept the flames from catching in her clothing. He immediately called a physician. Mrs. Schroder is in a very serious condition, but with the exception of possible permanent injury to her eyes, it is expected that she will recover.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS TO GIVE A PLAY.

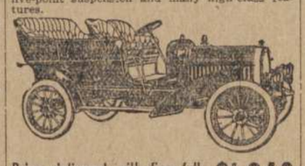

The Senior Class of the Girls' High School will present its play, "An International Romance," Friday evening, May 31, at 8 o'clock, in the chapel of the school, at Fifth and Hill streets. This has become an annual event, which is looked forward to with much pleasure by parents and public, as well as pupils. The play to be produced to-morrow evening was written by the following graduates in this year's class: Misses Alden Mattingly, Betty-Brooke Smith, Edith Isaacs, Eugenia Rawls and Marguerite Lorenz.

Active rehearsals have been going on for some weeks, and as the play is said to be unusually bright and attractive and the cast has been well-selected, an interesting evening is promised. No admission will be charged, but souvenir programmes will be sold.

PARTIAL ORGANIZATION

EFFECTED BY NORMAL SCHOOL ALUMNI ASSOCIATION.

Prof. W. J. McConathy Chosen President and Instructed To Appoint By-Laws Committee.

Pursuant to a call by Prof. W. J. McConathy, principal of the Normal School, a meeting of the graduates of the school was held yesterday afternoon and preliminary arrangements for the permanent organization of an alumni association were made. The meeting was held at 4 o'clock, in the school building, on Market street, between Clay and Hancock. Since the founding of the school, in 1872, there have been 1,000 graduates from the school. About fifty were present yesterday afternoon.

After calling the meeting to order, Prof. McConathy explained the purpose of the proposed alumni association. He said that by having such an organization the graduates and teachers of the public schools in Louisville will meet frequently and be able to exchange ideas regarding the manner in which a school room should be conducted. In this manner, he declared, the method of teaching in Louisville public schools can be brought to a high mark. Advanced and modernized suggestions regarding teaching will be encouraged at the meetings of the organization.

By unanimous vote yesterday Prof. McConathy was elected president, Miss Katie Keating secretary and Miss Marion Curry chairman of the association. Prof. McConathy was appointed to select a committee which is to draw up the constitution and by-laws, and also outline the method of work in the future. This committee will make its report at the next meeting, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon of June 13. Prof. McConathy will appoint the committee within the next few days.

REAL ESTATE DEALERS MAY FIGHT NEW LICENSE FEE.

Executive Committee of Local Association Retains Attorneys To Consider Matter of Test Case.

Local real estate dealers are planning to fight the payment of the $25 license fee for the privilege of doing business, as provided by an act of the last Legislature. A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Louisville Real Estate Association was held yesterday afternoon at the offices of the Fidelity Trust Company and the question was fully discussed. Decision was finally reached to retain the law firm of Hines, Chandler & Norman to look into the matter and decide whether a test of the law shall be made.

A test case is now before the Court of Appeals, having come up from out in the State. It is to be determined whether to prosecute another appeal or not. Real estate dealers in Louisville are now paying a license fee of $25 to the city, and object to the additional increase.

BIG CROWD EXPECTED TO HEAR OPIE REID.

A rare treat has been arranged for the evening of May 31 in Hopkins Theater by the favorite humorist Opie Reid, who will tell his droll stories and give recitals of great pathos and power, the occasion being a benefit for the Union Gospel Mission. The ladies in charge of the evening with Opie Reid confidently count upon a large attendance for this good cause.

Selecting a Stove Very Important.

In selecting a gas range, great care should be used to get the best, as with proper use it will last a lifetime. There are many good Gas Ranges now on the market, but we wish to call especial attention to our "New Process," which has many desirable features not found on any other stove. You would like any kind of gas stove, but if you had used all the different kinds, you would prefer a "New Process" Range. It is made in many styles and sizes to meet the demands of every kitchen. It is planned for convenience, the ovens being the right size and height for baking. The top burners can be lifted out, leaving the top of the stove clear of obstruction for cleaning. The burners are scientifically constructed and will give the greatest amount of heat for gas consumed, and is consequently economical to use. Only the very best quality of workmanship and materials enter into its construction. All parts that are liable to wear or burn out, are made especially strong, making the stove very durable.
